$28,750 RAISED IN TRADE BOARD DRIVE FOR CITY

Initial Dinner Discloses More Than Half of Quota Met.

FLEMING SEES NEED FOR GREATER SUM

Capital to Be Advertised and Conventions Brought Here for Sessions.

Announcement that $28,750 of the minimum quota of $55,000 set for the Washington promotional campaign of the greater National Capital committee of the Board of Trade has already been subscribed was made last night by Robert V. Fleming, chairman of the committee, at a dinner at the Willard.

The dinner, marking the formal initiation of the campaign, was attended by approximately 150 men, including members of the committee, leading business representatives of the city and the District Commissioners.

Confidence was expressed by representatives of the various business activities that the minimum quota of $55,000 will be raised within a short time. Each business group has been allotted a quota, and committees have been appointed in each separate group to see that these quotas are subscribed.

Greater Sum Needed.

The $28,750 already raised represents the partial subscriptions of a number of the groups. The total is expected to be swelled by several thousands by next Thursday when the greater National Capital committee holds a luncheon meeting at the Willard.

Mr. Fleming, who presided last night, stated that the $55,000 represents but half of the sum that will really be needed to put the campaign in full swing. He tempered this disclosure with the statement that the minimum quota of $55,000 will be sufficient as a working fund, and one that will go a long way toward putting the machinery in motion for the first year of the campaign. This is 1932.

Mr. Fleming also announced that it is the ultimate intention of the committee to develop the promotional campaign into on of five years. Impetus, that should compensate for two years ordinary work, will be given the campaign through the George Washington Bicentennial because of the large number of organizations that have already planned to hold conventions in the National Capital in 1932, Mr. Fleming pointed out.

Objective of Committee.

Ward Marsh, executive manager of the campaign, announced that the first objective of the committee will be the bringing of more conventions to the city and making preparations for the reception of the visiting organizations. Literature concerning Washington is to be distributed throughout the country, and an information service bureau that will not conflict with other services of a similar nature already functioning in the city will be established with in a short time, he said.

One of the chief obstacles to be overcome, the campaign committee decided, will be to erase the opinion reported to prevail throughout the country that Washington is an expensive place in which to live and that it is an uncomfortable place in which to reside in the summer time.

Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, brought this home to the committee. Mr. Thorpe also observed that the ultimate objective in bringing conventions to a city should be to establish more home owners. He also advocated a unified effort on the

Zain Ad Competition Starts With Big Rush

Inquiries Pouring in Show Washington Is Eager to Enlist in Writing Advertisements to Win $10,000 in Prizes.

All Washington is going Zain!

The Post's announcement of $10,000 in prizes for writing a few ads has brought in a flood of inquiries from people harboring a suppressed desire. They want to write advertising. And The Post is going to show them how.

The Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest, which opened yesterday, is open to everybody everywhere, with the exception, of course, of advertising experts and newspapermen. The contest is for amateurs only.

All you have to do is sit down and dash off that advertising idea you've had for so long. Write it about any one or more of the 35 business concerns who are cooperating with The Post for the seven weeks of the contest. You can write as many ads about as many of the firms as you want to.

Each week of the contest The Post will award $100 for the best ad submitted and about 175 individual prizes in merchandise for the runners-up. And at the close of the contest there will be a grand award of $1,000 in cash for the best ad in the entire seven weeks.

We think the public can write ads as well as read them, and that is why we are adopting this unique plan of promoting interest in ad writing, ad reading and, first and foremost, boosting Washington business.

The Post believes, with intelligent business interests, that now is the time to buy; that now is the time to learn something about the firms from which you buy, and what they have for you to buy. And we think the key to it all is in writing an ad or two yourself.

It is a simple thing, this ad writing. Just take a piece of paper and a pencil. A moment's thought and the

DOUBLED NIGHT POLICE FORCE WARS IN CRIME

Patrolmen Will Work Overtime on Two of Daily Schedules.

SHIFT IN DEPARTMENT IS STUDIED BY PRATT

Unemployment Conditions Partly Blamed for Increased Wave.

A doubled force of police will continue to patrol the streets of the National Capital at night as the answer of the police department to the activities of experienced and inexperienced criminals in Wasnington.

Doubling of the patrol force at night has been achieved by an order by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, requiring policemen to work overtime on two of the three eight-hour daily shifts.

Inaugurated last Saturday with the coming of 125,000 visitors to the National Capital for the Easter holiday, the extra duty order will be continued in effect until the recent increase in crime in Washington has been beaten down and conditions have improved to such an extent that Maj. Pratt believes it will be practicable to return his force to the eight-hour work day approved by Congress.

A considerable shifting about in the Police Department is under study by Maj. Pratt and his assistants, and it is expected that Assistant Superintendent William S. Shelby, who commands the Detective Bureau, will be called on to aid in working out details of the contemplated changes.

Will Relinquish Post.

Inspector Shelby is to relinquish command of the Detective Bureau on July 1 to take a more general supervisory post as a sort of lieutenant colonel to Maj. Pratt's colonel, to employ a descriptive term used by Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby.

Acting Capt. Edward J. Kelly will take active command of the Detective Bureau during the time Inspector Shelby is engaged in preparation of orders and plans for the forthcoming changes.

Maj. Pratt yesterday refused to discuss the probable duration of his extra duty order beyond admitting that an increase in crime in Washington recently justify its continuance for the time being.

"Due to unemployment, the general economic conditions and the number of persons out of work and the number who come here looking for work, we have expected there would be an increase in the number of crimes here, as his been the experience of other cities," Maj. Pratt said.

Moving to Meet Conditions.

"In ordering our men on extra duty we simply are moving to meet a condition resulting from the advantage taken by criminals of the situation. I am not going to say how long the order will be continued.

"I do not wish to alarm the people of Washington by any statement of a sensational headline character. Though there has been some increase in crime here recently, everyone should bear in mind, in comparing crime figures for Washington with those for other cities, that because of our laws we group under the charge of housebreaking—or burglar-

RASKOB'S POLL STIRS DISCORD IN COMMITTEE

Dixie Democratic Chiefs Demand Prohibition Be Subordinated.

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS FIRST, SAYS SENATOR

Nebraskan Thinks National Group Will Follow Chairman.

(Associated Press.)

Discord within the Democratic party on prohibition broke out afresh yesterday over the letter from Chairman Raskob polling members of the national committee on their views toward his plan to modify the eighteenth amendment.

A number of Southern party leaders immediately renewed their demands for subordinating prohibition to economic issues in the 1932 campaign and went forward with their plans to block adoption of the Raskob platform. They said they regarded the chairman's letter, made public Sunday, as an attempt to commit the national organization before its meeting next winter.

"Economic problems must have first place in any Democratic program," said Senator Hull, of Tennessee, a former chairman of the national committee, and a leader of the group opposing Raskob's economic and prohibition views.

Would Exclude Other Issues.

Senator Hull characterized Mr. Raskob's letter as "a strenuous attempt to make prohibition not only a partisan issue, but a paramount partisan issue, which automatically would, for an indefinite number of years, exclude serious or deliberate consideration of all other issues and problems by party agencies, no matter how vital and pressing."

"Chairman Raskob's references to other questions impresses one as being minor and parenthetical," Senator Hull added.

The Tennessee senator advanced unemployment, agricultural depression, tariff restriction on foreign trade, and the Treasury deficit as problems the party should face and stress. He expressed confidence in the final judgment of the national committee on party policies.

Called for Repudiation.

Representative Ayres, of Kansas, another member of the same party group and a prohibitionist, said he had little doubt the national committee would favor Raskob's prohibition views. The Kansan recently called for repudiation, if necessary, of party leaders advocating prohibition as a dominant issue in 1932.

He added, however, he knew some of the committeemen did not represent the views of their States because they were elected in 1928 when former Gov. Smith of New York was the candidate, and were not selected to settle party policies such as those advanced by Raskob.

Declaring he had no comment to make on the wisdom of Mr. Raskob's suggested course, Senator Walsh, of Montana, said the chairman's prohibition plan was in effect "plainly a proposal to repeal the eighteenth amendment."

Proposal to Mean Repeal.

"He proposes, as I understand it," Senator Walsh said, "not the repeal

Increase in Veterans' Hospitals and Larger Navy Urged by O'Neil

Plea, Planned for Next Congress, Would Add to Budget.

Speech Sure to Agitate Experts Trying to Solve Deficit.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Within a week after President Hoover's plea that "group interests" refrain from making special demands on the Treasury in order to forestall a tax increase, Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, advocates a program of legislation that is bound to swell the budget of the Veterans Bureau for the fiscal year of 1933.

In a speech before the Alexandria, Va., Post of the American Legion last night, Commander O'Neil outlined the program that is to be urged on the Seventy-second Congress when it meets here in December.

The program follows:

Legislation to relieve the distress of dependent children of veterans who lie helpless in hospitals.

Legislation to aid the widows and orphans of veterans.

Immediate construction of the veterans' hospital authorized by the last Congress.

Passage of legislation providing for the building up of the Navy to the strength allowed by the London naval treaty.

RALPH T. O'NEIL.

Legislation to boost the compensation of World War veterans to the same level as the compensation of Sapniah War veterans.

Commander O'Neil's Alexandria speech is certain to agitate President Hoover and those Treasury experts, who are now trying to figure out how the country can overcome the deficit

GRILLING FREES MARINE HELD IN THORNE KILLING

Floyd Bennett, 25, Cable Splicer, Not Involved, Police Say.

TWO BAND MEMBERS WILL FACE INQUEST

Liberated Man Sentenced by Courtmartial, on Slain Soldier's Charge.

Grilled for more than three hours last night, a former marine was released after he had proved to the satisfaction of Washington and Prince Georges County authorities that he was not implicated in the mysterious murder of Private Emanuel Thorne, 25 years old, of the Marine Barracks here.

The man was Floyd Bennett, 25 years old, a cable splicer of the Potomac Electric Power Co., whose name had figured prominently in the case throughout yesterday when Marine Corps records disclosed that he had served a nine months' jail sentence and had been dishonorably discharged from the Marine Corps on the testimony of Thorne.

The seizure and subsequent release of Bennett came as the major development in the widespread investigation into the slaying of Thorne, whose bullet-riddled body was found Saturday in Greater Capitol Heights, Md., in a shallow grave, about 300 yards behind the home of Marine Bandsman Vincent Selbicky, 45-year-old tuba player.

Two Others Being Held.

Both Selbicky and a clarinet player in the Marine Band, Carl Schaefer, 26 years old, of Hamilton street near Seventh street northwest, who had been arrested on blanket charges of investigation in connection with the case, were held at the [illegible] in Upper Marlboro, Md., to face an inquest likely to be held by the end of this week.

"We have questioned Bennett at length and have decided definitely that he had no connection with the crime, so we're letting him go and don't intend to question him again," declared Deputy Sheriff Thomas Garrison, of Prince Georges County, at the release of the man. No charges had been placed against him.

He had been interrogated by a group of Washington police officials including Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police; Police Inspector William S. Shelby; Acting Capt. Edward Kelly and Detective Sergt. John Flaherty, of the homicide squad.

Seized at Capital Home.

Bennett was taken in custody at his home on C street near Fifteenth street southeast after a series of developments during the day in which authorities worked on the theory that Thorne had been slain as an act of revenge.

The new angles included the interrogation of several Marines stationed at the Barracks, the reported discovery of an abandoned automobile near the grave, the collapse of a belief that a found revolver was the death pistol, and the inauguration of efforts to release Selbicky.

Marine Corps records showed that Thorne, absent without leave from the barracks since January 17, and Bennett both had worked in the kitchen there, the former on general duty and the latter as a baker. There they formed a friendship which led Bennett on several occasions to accede to requests of Thorne to deposit money of the latter in a savings bank here.

Given Dishonorable Discharge.

Bennett was court-martialed at the barracks in May, 1929, when Thorne testified as principal witness that his savings bank account had been drawn on by Bennett. A dishonorable discharge was meted out to Bennett and he was sentenced to serve nine months at the disciplinary barracks at the Marine Base at Parris Island, S. C.

Bennett, a native of Peetz, Colo., where his parents now reside, has been a cable splicer in this city since his release from the Marine jail on February 15, 1930. Shortly before he was court-martialed he was married to a Washington girl in an elopement to Marlboro. They have a small baby. He was taken into custody when he returned home from work late yesterday afternoon, by Washington authorities.

Mrs. Bennett, his wife, told newspapermen last night that she also

ENGLAND PROPOSES PARLEY TO GERMANY

Bruening, Curtius Invited to London; Paris Not Pleased by Act.

London, April 6 (A.P.).—The British government has invited Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany, to come to London soon for a general discussion of problems affecting the two countries.

Official quarters are closed for the Easter holiday. The real significance of the invitation was not disclosed.

When Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson was conferring with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand in Paris recently, it was said he expressed regret that German representatives were not included because there were several matters he wanted to discuss with them. The invitation to the German officials then followed.

Reports from abroad were that Briand also has been invited, but in such official circles as were approachable tonight surprise was expressed since it was felt Mr. Henderson had concluded his business with the French foreign minister during his Paris visit.

The assumption therefore is that only the German representatives will come—probably next month.

Berlin, April 6 (A.P.)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius were said today to approve the British government's suggestion for a Franco-British-German conference in London on "all matters affecting the relations of these nations."

Authorities close to the government told the Associated Press that the matter of fixing a date for the parley was the only difficulty envisaged here, Bruening's and Curtius' schedules being filled for the rest of April.

Hope was expressed that Foreign Minister Aristide Briand will find his way clear to attend as the representative of France. The British suggestion frankly was welcomed in official circles as paving the way for a general ironing out of all misunderstandings arising from the Austro-German customs accord.

Paris, April 6 (U.P.).—Surprise was expressed at the foreign office today at the invitation of the British government to Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, to go to London for a conference. The British government wishes the German statesmen to confer with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary.

A report from London said that the British hoped that Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, also would attend. The foreign office described the report as "improbable," and declared that Briand had no intention of proceeding to London.

It was presumed here that any Anglo-German conversations would deal with preparations for the world arms parley in February of next year.

BROWN CALLS G.O.P. IN DIXIE FOR HOOVER

Renomination Next Year by Acclamation Predicted by Cabinet Member.

(Associated Press.)

Renomination of President Hoover by acclamation in 1932 was predicted yesterday by Postmaster General Brown on his return from a trip through the South, where there have been recent reports of an anti-Hoover revolt.

The Postmaster General, one of the Prsident's closest political advisors, said he had conferred with Republican leaders in a number of Southern States and had found no evidence of substantial opposition to renomination of Mr. Hoover.

Col. Horace Mann, one of the Southern leaders of the Republican campaign in 1928, recently claimed the South would send a solid delegation of 232 votes to the Republican convention demanding a new order in politics. His claim was interpreted as an anti-Hoover movement.

"President Hoover will be renominated by acclamation," Mr. Brown said. "There will be no opposition to his renomination in the Republican party.

"I talked with Republican leaders in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia and received some information of political conditions in Alabama and Louisiana.

"Southern Republicans will enthusiastically support Mr. Hoover's renomination. I found no evidence of the movement Col. Mann is said to be fostering."

The Postmaster General said the regular Republican Southern organizations were vigorous and well able to take care of themselves against any opposition movement.

"I don't know where there is any considerable insurgent sentiment. Whatever insurgency there is in the South is merely a question of rival leadership, with no hostility to Mr. Hoover," he said.

Former Ruler Leads Raiders to Elks' Home

Jersey City, N. J., April 6 (U.P.).—Six detectives from the Hudson County prosecutor's office dropped in at the Elks lodge tonight just as James F. Kennedy was about to be installed as exalted ruler and carried away some liquid which they described as intoxicating.

It was quite a surprise to the 4,000 members, who were even more surprised when they learned the raid had been made on a warrant sworn to by Daniel Powers, a former exalted ruler. Powers' motives in the matter were as mysterious as the Elks ritual.

Long Series of Thefts Reported.

A systematic looting of the University Shop, on Ninth street near E northwest, has been under way for the last two months, Louis Rosenthal reported to police yesterday. He estimated his loss from theft at $1,000.

BOOK BLAMES LENIN IN CZAR'S EXECUTION

Only Personal Ambition of Entire Life Fulfilled, Author Asserts.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Ferdinand Ossendowski, in a book entitled "Lenin, God of the Godless," to be published tomorrow by E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., asserts that Lenin himself ordered the execution of Czar Nicholas II.

Ossendowski says that after the execution Lenin was calm and his mind was at ease, although "curses and prophesies of disaster from the whole world, raged around him." The execution of the czar and his family, says Ossendowski, fulfilled the "only personal ambition" of Lenin's entire life.

Lenin placed the whole matter, Ossendowski relates, in the hands of the Ekaterinburg Chekist Yurovsky (the council in Ekaterinburg) and directed that telegraphic notification be sent to Moscow as to the time set for the execution.

French Gold Suit Seeks Soviet Cash

U. S. Court Jury Is Chosen to Try Replevin Case Against Banks.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—A jury was chosen in Federal Court today to decide if the Bank of France is entitled to replevin $5,000,000 from two American banks which refused to relinquish that amount in gold bars which had been sent here in 1928 by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics Immediately after it was completed the jury was excused until tomorrow, when the actual trial of the suit is to begin.

The Bank of France claims the Soviets illegally seized the gold during the Russian revolution in 1917. It was sent to America to be sold to the United tSates Assay Office through the Chase National Bank and the Equitable Trust Co.

Sale of it was halted, however, by the suit. The Soviet Government posted cash indemnity to insure the American banks against loss, and the gold was returned to Russia.

FALL LOSES APPEAL; NEW PLEA UNLIKELY

Retrial Denied in Bribe Case; Blackmer's Conviction Upheld by Court.

Three Rivers, N. Mex., April 6 (A.P.).—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, said tonight it was "remotely possible but not probable" he would appeal to the Supreme Court from today's decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals affirming his conviction of accepting a bribe.

(Associated Press.)

The appeal of Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, from a sentence of a year in jail and a $100,000 fine for accepting an oil bribe was denied yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

At the same time, the court affirmed the conviction of Harry M. Blackmer, former official of the Midwest Refining Co., who was fined $60,000 for contempt of court in refusing to return from France to testify for the Government in the celebrated oil trials of Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, a wealthy oil man.

Whether the decision against the 69-year-old Fall, an invalid, who has secluded himself on his New Mexico ranch, will be appealed to the Supreme Court was not announced. His counsel, Frank J. Hogan, was in Europe, but was informed immediately by cable of the court's action. The conviction of Blackmer will be appealed.

The Court of Appeals has fifteen days to invoke the mandate which might send Fall to the penitentiary. Should a writ of certiorari be sought from the Supreme Court—for which three months is allowed—steps might be taken to keep the former Interior Secretary out of prison pending the highest court's decision.

Fall was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny, millionaire oil promoter, to influence his signing of a lease on the naval oil reserves at Elk Hills, Calif. The court yesterday overrode virtually every objection advanced by Fall's attorneys to his conviction in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The decision against Blackmer likewise was a sweeping affirmation of his conviction by the lower court. Associate Justice Charles H Robb, who wrote the opinion, contended Blackmer must have known his testimony would be wanted when he left the country in 1924. The former

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Now that the fields are growing green again, the thoughts of many will be turned to the flowing streams. At heart we are all fishermen. Some of us never had a chance to practice the art, some have known it only through the use of expensive rods and fancy tackle, on elaborate artificial preserves. But the real fisherman associates the sport with a barefooted boyhood, where pole, bait, stream and the alder branch on which the fish were strung were all the product of nature. Only the hook and line were commercial. With the bending rod and sparkling water such men can redeem the joy and peace of their youth. But those to whom the pleasure of such memories is forever closed can not fail to find a lure and charm in the gentle art. The open country, the unhurried silence, the refreshing leisure are a stimulation to the body and a benediction to the soul. Even the imagination expands and the credulity is disciplined in telling and listening to adventure with rod and reel. There is something natural, homely, wholesome and unspoiled about fishermen which we shall all do well to cultivate.

U. S. Submarine Nautilus Sets Navy Record for Dive

New Undersea Craft Goes Down 336 Feet, Smashing Mark of Her Sister Ship, the V-5; Communication Is Kept Up.

Portsmouth, N. H., April 6 (A.P.).—The fleet submarine Nautilus (V-6) went deep-sea diving today and set a new record for the United States Navy. The craft reached a depth of 336 feet, 4 feet deeper than her sister ship, V-5, went in a similar test last October.

The course was between Boone Island and the Isles of Shoals, and throughout the test which lasted nearly three hours, the Nautilus was in touch with the submarine rescue ship Falcon by means of an underwater sound and listening device.

Stops were made at various depths. At 60 feet the ship rested three-quarters of an hour; at 180 feet, 20 minutes; at 238 feet, 5 minutes, and at 283 feet, 10 minutes.

At depths ranging from 313 feet to the record drop, tests of pumps were made. All machinery was carefully observed, pumps were operated and sea pressure put on in a torpedo-tube door in both the forward and after torpedo rooms.

The entire test, under the supervision of Lieut. Comdr. Thomas J. Doyle, in charge of the craft, and Commander E. L. Cochrane, superintendent of new construction at Portsmouth Navy Yard, was carried out without a hitch.

The Nautilus traveled 5,500 miles from the Pacific Coast to make the test. Also aboard were 5 officers of the industrial department several draftsmen and the ships complement of 80 men and 8 officers.

Immediately after the test was made, the Nautilus headed for the

30,847 Brave Drizzle To Visit White House

Visitors Make Way Into Grounds for Easter Egg-Rolling; Boy, Anxious to See President, Falls and Breaks Arm.

A cold rain yesterday dampened White House lawns and Capital parkways, but not the spirit of Washington children. Sporting with vari-colored eggs on every green plot, they kept alive the Easter tradition.

Despite chill wind and steady drizzle, 30,847 of the undismayed children and their adult guardians made their way into the White House grounds, others thronged the Zoological gardens, while picnic groups braved the weather to roll eggs in other parks.

The White House merrymakers numbered 18,000 less than last year, but they were no less happy. Peggy Ann, 6, and Herbert Hoover 3d, 3, themselves hosts at a smaller Easter party inside the White House, accompanied their grandmother out of doors to see the fun.

President Hoover twice appeared at the portico to wave a greeting to his guests. Ten-year-old Samuel Jackson, of Muskeegon, Mich., was so excited at the prospect of viewing the Chief Executive that he slipped and broke his arm on the wet ground. He was removed to Emergency Hospital, where the arm was set.

There were other minor mishaps, more speedily remedied by attentive mothers. For the most part umbrellas were discarded, while laughing, shrieking children rolled eggs across the lawn to their playmates, hurled eggs through the air, or "pecked" with them.

A half a block from the White a lively "racket" was in progress, unbenownst to the White House police force. For a nickel, or a quarter, small boys, white as well as byack, escorted tourist adults into the White House grounds. Once inside, the youthful racketeers abandoned "guardians" and returned for more customers.

Mrs. Hoover was an interested spectator of much of the merrymaking.

"We'd hoped there would be lots of sunshine," she said.

The First Lady thanked girl and boy lookouts for helping in minor catastrophes, and added, "I'm sorry there was not better weather, so you could have had more lost children to find."

She greetted shouts of the children with "Welcome," and "Glad to see you," as she pointed out familiar groups to Peggy Ann and "Peter," as Herbert 3d is called.

About 200 children of official families were guests of the presidential grandchildrend indoors. Sons an daughters of Cabinet members and high Government officials were served ice cream and cake and later went out on the south portico to watch the sport.

Throughout the morning and early afternoon, the White House visitors were entertained with folk dances,

First Bridge Tournament Stirs Interest of Players

Responses Thus Far in The Washington Post's Contest Assure Success of First Annual Event; Practice Teams Are Being Organized.

The first annual tournament of Washington bridge players is assured of success.

This fact is made evident by the enthusiastic responses that have been elicited by the announcement made last Sunday in The Washington Post, which is sponsoring the event.

Not only is the popularity of the forthcoming event attested by the formal applications for entrance, but also by telephone and personal calls for information. While all the informal applications will be listed, it is better that those desiring to enter the tournament fill out and send in to the Bridge Editor of The Post the regular blanks to the end that there may be no mistakes made in registering the prospective players in the form of game they wish to play, whether contract or auction, and in the classification they desire.

Requests for information concerning the various features of the contest, the rules and methods to be employed will be taken up and answered as rapidly as opportunity is afforded, but in ample time to afford entrants a chance to acquaint themselves with the requirements which in themselves can easily be met.

One form of request comes from pairs who are anxious to arrange with other pairs in the formation of teams to enter the tournament as such. They are desirous of "getting together" for practice purposes. The committee on arrangements, of which A. Philip Stockvis, of the New Shoreham, is chairman, will communicate had known Thorne, but that neither she nor her husband had seen the man since the court-martial. She awaited him at police headquarters last night when he was released.

Gunnery Sergeant Questioned.

While Bennett was being grilled, police welcomed a visitor who arived alone and who was slipped secretly out of a back door to avoid questioning by newspapermen. He was identified as Gunnery Sergt. Earl S. Lachenmaier, attached to the Marine Barracks, who is said to have admitted yesterday to a small group at the barracks that he "knew plenty."

Lachenmaier was one of the several Marines who had been summoned to appear at an unheralded quiz conducted at the barracks in the early afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Garrison, with the sanction of the commanding officer there, Col. R. R. (Wold Bill) Wallace.

EXTRA FORCE BEGINS NEW WAR ON CRIME

ies, as they often are called in the newspapers—many acts which are not so classed by other cities, and the same thing is true of robbery and other felonies.

"While the number of crimes shown by our records may be high, it is true that the percentage of cases solved and closed is very high in comparison with the records of other large cities."

Report on Crime.

Inspector Shelby made public a compilation showing that there had been reported in the District since January 1, 20 murders, of which 17 had been closed; 190 robberies, of which 60 had been closed; 73 cases of assault with a dangerous weapon, of which 53 had been closed, and 553 cases of housebreaking, most of which were petty cases, and 122 of which had been closed.

Of the three killings since January 1 which still are open on the police books, one is that of Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes, who was shot in a holdup last Friday at the Garden T Shoppe at 1835 Columbia road northwest; J. H. Lane, a street car motorman, who was shot recently when he resisted a hold-up was another, and the third was the shooting of Mrs. Anna May Baker, who was shot by her husband, Albert C. Baker, for whom the police are searching.

Although many of the crimes recorded in the police books are committed by persons definitely classed as criminals by police, a considerable number, police officials say, are the work of amateurs so far as serious crime is concerned. The opinion has been expressed by police officials that the shooting of Mrs. Jaynes was the work of inexperienced hold-up men, one of whom fired a shot because of his nervousness.

Retired Phiysician Ends Life in Florid

Dr. Kingsley, Rome, N. Y., Industrialist, Found Dead by Shot.

Palm Beach, Fla., April 6 (A.P.).—Dr. W. L. Kingsley, 65, retired physician and one of the leading industrialists of Rome, N. Y., was found dead in his fashionable winter home here today with a bullet wound in his head. Authorities said he had committed suicide.

Dr. Kingsley, who was a member of nine clubs in Rome, New York City, London, Paris and Palm Beach, took an active part in social functions here during the winter and traveled abroad in the summer. He gave large Christmas parties for the children of Palm Beach and West Palm Beach each year.

He and his father operated a private hospital at Rome, N. Y., until a few years ago. He was formerly president of the Rome Manufacturing Co. and a director of the Revere Brass & Copper Co., Rome Tube Works, Rome Metal Works, Rome Locomotive Machine Works and chairman of the board of the Farmers National Bank & Trust Co. of Rome. His widow, Mrs. Lucy Stevens Kingsley, survives.

while newspaper and moving picture cameramen scrambled to photograph the dancers from all angles, as they performed in an arena in the central part of the south grounds. The Neighborhood House presented a costume number, "Push the Business On," which was followed by "the Scarf Dance" and an ensemble number, "The Frolic."

The playground department of the District Public Schools presented two Swedish folk dances and one English dance. Girl Reserve dancers in overalls and gingham gowns danced the "Virginia Reel" and an old-fashioned barn dance.

Other numbers, by the Friendship House and the Girl Scouts, followed in the early afternoon, and at 3:30 the general public was admitted to the grounds for a Marine Band concert.

The rain stopped at noon, and "Peter" and Peggy Ann, the latter led by Miss Janet Large, Mrs. Hoover's niece, with "Uncle Charlie," the President's valet, escorting Herbert 3d, ventured down among the throng on the lawn.

At the bandstand they were greeted by the sound movie men.

"Did you get any Easter eggs?" the children were asked.

"We had twelve big pretty ones," blithely responded Peggy Ann.

"And were they a lot of fun?"

"Lots," chorused the two.

At the portico railing, not 10 yards from the ropes that held back the crowds, and less than 20 feet above them, President Hoover waved a greeting. He smiled and bowed and waved many times before he went in. After lunch he again returned to the portico to wave his greeting.

Hotels were still thronged yesterday with guests remaining over for the Easter Monday festivities. Thousands of tourists, accompanied by children, some lugging their Easter baskets with them, visited the Capitol and other points of interest. A small group of children gathered on the Capitol Grounds to roll eggs, but scattered when rain fell.

GOVERNOR PRAISES ARLINGTON COUNTY

Writes His Congratulations on Preparations Made for Bicentennial.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

In a letter received by the Arlington County Bicentennial council from Gov. John Garland Pollard, of Virginia, and given out yesterday at the headquarters of the council in the Kelley Building, at Clarendon, the governor says:

"I congratulate Arlington County on being the first county in the United States to organize in preparation for the George Washington Bicentennial celebration. I am very proud that a Virginia County should have been the pioneer in these important preparations, and hope that your example may be followed by others."

Preparation by the United States Department of Agriculture of a list of shrubs and flowering plants adapted to Arlington County for use in connection with the planting program incident to the beautification contest soon to be launched by the council will soon be undertaken, according to an announcement. Arthur Orr, president of the council, was in conference yesterday with department officials, who indicated that a list of plants would be compiled at the earliest possible date.

The subcommittee on committees will meet on Wednesday of this week with Walter F. Sunderman, who has been appointed chairman of the beautification contest committee, for the purpose of completing the personnel of the committee.

Mrs. Frances A. Harris was unanimously elected president of the League of Republican Women of Arlington County at a largely attended meeting held last night in the Rucker Building at Clarendon. Other officers are: Mrs. Ray Cogswell, first vice president; Mrs. H. I. Hixson, second vice president; Mrs. Frances Mabry, treasurer, and Mrs. Belle Schutt, secretary.

The league completed its plans for the carrying on an intensive campaign incident to the coming fall election for county officers, with the exception of county clerk.

In connection with the campaign which the league plans to wage special stress will be given for the next three weeks to seeing that all persons who have registered pay their poll taxes on or before May 2, and to see that all persons who are otherwise qualified register.

The newly elected president announced that committee appointments will be made at the May meeting.

Entering a plea of not guilty to a charge of selling ardent spirits, sworn out by Virgil Williams, State prohibition officer, Darlington Mackey and R. L. Lacour were held for the action of the grand jury at the April term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County. They were released on $500 bond each.

On direct examination, conducted by Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, A. K. Camlin, Federal prohibition agent, stated that he went to the store of Mackey, at Chain Bridge, last Friday night and, after some effort, purchased one pint of liquor. He also stated that he went back the following night, after an arrangement had been made with State Officer Virgil Williams and another Federal agnet named John Millan, and purchased another pint. This pint he gave to Williams, he said, taking the other home and sealing it. Both were in evidence in court.

Following the second purchase, which Camlin declared he had made, the other officers with him went in the place and conducted a raid, which resulted in the arrest of both Mackey and Lacour.

Officer Williams, while he stated he did not see the sale made, identified the two bottles of alleged liquor.

A box of empty bottles and one jar was placed in evidence, claimed to have been taken from the place shown him by Camlin.

Young Mackey, on the stand, declared the liquor was not purchased from his store and that there was none there.

Mackey stated that he had never before seen the man who claimed he had purchased the whisky.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's attorney of Arlington County, who defended his son and Lacour, in questioning Camlin, asked him how long he had been a Federal agent. His reply was "Six months." In answer to Capt. Mackey, he stated that prior to becoming a Federal agent he was a floor scraper and had served ten years in the Army.

Mrs. Lilliam Mackey, wife of Darlington Mackey, on the stand declared that there had been no whisky in the place and that none had been purchaed by the officer, as claimed.

Lacour stated that he was in no way connected with the store, that he frequently came there to fish, and that on Friday and Saturday of last week he was at the store, but denied having sold any whisky or having seen any.

The defense stressed the point that numerous fishermen who frequent the store and its vicinity are in the habit of leaving bottles and jars lying around the river shore and in the store.

It was testified by Mackey that on one occasion more than 147 bottles were gathered up and sold in Georgetown.

In holding the two men for the action of the grand jury, Judge Thomas stated that he was interested only in that a prima facie case had been made out and that he was not attempting to pass upon their innocence or guilt.

The Arlington Bar Association, at its luncheon meeting held yesterday at Windsor Arms, by a vote of 9 to 8, authorized the president to address a letter to President Hoover in support of the movement which is being sought to have an executive order which will permit Federal employes to take an active part in local politics and become candidates for county offices.

President Amos C. Crounse announced that election of officers will take place at the May meeting.

The Mary Washington Chapter, No. 50, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its monthly card party tomorrow night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Groome Eareckson, 211 Oak street, Lyon Village.

Charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Austin Wharton was held for the action of the grand jury. He was later released on $500 bond for his appearance at the opening of the April term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County.

The Arlington County Civic Federation will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

The civil service committee, which for many months has been active in completing its plans to seek an executive order from President Hoover to permit Federal employes to take an active part in local politics will make a report at this meeting.

With but three weeks remaining in which residents of Arlington County who have registered may pay their poll taxes to permit them to participate in the coming fall election for county officers, those wishing to do so are urged to go to the county treasurer's office, at the courthouse, on or before May 2 and pay all poll taxes.

The county health department announced yesterday the following list of five-point health children from the following schools:

James Monroe—First grade, John Dolan, Donald Tobias, Thomas Clark, Kathyon Dewar, Kenneth Harding, Suganne Grottum, Barbara Clarke.

Second grade, Norman Lamberson and Alice Coffman.

Sixtr grade, Herman Bonney, Leo Woodward and Lois Mason.

Hume School—Ray Hudson, Richard Thompson, Betty Shawn, Marie Wright, James Nimo, James Sheehan, Paul Miller, Pauline Henderson, Robert Ludger, Sterling Ludger, Doris Patterson, Francis Gill, Francis Howerton, Miriam Joyce, Edward Aldrich, Catherine McDill, William Fowler, Lucille Welch, Gordon Welch and Hilliard Paige.

John Marshall School—Tony Prigliasi, James Ennis, Marjorie Moreland, Elizabeth Shepherd, Donald Brumback and Betty Hart.

Saegmueller School—Harry Breedon, Katherine Cornwell, William Dinsmore, Elsie Ennis, Donald Bloeden, Betty Carter, Rodney Heath, Betty Hill Helen Mackey, Beula Reid and Frank Gaddy.

Glencarlyn School — Betty Morris, Laura Howard and Cathleen Whittington.

FALL LOSES RETRIAL PLEA; MAY END FIGHT

Denver oil man later was served twice with subpenas in France, but refused to return.

"It is inconceivable," Justice Robb said, "that a citizen witness may clog the wheels of justice by crossing the international border and that the Government should be powerless to summon him to return and subject him to penalty if, without cause, he fails to respond to the summons.

"It ill becomes the defendant, after he has persistently manifested an intent to evade his public duty and embarrass the Government, to say that his conduct was not contemptuous of the court because other evidence was available to the Government."

Justice Robb added that Blackmer knew, or should have known, that "it was his patriotic duty to yield his testimony in the Government's effort to uncover fraud and punish the guilty as it would be his duty to bear arms in defense of his country."

One of the principal points dealt with in the affirmation of Fall's conviction was the denial of a plea by his attorneys that it was improper to admit evidence of transactions with Sinclair leading to the making of leases on the Teapot Dome oil land in Wyoming.

Common Motive Is Alleged.

Associate Justice Van Orsdel, who handed down the decision, conceded the record disclosed no connection between Doheny and Sinclair, but said it did disclose that "Fall was considering the two leases on behalf of the Government at the same time and considering each with relation to the other." He added Fall also had "a common motive in mind."

"Transfer to the defendant by Sinclair of a large amount of Government bonds and the alleged loan of $100,000 by Doheny to Fall to purchase the Harris ranch," Justice Van Orsdel continued, "were prompted by the initial suggestions from Fall of difficulties that he was having in relation to his ranch holdings in New Mexico."

The court added both sums were advanced presumably to give Fall relief "from financial difficulties in which he had become involved."

Family Weeps Over Decision.

El Paso, Tex., April 6 (A.P.).—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, was at his Three Rivers, N. Mex., ranch today and could not be reached immediately for comment on the affirmation of his sentence of one year in jail and $100,000 fine.

Informed of the court decision, members of his family here wept. They said they would leave for the ranch to comfort Mr. Fall.

"I can't believe it," said Mrs. C. C. Chase, Fall's daughter. "My father is innocent."

Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Jouette Elliott, another daughter, said Fall had been expecting the decision for several days and had gone to the ranch for the express purpose of escaping newspapermen.

Denver, April 6 (A.P.).—Karl C. Schuyler, counsel for Harry M. Blackmer, former Denver oil man, announced today the decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals affirming the conviction of Blackmer will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

MORE AID IS ASKED IN O'NEIL SPEECH that now faces it without increasing taxes.

When he returned from the Caribbean last week President Hoover was told that income tax returns and customs receipts were so low that the prospect was that about $700,000,000 or $800,000,000 more would go out of the Treasury this year than would go into the Treasury.

In President Hoover's absence, a number of senators and representatives suggested that a tax increase would be necessary in order to offset this deficit. These statesmen were particularly anxious to have the tax increased on incomes in the higher brackets.

"Group Interests" Cited.

Two days after he returned from Porto Rico, President Hoover issued a statement in which he said that no tax increase would be necessary if Congress would abide by the recommendations of the Budget Bureau and if the people as a whole would discourage "demands of sectional and group interests."

Whether the President, when he mentioned "group interests," had in mind the World War veterans is not known, but he is known to be concerned about the growth of that part of the budget that concerns the veterans.

Year after year the amount of money appropriated for the veterans of the World War has increased. This year the sum expended for veterans will be approximately $900,000,000.

Strikes At Criticism.

At the Capitol one hears that the veterans may have anything they want. This was proven by the manner in which the bonus loan bill was passed over the President's veto.

In his speech last night, Commander O'Neil not only advocated the various reforms that have been cited —relief of children of helpless veterans, relief of widows and orphans of veterans—and increased compensation for disabled veterans—but he struck at the criticism that has been leveled at the American Legion on account of the bonus loan bill.

In a statement summarizing Commander O'Neil's speech, the American Legion said:

Loans Pointed Out.

"Regarding the recent adjusted service certificate loans, the national commander said that definite information gathered by the Legion shows that those who have asked for loans were veterans greatly in need, as anticipated by the Legion, and that most of the loans were made for those who already had borrowed on their certificates. Others, nt in need at this time, have refrained from borrowing, he said.

"The national commander stated that there had been no appropriation by Congress for veterans' loans under the act, that none was needed and that the legisaltion would not place any financial burden upon the country.

"The American Legion resents the statement that has been made that the adjusted compensation loans are in any way responsible for a deficit in Government finances, he declared. Loans have no relation whatever with an impending deficit, he said.

Termed aCpital Asset.

"The veterans' reserve fund, which amounts to nearly $800,000,000, and is available to be used for this purpose under the new law, is a capital assets, belonging to the veterans and held from them in trust by the Treasury Department, Commander O'Neil said.

"The national commander pointed out that in addition to this there will be an appropriation of $112,000,000 for the current year, and the bill further provides that the war-risk insurance can be used for this loan—'in my opinion,' he said, 'much more than will be sufficient to take care of all loans.'

"He declared the deficit, so often mentioned, has to do with the annual income and expenditures of the various departments of the Government, with which this veterans' reserve fund has no relation.

"Commander O'Neil said that Congress always has shown deep sympathy for the veterans in distress, and has greeted legion requests for legislation with consideration and humanity. 'The members of the American Legion are grateful,' he said.

Seen as Business Aid.

"He asserted he thinks there is no question that the increased purchasing power of the new loan value will help stimulate business and increase employment. It will be nothing less than a God-send to those veterans in the farming communities where crops were ruined by the drought," he said. "There is no question that the Government will profit from the 4½ per cent loans, because it can borrow the money at less than 2 per cent. There is no question, either, as to the ability of the Government to raise the money.'

"The national commander said there will be many important matters to present to the next session of Congress, in addition to the so-called widows and orphans bill.

"One of these is legislation to provide equality of veterans in the matter of compensation. 'I see no reason,' he declared, 'why the veteran of one war is not entitled to the same compensation as a veteran of any other war. The legion should urge an amendment to the World war veterans' act to provide the same rate of disability allowance for World War veterans as is now paid to veterns of other wars.' He said that the legion should continue to press for disability allowance and the inclusion of cases within the presumptive period of chronic constitutional diseases.

Failure Is Deplored.

"The national commander deplored the failure of Congress to enact the Navy building program to bring the United States up to the provisions of the London treaty.

"'The statement is now made that next session the Navy Department will submit a complete program, and if there is to be another meeting in 1935, without the work being started at a very early date, it is plain to see that we will have nothing but a blue print Navy again, and this is one of the things which should be stressed,' he asserted.

"The national commander declared the national defense situation of the United States is becoming serious. 'Our national defense act has been whittled down until we have nothing but a skeleton remaining,' he said. 'Our naval construction program is evidently being forgotten. It is the duty of the posts of the legion to see that their congressmen and senators are for the program of national defense.'

WILBUR GIVES ARMY DAY RADIO ADDRESS

Interior Secretary Lauds Peace Achievements of Military Forces.

A radio address by Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur lauding the peace-time achievements of America's military forces marked Washington's observance yesterday of Army Day, fourteenth aniversary of this country's entry into the World War.

Army posts in all parts of the land were thrown open to the public for inspection. Soldiers in barracks heard several ranking officers, as well as Secretary Wilbur, in broadcast addresses which called attention to the need for adequate defense and praised the service's achievements along health and scientific fronts.

"Gorgas, at the Panama Canal," said Secretary Wilbur; "Russell, with his work on typhoid fever; Ashford, with hookworm, and a host of others, have carried on in various fields of medicine. But the Army services are busy all of the time in other directions. Through the development of the Ordnance Department and its relation to commercial business and experimental laboratories in the universities, aloy steels and alloy metals have been improved so that we can say that the work stimulated by the Army has been of profound benefit to the whole steel and metal industries."

The United States Army and Navy were termed national insurance policies against "disorder, aggression, emergency and even total collapse." "We must," declared the educator and cabinet member, "have the United States Army standing in skeleton frame ready to be filled out by our citizenship in emergency."

He concluded his address, which was broadcast by Station WMAL over a national network, with a tribute to the quality of the Army personnel.

"If any one of you should suddenly have to choose a hundred absolutely trustworthy men who would go their limit for their country and who could be depended upon all the way through, you could not do better than take at large 100 officers or men of the United States Army. You would knew that they would stand steadfast and true to the best ideals and the best standards of our American life."

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley reviewed the crack troops at Fort Myer as part of the day's observance.

SUCCESS CERTAIN FOR BRIDGE CONTEST SPONSORED BY POST

with such entrants and aid them in the selection of teammates. In some instances husbands and wives are entering and desire a like couple with whom they may train. Similar assistance will be given to individuals who enter singly.

Discussion of the tournament and the gossip of the players has led to several inquiries as to what system or systems will be used in the contest. There are various systems advocated by leading exponents of the game, such as Culbertson, Work, Whitehead and others, and each of these experts has his own following. In consequence, team players will decide among themselves which of the methods indorsed by the recognized champions they will elect to employ when meeting their opponents. On agreement upon this matter will depend to a large extent the success of their play.

Agreement Will Be Helpful.

Practice games adhering closely to one definite system agreed upon will be very helpful to such players as follow it. Standardization has not yet been attained in bridge bidding, and perhaps it never will be. In fact, some of the most prominent players hope that it never will be, for the lack of it affords opportunity not only to test player against player, but system against system.

An encouraging phase of the tournament in its present early stages is the fact that teachers of the game are being importuned for coaching lessons by new and former pupils who have declared their purpose of entering the contest and wish to brush up on their play and learn its latest angles, for new wrinkles are all the time being developed and it is necessary to keep abreast the problems that the experts have worked out. Naturally the teachers are elated.

"Few things in my experience as a bridge instructor have given me greater pleasure and enthusiasm than the announcement of The Washington Post that it will sponsor a bridge tournament," said Mrs. Charles Keene, as she stopped for a moment in tutoring a foursome of ladies anxious to perfect their game in order to enter the tournament. "It is something that should have been started long ago, but no one seems to have taken the initiative before.

Will Stimulate Interest.

"I am heartily for it and will do everything I can to advance it. There are thousands of people in Washington playing bridge and this will greatly stimulate their interest in the game. Some of them are as good as will be found anywhere. Every one I have talked with about it thinks it is a grand idea, and I feel sure it will meet with the big success it deserves. Many of my pupils and former pupils will enter."

Mrs. Keene enjoys a reputation as a teacher that is not confined to Washington. She is nationally known in the bridge world and numbers among her past and present classes many of the elite of Washington society.

"I'm all 'pepped' up about the tournament," said Mrs. Louise Guest, another of the outstanding teachers of bridge in Washington. "The same is true of all my pupils. I am only afraid that I shall be pressed for time in which to do coaching. I am glad, however, that we will have a month's time for that. Already I am receiving requests for instruction, and I intend to work day and night to comply with them. We will have a fine list of entries."

Alexandrians Are Elated.

"Thanks for that phrase 'within a radius of 25 miles of Washington,'" said James Duncan, chairman of the House committee of the popular Belle Haven Club, of Alexandria. "That will enable our town's players to enter the tournament, and you will be surprised at the number who will participate. The people of our little city are home folk, and they meet with their neighbors nightly and play bridge. I doubt if there is a town in the country where there is a greater proportion of bridge players, and some of them are sharks at the game, and it enjoys great popularity at the Belle Haven Club.

"We got a lot of advertising some time ago, when one of our members, William Burns, held a perfect hand—thirteen spades—a rare distinction in bridge annals. That has set others who did not play much before to taking a hand at the game in the hope of having the same experience. Mark it, we'll be there, and with some crack players, too."

The Belle Haven Club has an attractive home just south of Alexandria on the new Mount Vernon Boulevard and overlooking the Potomac. It is situated on land once owned by George Washington.

Remember the dates—May 14, 15, and 16—and place—the New Shoreham Hotel, the popular bridge headquarters of Washington.

part of business activities and a departure from competition.

"An intelligent handling of tourists and convention delegates will result in many of them choosing the National Capital as a place to make their homes," Mr. Thorpe said.

Where Perfect Service Is Imperative

Many of the prominent city and country clubs which experimented in making their own ice have found their results not only unsatisfactory, but expensive.

The fact is that in a modern, properly managed ice-plant, the ice is invariably sparkling-clear and pure and can be delivered to club premises at a lower cost than the club pays for "home-made" ice of inferior quality.

CABIN JOHN HOTEL, LANDMARK, BURNS

One Hurt as Large Crowd Watches Fire Consume Rambling Structure.

Fire early yesterday completed the ruin begun by the era of prohibition on the historic old Cabin John Bridge Hotel. For more than 75 years it was the scene of gay parties participated in by the elect of the Nation's Capital. The establishment has been closed for four years.

The spacious gardens and summer houses of the old place once resounded to the laughter of senators, representatives, diplomats and social leaders, as well as many who were no to the manor-born. Prohibition changed the hotel from a paying proposition to a faded building, squatting by the Cabin John Bridge, pondering over vanished glories. The rambling 40-room frame building, with its cupolas, observation towers and spreading verandas, much the worse for a lack of paint, nevertheless was a scene that invited the passing motorist to pause for a closer study.

The old building went out in a blaze of glory, taking along all its rich furnishings. Several exquisite old crystal chandeliers were included in the ruin, as well as the rugs, furniture, silver and glassware, many pieces of which could be classed as antiques.

Hotel Grew From Small Stand.

The building still remained in the ownership of the family which had operated it since its opening in pre-Civil War days. The hotel was started while the Cabin John Bridge was being constructed. Joseph Bobinger, who had emigrated from Alsace-Lorraine with his wife, Rosa Klein Bobinger, was one of the artisans who helped construct the arch, at that time one of the wonders of the world, there only being one larger. The wife started a small refreshment stand at the end of the bridge and her excellent cuisine soon attracted more trade than the small quarters could accommodate and the beginning of the hotel was built.

A German architect was employed to plan the structure and the central portion was modeled after a famous German tavern. As the business grew, more additions were erected and the gardens and summer gardens expanded. The building is now owned by Mrs. W. H. Bobinger, widow of one of the sons of Joseph Bobinger, her son and a daughter.

It is believed that a wandering tramp stopped overnight in the building and caused the fire, although the origin could not be definitely established.

Bethesda Volunteers First.

Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department was the first to respond to the alarm, closely followed by the Cabin John Volunteer Fire Department. Within a short time volunteer companies from Rockville, Kensington, Silver Spring and Takoma Park had arrived, as well as two companies from Washington. Eleven lines of hose were played on the building from a manhole in the District conduit.

The time-cured wooden structure burned briskly, the glare from the flames being visible for several miles around.

Howard King, a fireman of the Cabin John Park department, was injured when he was pulled from a 16-foot high perch on a ladder by the pressure of the hose he was helping to play. He was taken to the office of Dr. W. O. Huff in Bethesda, who took six stitches in his forehead. King then returned to the fire.

The forewalls and tower were all that was left of the building when dawn broke. Firemen continued playing water until after 9 o'clock and remained on the scene most of the day. An attempt to dynamite the tower failed.

Land Grant From English King.

The land on which the hostelry stood was part of the original grant from the King of England to the second Lord Baltimore.

The firemen were refreshed by sandwiches and hot coffee prepared by Mrs. David Tuohey, wife of the president of the Cabin John Park department; Mrs. Charles R. Smith, her daughter, Miss Charlotte Smith, and Mrs. Wesley Johnson. The chilled firemen were extremely grateful for hot drinks and food, which was prepared in the Glen Echo-Cabin John School cafeteria, operated by Mrs. Johnson.

Patrolman Roy Davis, of the Bethesda Substation, Montgomery County police, handled the heavy traffic brought out from Washington and nearby sections by the flames.

GROUP MAY PROTEST ANTIBLUE LAW BILL

Plea for Court's Action to Test Constitutionality Hinted in Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 6.—That representatives of the Lord's Day Alliance contemplated court action to test the constitutionality of the anti-Sunday blue law bill passed by the General Assembly last week, was contained in a statement today by Dr. W. W. Davis, executive secretary of the organization, who has led the fight against the measure in the Senate and House and also has been its legislative agent at Annapolis for a number of years.

Meanwhile Dr. Davis has requested Gov. Ritchie to give a final hearing to Alliance representatives before taking final action on the measure. The chief executive is expected to sign the bill, however.

The Assembly entered the final day of its biennial 90-day session confronted by only a few bills. Absenteeism was frequent in both houses in course of the day's sessions, and in several instances bills were held up temporarily because of the lack of necessary majority.

Nine Bills Finally Passed.

Nine Senate bills embracing vital legislation for Montgomery County were finally passed by the House and will now go to the governor for his approval. The actions practically cleaned the slate of legislation for Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties.

Authorizing the Washington suburban sanitary district to furnish water to charitable institutions, amended by the Prince Georges County delegation to include that county, amending the Montgomery sanitary district law, which contains among other provisions extending the district to include Vista. It gives the commission power to regulate traffic within the district, providing for condemning streets along Wisconsin avenue for improvements, prohibiting sale of subdivided lots for delinquent taxes, providing for the indigent sick within the county, affirming paving assessments, authorizing work on the Rockville-Georgetown pike, requiring county depositories to furnish bond and regulating tax sales.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie late this afternoon [illegible] 129 bills. President Walter J. [illegible] Charles County, of the Senate, and Speaker Francis A. Michel, Baltimore City, of the House, joined the executive in the signing process that formally enacted the measures into law.

Included among the bills signed were 44 that embrace the major legislative programs for Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

Grain for Jobless Asked.

Annapolis, Md., April 6 (A.P.).—A resolution calling on Congress to make available to unemployed part of the 200,000,000 bushels of grain, said to be held by the Farm Board, was approved tonight by the Maryland House of Delegates. The resolution previously had been approved by the Senate.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie signed more than 150 measures as midnight approached, among them an act repealing the payment of informers' fees in prohibition and other cases.

The governor was urged by a delegation to veto a bill to close the Potomac River to oystermen, on the ground that it would destroy means of a livelihood to many persons. A similar measure was enacted by the Virginia Legislature.

Boy, Who Fell 90 Feet Over Cliff, Will Live

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., April 6.—Franklin, 12, son of H. Bruce Scharf, ticket agent at Central Station here, who fell 90 feet over a cliff on Haystack Mountain late yesterday afternoon, was reported out of danger at Memorial Hospital.

A tree at the base of the cliff broke his fall. He was flying a toy airplane at the time. He has a hip injury and severe head and face lacerations. Several thousand blocked the National highway while the boy was being rescued from his position, where he lay nearly an hour before his companions could summon help.

FAIRFAX DEMOCRATS SET ELECTION DATE

Mrs. A. H. Chilcott Resigns Place as Chairman of Auxiliary.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon, 2324-W-2.

The Democratic committee of Fairfax County held an executive meeting yesterday in the Fairfax County Courthouse, Judge J. M. Love presiding. Twenty members were present. Wilson M. Farr and Walter Tansill Oliver were elected to membership of the committee from Fairfax precinct. A resolution was passed in favor of holding a Democratic primary election for county offices on August 4.

Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary to the committee, submitted her resignation. Her father is a candidate for reelection, and for this reason she said she did not feel she should hold this executive office. She was voted a resolution of thanks for her work. The committee passed another resolution stating that members of the county committee do not have to resign from the committee on becoming a candidate for office.

Judge Howard W. Smith, representative-elect from this district, called on the party chieftians for harmony within the ranks of the party. He complimented the committee on its work in the last campaign.

It was announced that the last day a candidate could file for a county office would be on June 4, which is 60 days prior to the primary. He must file a written declaration of candidacy and pay the required fee on or before that date. May 2 is the last day on which a voter can pay a poll tax in order to participate in the general election next November.

The personnel of the women's committee was announced as follows: Centerville District—Centerville Precinct, Mrs. A. J. Robey; Clifton Precinct, Mrs. M. W. Davis; Wells Precinct, Mrs. Daisy Wells; Pender Precinct, Mrs. C. C. Carr.

The committee women of Dranesville District are Mrs. Baldwin Aud, Herndon; Mrs. R. B. Nickell, Thompson's Precinct; Miss Edith Rogers, Pleasant Valley; Mrs. Lucinda Wine, Thorntons; Mrs. Christie Hammond, Dranesville, and Mrs. Mark Turner, Forestville.

The precincts in Providence District will be headed by Miss Rebecca Rawlings, Vienna; Mrs. Hattie Shreve, The Lick; Mrs. Alda Mack and Mrs. Louise Manghum, Langley, and Miss Bessie Gainer, Fairfax.

In Falls Church District Mrs. L. P. Daniel will represent Falls Church Precinct; Mrs. Ava Veach, West End; and Mrs. Barbara Bladen and Mrs. John W. Brookfield, Annandale. Mrs. Reta M. Woodyard will represent Woodyards Precinct in Lee District; Mrs. Kyle Davis, Bayliss Precinct, and Mrs. George White, Burke Precinct.

The four precincts in Mount Vernon District will be represented by Mrs. Elton Saum, Pullmans; Mrs. Lud A. Popkins, Gum Spring; Mrs. Cassie Smith, Moores, and Mrs. Stewart Pettitt and Mrs. Lottie Anderson, Accotink.

Fairfax Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe or his deputies will be at Storm's store in McLean today and tomorrow to assist the residents in making out their State income tax returns on tangible and intangible personal property.

Mayor L. P. Daniel and officials of Falls Church have opened a drive on all dogs without license tags. Sergt. Walter Mitchell stated yesterday that where a dog is known to belong to a certain person, the owner will be taken into court and fined for failing to procure the necessary license tag. Dogs without tags whose owners are unknown will be turned over to Fairfax County Game Warden E. B. Carter. Under State law, dog licenses are due January 1, and no penalty is added for deliquency until after February 1.

The executive committee of the Alumni Association will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Doris Haines Murphy in Washington. At the last meeting it was decided to postpone the annual alumni banquet until June because a large number of members are away at school. This association was founded in 1926 by Mrs. M. M. Snead. The executive committee includes one member of each graduating class, with Mrs. Helen Preston Souder as president; Miss Berry, vice president; Miss Mathilde Berthiaume, secretary-treasurer, and William Cockerill, publicity chairman. Other members of the executive committee are Miss Florence Phillips, Miss May Beattie, Miss Eolene Follin, Mrs. Doris Murphy, Mrs. Catherine A. Kadel, Miss Elsie Downey, Miss Audrey Lowe and Miss Helen Downey.

Mrs. O. B. Livingston, president of the Parent-Teacher Association at Falls Church, has called a special meeting for this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Madison School. The members will discuss the feasibility and practicability of establishing an eighth grade in the school.

Mrs. Livingston has appointed a committee, composed of Mrs. Walter Benn, Mrs. J. G. Robertshaw, Mrs. J. O. Belz and Mrs. R. C. Stabner and Charles A. Seaton, to take charge of the school gardens established under direction of County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr. Each pupil in the school has been asked to plant either a vegetable or flower garden and to enter their gardens in the Fairfax County garden contest. A silver cup is to be awarded the school having the best gardens and prizes will be given by the local merchants for best individual gardens.

The Farmers Mechanics Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, will hold its business meeting this evening in the schoolhouse at Andrew Chapel. A social has been arranged to follow the business session. Music will be furnished by the Colvin Run Band, and refreshments will be served under direction of J. W. Day, Vernon Leigh and Vernon Thompson.

The Falls Church Ministerial Union will hold its meeting this morning in Crossman Methodist Church.

The Fairfax County School Board will hold its monthly meeting this morning at the courthouse.

The Acacia Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a birthday party this evening in the Odd Fellows Hall in Falls Church. Many out-of-town visitors have been invited to participate. The program will be under direction of Miss Essie Birch, Mrs. Kathleen Bowman and Mrs. George Hawxhurst.

Miss May B. Macken, of Pennsylvania, director of citizenship and national lecturer and organizer of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, will speak at 8 o'clock this evening in the Presbyterian Church at Herndon.

The Women's Mission Union of the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. B. Snoddy. The program will be under direction of Mrs. C. H. Lane, with Joseph L. Crupper in charge of the mission study.

The Groveton Community Club will meet this evening at the Groveton Schoolhouse. Miss Mary Lewis Reid has been appointed to arrange for the entertainment program.

The Home Demonstration Club at Forestville will meet today in the Great Falls Grange Hall at Forestville. Miss Sara E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, will give a demonstration on "Attractive Kitchens and Adequate Work Centers."

O'NEILL ADDRESSES ALEXANDRIA LEGION

National Veterans' Leader Is Guest of Honor at Banquet.

Ralph T. O'Neill, national commander of the American Legion, was the principal speaker and guest of honor at the first annual banquet last night of Alexandria (Va.) Post, No. 24, American Legion. The meeting was attended by more than 300 members of the legion post, the American Legion Auxiliary, and a number of special guests, including Army officers from Fort Humphreys, Fort Washington, Fort Hunt and Bolling Field, as well as Naval officers.

Clyde B. Lanhan, of the Alexandria post, was master of ceremonies. Dan S. Hollenga, member of the post and business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, was toastmaster.

After introducing various guests he introduced, in turn, Commander Sidney B. Well, of the local post; Robey Thompson, commander of the Department of Virginia, and National Commander O'Neill. The first speaker on the list was Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria.

Following Commander O'Neill's speech there was an entertainment program consisting of a vocal solo by Mrs. Evelyn Howard Sheridan, a military tap dance by Miss Majorie Mitchel, Barry Puck as a black-face comedian, and Ida Clarke, on the piano-accordian.

Veteran Borrowing Opposed by Legion

Former Soldiers Are Urged Not to Ask Money on Certificates.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 6.—A resolution urging World War veterans not to borrow on their compensation certificates unless absolutley in need was passed here today at the annual convention of the Seventh District of the Virginia American Legion.

The convention also favored naming a State advisory council to cooperate with the city entertaining the annual State convention in working out details. This committee would be composed of two past convention city chairmen and State Adjt. W. Glen Elliott, Richmond.

Seven of eleven posts in the district were represented by their commanders and adjutants. State Adjt. Elliott and M. E. Bristow, of Richmond, State finance officer, also were present. Committeeman E. V. Walker, of Charlottesville, presided.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Every Pimple Gone!

Skin clear, smooth and velvety again as nature intended it to be. She did it by daily cleansing with Resinol Soap and regular application of healing Resinol Ointment. If your skin is faulty, start the Resinol treatment today and watch your complexion improve. Sold by your druggist.

Trip Reveals Wedding Of Telephone Official

J. C. Koons Takes Bride, Mrs. B. C. Kengla, Secretly.

JOHN C. KOONS

John C. Koons, vice president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., a prominent Washington clubman, yesterday was honeymooning in Miami, Fla., with a bride of two days, the former Mrs. Bessie C. Kengla, of 2722 Connecticut avenue.

Friends here disclosed their secret marriage at the St. Michael and All Angels' Church in Baltimore Saturday. At the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Mr. Koons was reported "on vacation." The former Mrs. Kengla's telephone was "disconnected."

Mr. Koons, a member of the Congressional and University Clubs, and past master of Temple Noyes Lodge of Masons, has four children by two former marriages. In applying for a Baltimore marriage license he gave his age as 54.

The bride gave her age as 38. She is the widow of Charles R. Kengla, jr., who died from a heart attack while on horseback, witnessing amateur field trials at Curls Neck, Va., near Richmond, just two years ago. They had one daughter, Miss Janet Kengla. Mr. Kengla had retired from the fancy grocery business. He was well known as a sportsman and dog fancier.

Born in Patapsco, Md., Mr. Koons was educated in the Carroll County, Md., schools and at Reisterstown, Md. He had been a resident of the District since 1906, but was a member of the Maryland Club and Rolling Road Golf Club, of Baltimore, Md.

A Democrat, he was formerly an Assistant Postmaster General, and for 26 years served in the Postoffice Department. Recently he had been active in the Connecticut Avenue Citizens Association.

TRAIN WRECK FATAL TO 13 IS CONFESSED

Worker's Desire to Get Even for Being Discharged Told in Oklahoma.

Henryetta, Okla., April 6 (A.P.).—The desire of George Darnell, 38, section hand, to "get even" with the foreman who discharged him sent thirteen persons to their deaths in a St. Louis-San Francisco passenger train wreck here August 18, 1929.

Darnell confessed in court today and pleaded guilty to a murder charge. He will be sentenced Wednesday.

Judge J. Harry Swan did not indicate whether he intends to assess the death penalty.

Darnell said he became enraged when he was discharged, and "cooked" a rail switch on the outskirts of Henryetta about the time he expected a freight to pass.

"I thought the freight train would jump the track, but that no one would be hurt. I believed the foreman, Mr. King, would get the blame and he, too, would lose his job," Darnell said, sobbing.

Most of the thirteen died in agony after being scalded with steam from the wrecked locomotive. Among them were the engineer and fireman. The rest were Negroes from the "Jim Crow" car behind the baggage coach.

Darnell was arrested by operatives of the railroad and officers of Parsons, Kans., last night and brought here today. Secrets overheard in the heat of family quarrels were reported by the officers to have led to the arrest.

Darnell remained in Henryetta until June, 1930, but left because his conscience hurt, going to the Kansas harvest fields and, later, to a ranch near Muskogee, Okla.

A Mrs. Palmer, who operated the ranch, communicated with officers after she overheard allusions to the wreck in the course of quarrels between Darnell and his wife.

Treasury to Announce Finance Plan Tomorrow

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury will announce tomorrow how it will raise additional funds to operate the Government as a result of the prospective $700,000,000 deficit. Officials declined to say what form the financing would take but it previously had been made known an interest-bearing security was favored.

That announcement was taken to indicate the Treasury would ask for a much larger amount than the last financing a week ago when $100,000,000 was raised on Treasury bills. It was expected the offering this week will be certificates of indebtedness which may run for any period up to one year.

ZAIN AD COMPETITION STARTS WITH BIG RUSH

ad is written. It may be a slogan, a testimonial letter, a verse or a regular ad. Its form, the way it is laid out, the punctuation and spelling, don't mean a thing to us.

The board of judges will be formed of advertising experts. The tables will be turned for a change. Instead of writing ads and you reading them, you will write ads and they will read them. And its going to be lots of fun for everybody.

The deadline for the first week of the contest will be midnight of Wednesday a week. The judges will look them over all next day and the following Friday the first week's prizes will be announced. There is no limit to the number of prizes you can win, so don't limit yourself in writing ads. In order to be eligible for the grand prize of $1,000 you must write at least one ad about each of the firms in the contest.

You will find all of their names listed elsewhere in The Post, and a complete set of rules appears too. Read both carefully. You might even call at some of the business concerns you intend to write ads about and get some first-hand information about them and the business they do. It will help you in writing your ad.

Absolutely no obligations are attached to your entering the contest, no coupons to clip, subscriptions to solicit or entrance fees to be paid. The contest is entirely devoid of red tape.

In writing your ads select a piece of paper about twice the size of a postcard. Place the name of the concern about which you are going to write in the upper left-hand corner of the page, write your ad on the same sheet, and put your own name and address on the reverse side of the sheet, as well as on the envelope. Mail them to The Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest Editor. That is all there is to it. If you letter arrives after this week's deadline, it will automatically receive consideration in the week following.

It should be easy to write an ad on the Earl Theater, now showing "Fifty Million Frenchmen" this week at its playhouse at Thirteenth and E streets northwest. Ads should contain some reference to the shows, both vaudeville and talkies, appearing each week at the theater. This Warner Bros. playhouse was the first in town to feature a "Mistress of Ceremonies," still starring there in the person of Miss Maxine Doyle.

Bailey Tire Stores (there are five of them in town), also makes good advertising copy. Our amateur ad writers might note that these stores handle United States Royal Tires that rank with the best. Bailey Stores feature the low cost per mile of their product, free mounting, no waiting for service. Reference might also be made to their up-to-the-minute radio department.

You will also find the Washington Building among the list of advertisers. The advantages of an office in a building so ideally situated should be apparent to all contestants. Our ad writers might follow the lead of the owners themselves in stressing the exceptional planning of the building, the abundance of light and ventilation, convenience and comfort features, and reasonable rental.

What more auspicious time for a paint ad than at the outset of the city's annual clean-up campaign? As every homeowner knows, all paints are not alike. E. J. Murphy Co., Inc., at 710 Twelfth street northwest, one of four advertisers, handles only the best. Their paints have a reputation for quality. Ads should not fail to mention as well the company's excellent glass department.

Then there is Edmonston & Co., at 612 Thirteenth street, exclusive dealers in footwear, to write about. Their shoes have a reputation for style and smartness, and the Edmonston staff has a reputation for fitting feet to perfection. Edmonston & Co. is an old name in Washington, and their customers always come back.

RULES FOR CONTEST

1—$10,000 in prizes to be distributed over seven weeks of amateur ad writing.
2—$1,000 in cash will be given for the best ad written by an amateur during the entire Post-Zain ad-writing campaign. To compete for this prize it will be necessary for contestants to write at least one ad about each of the 35 firms participating in the ad contest.
3—Grand weekly award of $100 will be given each week for the best ads during six periods of the ad-writing contest.
4—Five merchandise prizes for each of the 35 concerns will be given weekly during six weeks of the campaign.
5—Ads for the first week of the Post-Zain ad-writing campaign must be received prior to noon, Wednesday, April 15.
6—Ads submitted in competition for the grand award of $1,000 must be received prior to midnight, May 27.
7—Anyone anywhere may compete for the prizes with the exception of newspaper employes and members of the advertising profession.
8—There are no obligations. No coupons to clip, no entrance fees to pay, no subscriptions to buy. One person may submit as many ads as he chooses. The more ads you write, the more prizes you may receive. The Post-Zain ad-writing contest may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about one of all concerns.
9—Write your ideas on one side only of a sheet of paper at least twice the size of a postcard. Place the name of the concern about which you are writing in the upper left-hand corner of the page. Place your own name and address, also telephone number, on the reverse of the advertisement and the envelope. Your contribution may be a slogan, a poem, a regular advertisement, a letter of testimonial, or an essay.
10—Winning advertisements will be selected by a committee of advertising experts. In the event of a tie, awards will be made to both.
11—All advertisements received become the property of the concerns about which they are written.

Ad-Writing Suggestions.

Prizes are given for ideas, not for grammar, spelling, punctuation, art work or layout.
Your ideas are likely to be new and original; your idea may win one or more prizes.
If you are not familiar with the advertisers about whom you are asked to write ads, study their service and merchandise; visit their shops, ask questions, and then jot down your ideas simply. Be brief and to the point.
If you can write a letter, you can write an ad. Get members of your family and your friends interested. Encourage them to write winning ads.

Bartlett Makes Fourth Real Estate Purchase

Former Gov. John H. Bartlett, of New Hampshire, has made another addition to his downtown business property holdings. It was learned yesterday that he has purchased through Shannon & Luchs, Inc., the two-story brick and stone business building at 611 Fourteenth street northwest, now housing the offices of the Strathmeade Coorporation. The consideration is understood to have been $200,000.

This marks the second acquisition of centrally located business property by former Gov. Bartlett within the last two months and the fourth within a year. In February, he purchased the 3-story brick store and office structure at 940 F street northwest, for $100,000. In December, 1930, he bought the 3-story business building at 1338 G street northwest, for $150,000 and in June, 1930, the 3-story stone and brick business building at 1307 F street northwest, at a price of $300,000. He also has a considerable interest in the large International Building in the F street business section.

BRITAIN ASKS GERMAN LEADERS TO CONFER

However, the British move came as a complete surprise, French officials intimated, and one not entirely pleasant to them.

The word of this British move came on the heels of Britain's cold reception of a proposal by M. Briand for a compromise on the French naval replacement building program outside the London treaty up to 1936. M. Briand proposed to limit the replacements, up to 1936 to 60,000 tons, which, however, would be in addition to the 135,000 tons allowed under the treaty.

Reception Is Unfavorable.

The proposal was unfavorably received both in London and Rome, and one result was action by President Gaston Doumergue. For the first time in the seven years that he has been in office, the president took steps to participate in the government's foreign policy.

Doumergue ordered a conference Thursday at Villefranche, calling Briand and Charles Dumont, naval minister, to meet with him prior to his departure for a tour of Tunisia, North Africa. It was expected that Doumergue would urge a conciliatory attitude but would insist that France be allowed to start replacements between 1934 and 1936, fearing that the nation's tonnage superiority over Italy otherwise would be destroyed by 1936.

The French are inclined to blame R. L. Craigie, British naval expert, who instituted the original conversations resulting in the Paris agreement between France and Italy, signed with the British as mediators. They feel that Mr. Craigie promised more than the British admiralty could concede and that the present situation is a result.

Meantime, the French government's hands are tied, it was asserted, none daring to submit the new pact to Parliament unless the replacements are authorized.

Clothes Thieves Smash Window.

A cloth-wrapped brick was tossed through the window of a tailor shop at Fourteenth street northwest near W street yesterday, and thieves escaped with clothing valued at $15, Max Greiff reported to police.

ALEXANDRIA PLANS DRIVE TO GET TAXES

Attachment Writs Will Be Served Against Persons Delinquent in Fees.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907½ Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The most drastic steps yet taken by the City of Alexandria to collect delinquent personal taxes will be resorted to this week, according to statements made yesterday by city authorities. The procedure will consist of a writ of attachment being served by the sergeant's office against any property held by the delinquent, and in event of failure to make immediate settlement the city sergeant will be empowered to sell such effects as necessary to pay the delinquent taxes.

The number of delinquents is understood to be larger than ever before, and ordinary methods of colection have failed to produce the desired results. The tax is $2.65 on each $100 of assessed valuation of personal property, and in many cases both penalty and interest have been added. When the collection is made by the deputy city sergeant, an amount will be added for his fee, and the only way to contest such collection by sale of property is understood to be through court action.

Papers in these delinquent cases are now in the hands of City Attorney Carl Budwesky.

The will of Robert S. Jones, who died Thursday night, was admitted to probate yesterday in the Circuit Court for Alexandria, and disposed of an estate valued at approximately $200,000.

A bequest of $10,000 goes to the Alexandria Hospital, in which Mr. Jones was actively interested, being president of the board of trustees at the time of his death.

The remainder, with the exception of two annuities, is left to his daughter, Mrs. Collins McCay Jones Peeks.

The annual election of vestrymen of St. Paul's Episcopal Church was held yesterday. The following were chosen: Richard L. Ruffner, Dr. Robert S. Barrett, Albert A. Smoot, Urban S. Lambert, Emmett C. Dunn, T. Calvert Perry, Arthur Herbert, C. S. Taylor Burke, James S. Smithe, Sherman E. Fowler, George H. Evans, Wilmer J. Waller, Edmund F. Ticer, C. Philip Heishley and Edward H. Kemper.

Two small frame dwellings, Nos. 528 and 538 South Henry street, were gutted by fire Sunday night. The houses, owned by E. E. Lawler, were both unoccupied and had just been reconditioned. Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., is of the opinion that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, starting in a corner of one of the buildings where paints and oils were stored.

The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce will hold a membership meeting next Monday afternoon, when the vacancy on the board of directors caused by the death of Robert S. Jones will be filled.

Marine Sergeant Weds Woman of Winchester

Gunnery Sergt. Neal G. Williams, 30 years old, a Marine Corps aviator stationed at Quantico, Va., and Miss Love Allamong, 30 years old, of 353 North Main street, Winchester, Va., were married yesterday in the Municipal Building in New York, according to the Associated Press.

It is believed the couple will return shortly to Quantico to make their home.

Veteran Leaves 129 Descendants.

Kingwood, W. Va., April 6 (A.P.).—Aviah Pratt, 89, died today leaving 129 direct descendants. Eleven children, 54 grandchildren, 60 great-grandchildren and 4 great-great-grandchildren survive. Pratt was a veteran of the Civil War.

Kin of Roosevelt Tours in Virginia

Daughter of New York's Governor Is Guest of Pollard.

Richmond, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, daughter of Gov. Roosevelt of New York, stood in the Virginia Capitol rotunda today and wondered, aloud, who would be the next Virginia-born President of the United States.

Informed that Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Byrd of Virginia were being discussed as presidential and vice presidential nominees of the Democratic party, she said: "How interesting."

Mr. and Mrs. Dall and Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Carter, of New York, were shown the historic Capitol by Gov. Pollard when they paid him a visit. Mrs. Dall noted immediately that there were eight niches in the rotunda for the seven busts of Virginia-born Presidents.

"I suppose the eighth niche will be left vacant for the present," she said. Mr. Carter said the party was visiting historic Virginia homes, many on the vast domain once owned by his ancestor, King Carter.

Suspect Released In Cessna Slaying

William L. Dayton Freed After Being Jailed in Cumberland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., April 6.—William L. Dayton, 44-year-old father of five children, held since Wednesday as a suspect in the slaying of John K. Cessna, retired railroad engineer, at his home here, was released this afternoon at the direction of State's Attorney William A. Huster.

A writ of habeas corpus was issued this morning by Judge Albert A. Doub, directed against Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman, as Dayton was held in the city jail. The writ was returnable in the afternoon, but was withdrawn by Fuller Barnard and Oliver H. Bruce, attorneys, after the State ordered Dayton's release.

Dayton had been held because Mrs. Lottie V. Miller, friend and employe fo Cessna, who found the body and was arrested when she admitted she had been a guest at Cessna's home last Monday night, told officers that Cessna was nervous over Dayton's calls to borrow money.

Dr. J. H. Penniman, 72, Author, Educator, Dies

Philadelphia, April 6 (A.P.).—Dr. James H. Penniman, 72, author and educator, died today at his home here. He was a brother of Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, provost of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Penniman, who was born in Alexandria, Va., was for many years in charge of the lower school of the Delancey School, this city. In 1913 he retired to devote his time to the study of George Washington and to the development of libraries, which he had founded at Yale, Brown and Pennsylvania, in memory of his parents. Interment will be at Concord, Mass.

Navy Enlisted Man Dies In Crash; Driver Is Held

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—Ernest Dodgins, Navy boatswain's mate first class, of 9 Chocolate street, Easley, S. C., was killed today in the crash of an automobile against a telephone pole.

Miss Catherine Brennan, of Philadelphia, Dodgin's fiancee, and Wiley Brown, another Navy enlisted man, were slightly hurt. Brown, said by police to be the driver of the car, was arrested on a homicide charge.

Man, Run Over by Train, Dies.

Lynchburg, Va., April 6 (Special).—Dewey Clements 28, employed by the Southern Railway, died this morning at a hospital here from shock, following an accident near Tye River, when he lost a leg after being run over by a train. He lived at Tye River, where burial will take place.

VETERANS' LAWYER WINS SLANDER SUIT

Five Bureau Officials Must Pay $9,000; Virginia Director, $1,500.

Richmond, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—A verdict of $9,000 was awarded today to Robert Thomas, former regional attorney for the United States Veterans' Bureau, against five of the eleven officials of the Veterans' Bureau against whom he brought suit for $50,000 for alleged slander and conspiracy.

Thomas was also awarded a verdict of $1,500 against Col. E. W. Jordan, regional director of the bureau here, on a count charging slander. Col. Jordan is one of the eleven defendants.

The defendants against whom the $9,000 verdict was returned are Thomas D. Haskins, Paul S. Kremer, E. E. Coun, William Murray and C. P. Medley.

Defendants named in the suit but not included in the jury verdict included Gen. Frank T. Hines. The plaintiff charged that the defendants conspired to injure him and have him removed as committeeman for several war veterans whose estates he had administered.

Virginia Pipe Line Force Increased

Company Adds 200 Men to Workers Laying Gas Carrier.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6.—The Columbia Gas & Construction Co., which already has 2,500 men at work laying a heavy gas transmission line through the State, today started another group of 200 workmen in Madison County. The line will run from the Lucian Arrington Farm, on the Rapidan River, to the Robinson River, a distance of 9 miles. Engineer W. A. Cartwright, of Cincinnati, is in charge. Crossing the Blue Ridge, the line will run through Sugar Hollow, in Albemarle, passing near White Hall and entering Greene County near Nortonsville.

A. J. Flynn, assistant treasurer of the company, which has an office here, announced today that his firm has begun work toward supplying the towns of Covington and Clifton Forge with the natural gas from eastern Kentucky. Branch lines are being run to these towns from the main line that is to extend from Pikeville, Ky., to near Rockville, Md.

It is estimated that the firm will spend approximately $5,600,000 during the next five or six months putting the pipe across the State. Besides Covington and Clifton Forge, Lexington and Buena Vista will also be furnished with gas.

Mountain Poet Is Dead.

Luray, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—W. H. Corbin, 78, known for his poems and humorous writings published for the last 40 years under the name of "Bill Wiggins," was found dead in bed at his Page County home this morning. Death apparently was due to natural causes.

Lynchburg Lawyer, 55, Dies.

Woman in Virginia Is Hit-Run Victim

Mrs. Octavia Crank, 75, on Way to Golden Wedding Rites at Time.

Lynchburg, Va., April 6.—Mrs. Octavia Crank, 75, wife of Henry Crank, of Evington, who was injured by a hit-and-run driver last night, died today at a hospital here, where she was taken by another automobile driver, a witness to the accident. She suffered head injuries and fractures of both shoulders and a leg.

Mrs. Crank was going to the home of her son, John Crank, to be ready to attend the golden wedding today of Thomas Crank, a brother-in-law. The celebration was abandoned after the accident.

Mrs. Crank is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. J. Morris, Shawnee, Okla., and Mrs. J. M. Morris, of Evington, and a son, J. M. Crank, Lynchburg.

Filling Station Owner Dead of Heart Attack

Annapolis, Md., April 6.—C. Ashby Ebling, 35 years old, proprietor of a gas and oil filling station on College avenue, dropped dead of a heart attack in the doorway of the establishment shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. He is survived by his wife.

Mr. Ebling suffered from heart trouble. He had been conversing with friends in the neighborhood and waiting on customers a few minutes before he was stricken.

Man Dies Day After Wife.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 6 (Special).—Stricken while nursing his wife, who died yesterday, Robert B. Bartlett, 81, retired, member of a pioneer family, died today at his home in Broad Oaks of paralysis and pneumonia. Mrs. Bartlett, 76, died of pneumonia. Six children survive them. A double funeral will be held Wednesday.

Will You Be Our Guest?

In Liberty's in London a visitor to the store is called a guest. And the phrase implies much.

In the ERLEBACHER Drawing Rooms, patrons and casual visitors are considered guests, and so accorded every courtesy.

You are not at all obliged or even expected to purchase anything when you call.

The garments embodying the spring fashions for Madame and Madamoiselle arrive daily, thus lending a chameleon-like color to our shop.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

CONSIDER THE SADDLE HORSE.

LO, the poor Saddle Horse!

For this is the time of year when he getteth the works.

In the winter he doeth not so badly, but with the first sign of spring he riseth in the morning and knoweth not whether the day will see him used as a noble beast or a springboard. Verily his lot is pathetic.

• • • •

When the robin calleth and the turtle singeth, the man who knoweth nought of equestrianism feeleth like Phil Sheridan and the woman whose place is in the rocking chair getteth the yearning to go places like Joan of Arc and Mae Worth.

• • • •

The Saddle Horse is a splendid beast but he getteth a bad break. His lot is a deplorable one and it maketh him sigh for the pie wagon and the milk cart.

He wondereth what manner of rider percheth upon his back and yanketh upon the bride as if it were a clothesline.

• • • •

Lo, the person who goeth in for most pastimes needeth some knowledge and experience, but the person who hireth a nag to go horseback riding in the park possesseth nothing except a skill in the application of liniments.

• • • •

THE horse getteth up in the morning in fear and trembling. He knoweth not what the day will bring forth. A funny looking lady showeth up at sunrise in a black derby and a masquerade costume and chirpeth, "I wanna horse for $2 an hour. Have you one that steers easily?" She maketh a bluff at knowing how to ride but she getteth up the wrong side of the horse, and she sitteth like a penguin on a hot stove. And she looketh ardund for handlebars and complaineth because she hath no toe-clips.

• • • •

And she goeth out of the livery stable like giddy child on a roller coaster and breaketh the backbone of man's best friend. And she eateth from the mantle for three days.

• • • •

Man cometh to the stable garbed like Ed Wynn and petendeth to be a Tod Sloan and an Earl Sande, but he giveth the poor horse terrible punishment. He swayeth from side to side, he loseth his stirrups, he leaneth forward like an acrobat about to make a nose-dive off a raft. He boundeth hither and thither.

• • • •

He yanketh the reins with abandon and loseth his hat going around the curve. He reacheth for the brass ring. And grace is not in him.

• • • •

He spendeth most of the time in midair, but when he cometh down he cometh down with a vengeance. He amuseth the populace but he giveth the horse a pain in the neck. And lo, it all cometh under the head of good clean fun! Selah!

WHAT! NO SANDWICHES?

MAYOR E. E. ROBERTS of Reno proposes placing a barrel of whisky, with tin cups attached, on prominent street corners of Reno, so any man wanting a drink can help himself. He would have the Nevada city make the whisky and serve it free, his argument being that it will abolish the bootlegger and speakeasy.

• • • •

However, there would probably be some drinkers who would complain because the city didn't provide individual paper cups.

Another designer announces an airplane designed for the masses. There will be no public stampede to buy airships, however, until somebody invents a plane that will stand still in maidair while the owner signals for a towing car.

THAT nervousness shown by literary and sporting enthusiasts for the past few days has died down now. It seems that the Theodore Dreiser-Sinclair Lewis fight will not be shown in slow-motion pictures.

THIS FUNNY WORLD.

Hi:

A soprano in California can sing as high as the C above high C • • • It is now up to Florida to produce a grapefruit that can hiss over a national hookup. • • • In the subway life is still a survival of the feetest. • • • The more I see of those camera men in those jungle movies the more I realize why the lions and tigers seem so indisposed to eat them. • • • Would you call Mahatma Ghandi a Grand Ex-Salted Ruler?"

Indictment Alleges 2 Shots at Woman

Charlottesville Man Is Formally Accused of Making Attack.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6.—Among the true bills returned by the grand jury of the circuit court this morning was one against Herbert Davis, aged 25, on a charge of feloniously shooting Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, 20-year-old estranged wife of Allen Johnson. In the event he is convicted, he faces a possible maximum punishment of ten years in the penitentiary.

The shooting occurred at the home of Edward Morris, on the Old Lynchburg road, the night of March 24. According to the version told the authorities, Davis rushed into the house where Mrs. Johnson was visiting and fired two shots at her, after demanding if she "was going to stay here all night."

He is then alleged to have jumped into an automobile and sped away.

A FIREBRAND.

If it were to the interest of the United States that the Democratic party should be split into fragments the independent citizen might look with favor upon Chairman Raskob's letter to national committeemen. But since the country is best served by having two great rival political parties ready and competent to administer the Government, Mr. Raskob's letter must be regarded as one calculated to make the judicious grieve.

The idea advanced by Mr. Raskob is that the Democratic party should make the liquor question a party question. His individual opinion is that the party should support a new amendment to the Constitution, giving each State the right to set up a liquor system, if it pleased, while leaving to the Federal Government the power and duty of enforcing the eighteenth amendment in all States which preferred to remain dry. He calls this a "home rule" plan. He asks committeemen to consider it, and if they can not approve it he asks them to suggest something better. He insists that it is incumbent upon the party to take a positive stand on the liquor question, and that it is proper for the national committee to crystallize opinion so that the national convention can put that opinion into effect as party policy.

Mr. Raskob is asking the Democratic national committee to commit the party to the wet cause. He has chosen the most controversial question that could be imagined, and put it forth as something upon which his party should unite. He is doing this when the party is fairly united on other questions, and when unfortunate events have dimmed the luster of Republican management of the Government. Strictly impartial opinion concedes to the Democratic party a better chance of winning control of the Government than would have been deemed possible in December, 1928, but a condition accompanies this opinion—the condition that the Democratic party does not throw its chances away by its own imprudence.

So many blunders have been made by Democratic party leaders that it is a tradition in politics that whenever the Republican party is in most desperate straits it will be saved by the blunders of the opposition. Such a situation is developing now. Mr. Raskob could not have selected a more dangerous firebrand to throw into his party's councils than the one he has chosen. It is an unnecessary, untimely and disastrous course that he is pursuing. He is demanding that his party shall engage in war within itself, at a time when it should be closing ranks and preparing to meet the enemy. His plan is to set Democrats at the throat of Democrats, on the theory that the survivors will be all of one mind as they face the foe.

Bitter experience at Madison Square Garden and in 1928 seems to convey no lesson to Chairman Raskob. He has lost all sense of proportion in his intensive study of the liquor problem. He would risk the existence of the Democratic party for the sake of reaching a partisan position on a question that is not partisan at all. That is not a wise step on the part of the field marshal of a political party. What the country demands of a political party is that it shall be competent to administer the Government—the executive and legislative powers that deal with manifold questions, including, of course, the liquor question. When a party becomes obsessed by one question, especially a question that is not partisan in nature, it raises doubts in the minds of independent voters as to its all-around capacity to manage the Government successfully.

If Mr. Raskob could have his way beyond his most sanguine hopes, so that the Democratic party should become fanatically a champion of the wet cause, it would have subordinated other questions to such an extent that the people might say, "We don't want a Government administered with sole reference to the liquor question; we want all questions attended to. The Democratic party doesn't know anything about other questions. It can not be trusted with responsibility for the Government."

EGG-ROLLING—AND RAIN!

A certain wise man once remarked that he was not consulted when the universe was framed, and that, if he had been, he could have made valuable suggestions and improvements. If he had been in Washington yesterday he would have this opinion confirmed by the judgment of at least 25,000 children, who were thoroughly disgusted with the conduct of nature. Easter egg-rolling day, the greatest event of the year, and rain! What wretched mismanagement on the part of somebody, somewhere!

About 12,000 tots braved the rain and rolled eggs on the White House lawn, but they wished it to be distinctly understood that they were not pleased with the manner in which the universe was behaving. The clouds above them were a peculiarly repulsive color—dull, greasy brown, ragged at the edges, and leaking badly. A stealthy cold wind sneaked around corners like a thief. The White House flag fluttered and then drooped, and the trees deluged every child who touched the branches. The ground was sloppy, the grass clung to the eggs and would not let them roll freely, the rain spurted into everybody's eyes, and nothing was right at all.

Poor little toddlers! No one could see them struggling against disappointment and adversity without a throb of sympathy. They will face other disappointments later, but none will be greater than the disappointment of Easter egg-rolling day and its windy rain. These young citizens bravely went through with the attempt to have fun, but their holiday was spoiled by gross disarrangement of the weather schedule. They deserved a better dispensation of Providence. What they think of the management of the universe may not be made public, but undoubtedly they have well-defined opinions on the subject.

CITIES IN RIVALRY.

Next month the council of the League of Nations has to decide where the general disarmament conference will assemble in February, 1932. Geneva is a candidate for the honor, of course, and the profits that will come from an estimated attendance of probably 4,000 delegates, aids and visitors. But Geneva is worried as to whether it can offer as many attractions for the session as several of the half dozen rivals who are urging their advantages upon the council.

Biarritz, Vienna, Vichy, Cannes, Barcelona and Lausanne are all anxious to win the conference, as it will not only be profitable but a great advertisement. Vienna has long had ambitions to be the seat of the league, but just now it is too German to suit France. Conversely Biarritz, Cannes and Vichy are too French for the Germans. Barcelona is holding out the lure of reduced hotel rates and free use of her late exposition buildings for meetings, free railroad transportation throughout Spain, and free accommodations for delegates.

Lausanne offers better rail connections than Geneva, but even Lac Leman would not attract the attendance of Russian delegates, since a Soviet representative was assassinated there at a previous international love feast. The French claimants have better hotel accommodations and better climates than Geneva, but international prejudices interfere here as they do in the case of Vienna.

Geneva is making the most of the objections against her rivals and hoping to be successful in securing the meeting without making too great a draft upon the profits of $50,000 a day derived from the last conference.

MR. BINGHAM'S PLAN.

Senator Bingham's remedy for congressional extravagance is impressive, but hardly convincing. Most of the stalwart political figures who have advocated higher taxes to save the Government from further debt have carefully insured themselves against public indignation by demanding that the additional tax be levied against the rich. But Senator Bingham suggests that a larger number of people be taxed, so as to discourage the ever-increasing demand for larger appropriations.

Under present circumstances only a small percentage of the population pays any tax to the Federal Government. Consequently it is to the advantage of the majority to secure aid from the Federal Treasury even though it puts a heavier burden upon the tax-paying few. Senator Bingham wants to increase taxes all along the line, so that when a larger amount of money is appropriated a larger number of people will feel it. As soon as the people begin to realize that the money spent by Uncle Sam comes out of their own pockets, he thinks they will curtail their demands.

Senator Bingham has taken a courageous stand, but his argument rests upon a number of fallacies. It is doubtful whether the individual taxpayer can ever be made to feel a connection between his contribution to the Government and his demand for Government aid. This is especially true in the case of small taxpayers. Pressure upon Congress for aid comes from innumerable sources. All petitioners are in competition with one another. If taxes upon all of them were increased, they would still be anxious to get their share of Uncle Sam's bounty. Realizing that they help to support the Government, their demands might become more vociferous. It is idle to talk of reducing the demands upon the Government so long as politics is politics.

The chief deficiency in Senator Bingham's remedy, however, is its attempt to penalize the taxpayers for the sins of Congress. Taxpayers do not spend the Government's money. That is a function reserved solely for Congress. Senator Bingham's whole argument seems to be based on the impotency of Congress to resist the demands of special groups. Has legislation come to a point where Congress must bow to the demands of every faction so as to preserve the political strength of its members? This is a confession of congressional weakness that few politicians would be willing to make.

Congress has been given control of the national purse strings so that the interests of the people might be protected. When the people go to the polls and elect representatives they do not expect those representatives to levy nuisance taxes upon them to discourage petitions for aid or relief. They expect those representatives to be strong enough and honest enough to resist unwarranted raids on the Treasury. How can the taxpayers be blamed because some politicians vote recklessly for expenditures in order to win votes at the next election?

The vote on the recent bonus loan bill gives an excellent illustration of the irresponsibility of Congress. Public sentiment was opposed to the bill. But Congress disregarded the wishes of the unorganized public to placate the well-organized soldier vote. Expenditures can not be curtailed by making them hurt the public. Congress can not so easily shirk its responsibility. Instead of Congress penalizing the taxpayers for its own shortcomings, the people must learn to penalize those congressmen who play politics with Government funds.

PROHIBITION.

The week starts off with a rush of organized attack and defense of prohibition. The antidrys among the women are preparing to advance on the Capital in force next week. Under the auspices of Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform a two-day session will be held April 14 and 15, with 600 delegates present, representing 32 States. They will propose putting prohibition into politics, or what is an even more dangerous threat, taking politics out of the primaries, in their efforts to nominate antiprohibition candidates.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has been investigating the Norwegian system of liquor control, and yesterday began a public campaign to show the many advantages of this system over American constitutional prohibition. To the pronouncements from the two organized bodies must be added Mr. Raskob's new blast against prohibition in his appeal to Democratic national committeemen.

Forces upholding the eighteenth amendment were represented by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. The board attacked the report filed by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, calling particular attention to the fact that the funds employed during the first two months of this year were largely the contributions of ten millionaires. Returning from a trip through the South, F. Scott McBride, Antisaloon League executive, announced that there was no noticeable sentiment for repeal of the constitutional amendment, or modification of enforcement laws, in the Southern States. Furthermore, he found no resentment against prohibition in the South on the ground that it interfered with States' rights.

The discussions of prohibition, pro and con, reveal only too clearly that this not a partisan question. The two great parties are watching warily, each ready to take advantage of a misstep by the other, and neither one ready to hinge its fate upon any formula for solving the liquor problem.

"FEDERAL INTERFERENCE"

From the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

The Federal Power Commission continues to interfere with and delay the plans of the Appalachian Co., which for two years has been ready to begin the expenditure of $11,000,000 on a giant plant in southwest Virginia, and has now permitted Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania to charge into the situation and has issued instructions to the company to hold up action until Pinchot can be heard. The former commission, composed of members of President Hoover's Cabinet, failed to withdraw its interference in spite of the opinion of the Attorney General that it had nothing whatever to do with nonnavigable streams like New River. It passed the question over to the new body which began its career under a cloud and whose members, with perhaps one exception, are wholly unversed in problems of power in any form.

The State of Virginia, through the Corporation Commission, has given its assent to the Appalachian project, but concedes to the Federal Government, of course, the right to control interstate transmission of current, once the plant is in operation, and is willing for the commission to grant the company a limited license. In this move it is joined by West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, but the Federal Commission is debating whether or not it should take full control—in the face of the Attorney General's ruling denying its authority over nonnavigable streams.

Gov. Pinchot would have the Federal Commission take complete charge of development of the plant in question, as well as of disposition of its power, despite the obvious infringement on the rights safeguarded to Virginia on nonnavigable streams. W. E. Carson, chairman of the Virginia Commission on Conservation and Development, has filed with the commission at Washington an able brief that asserts Virginia's rights and denies the power of the Federal Government to interfere where the State is prepared to protect its own and the public's interest in the conservation and development of its water-power resources. * * *

Mr. Carson is indisputably right, of course. It is seldom that the Federal Government steps into any matter directly affecting the States but that it fumbles, delays and prejudices the interests of the people and properties affected. * * *

If Virginia were not prepared to protect the interests of its citizens and its natural resources, there might be some excuse for Federal interference, but the State is well fortified. It seeks to invite new capital to come in without special privilege but it abstains from unnecessary regulation, and the Appalachian recognized that policy when it worked out its plan to spend $11,000,000 on its plant on the New River. For the Federal Power Commission to step into the Virginia picture will mean the abandonment of the project and consequent loss to the State, certainly until the courts put the agency in its place.

Now to Get It Hatched.

POST HASTE.

A most unusual combination of words has occurred in the news lately: Wheat up 3 cents a bushel.

The allotment of 6 quarts of intoxicating liquor a year to dentists for administration to patients "if necessary to afford relief" has resulted in so many jokes on the dentists that it is getting on their nerves.

Mr. Raskob's appeal for opinionated help is all wet. Will he give equal publicity to the replies?

All that Southern Democrats are asked to say is this: We must all stand on the platform; therefore, let the candidate stagger, but mop every plank dry.

New York girds herself to enter the Tiger's lair just as Chicago prepares to give the coup de grace today to Caponeism—or reform.

Two members from each State make the national Democratic committee the same size as the Senate. If all the members exercise senatorial verbosity in answering Chairman Raskob's 4,000-word question, we are going to have a reply that will out-Wickersham the Congressional Record.

Commissioner Doran announces that diversion of legal alcohol into bootleg channels is at the lowest level since the advent of prohibition. No report on the amount of diversion of the illegal variety.

Gandhi stock is suffering the time-honored decline in a prophet's home market.

One of the interesting constructive suggestions in Mr. Raskob's message contemplates the establishment of a school by the Democratic national committee for newly elected members of Congress. But who will teach the teachers?

Gov. Pinchot names a commission to recommend new letter forms to eliminate such trite phrases as "Yours of even date." "twelfth inst.," "in re," "contents noted," &c. One old one—"check inclosed"—never grows tiresome.

Efficient engineering makes a ton of coal go a third farther than it used to, and has harnessed water power that is equivalent to 60,000,000 tons of coal a year. In other words, "efficiency" has engineered the coal miners out of their jobs. P. H.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT THE END.

In spite of the burdens that trouble us all,
In spite of the difficult tasks we guish and care
There is always some glorious day to recall,
There is always remembrance of happiness rare.
However we grumble at life we still own
Some memories pleasant we're glad to have known.

Something of life has been tender and sweet;
Some friends we've loved have been gentle and true;
In spite of the trials we all have to meet,
In spite of the difficult tasks we must do,
Still something of beauty and splendor remains
To comfort the heartaches and pay for the pains.

We mourn in our sorrow and whimper at care.
We fret through a trouble and frequently sigh;
We doubt the good Lord in our days of despair
As if never His sun had been seen in the sky.
But always we find we have memories glad,
Built out of the friendships and joys we have had.

When Men Seem to Salute a Flag, They Are Saluting the Power of a Nation.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MR. EINSTEIN declares that relatively few people are capable of understanding the highest form of religion. The others, he says, are unable to conceive of God except as a person.

That is true, in one sense, but it isn't true in the sense gleefully accepted by agnostics who delight in ridiculing God-fearing people.

The millions of intelligent Americans who worship God today do not visualize Him as a benevolent old man with a white beard.

They use the word "He" because their vocabularies contain no other that will express their meaning.

But they understand full well that God is a spirit, and they worship Him in spirit as nearly as physical beings can.

Men of all religions are in one sense worshipers of idols. And yet, in a literal sense, there are no idol worshipers anywhere and never have been.

The most primitive people have a religious sense that prompts them to believe in some power greater than man. They create God in their own image. That is, they conceive of a supreme being much like themselves. Their God is a confession of their own limitations.

If they are cruel and vindictive and delight in slaughter, they picture God as a monster who approves of their brutality. If they are compassionate and just, they see God as a being in whom these virtues are perfected. If you know a man's conception of God, you know the man.

From time immemorial, men have made images of their gods, but they never have worshiped the images. Idols are nothing more than efforts to visualize God.

If men worship before an image of the crucified Jesus, it is not the image they worship. They respect a church, and lower their voices in reverence as they enter it, but it isn't because they worship the church. It is because the church represents their God.

Physical beings in a physical world must think in terms of the physical. It is the limitation of their nature.

But they do not worship a physical God. The awe men feel in a courtroom is not inspired by the judge or the bench, but by the invisible majesty and power of the law.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Mr. Brookhart in Panama.

Chicago Tribune.

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa, had a severe attack of morals in Panama the other day and endeavored to make virtue as obnoxious as possible. Mr. Brookhart's gift for this is undeniable. His ability is one of almost incredible genius. If any person could cast a reproach, even on the accepted code of right living, it would be Mr. Brookhart in his frequent displays of perfect goodness. He makes the truly good too unpleasant to be followed, an achievement of doubtful value to the higher life.

Mr. Brookhart's inspiration seeing Panama was, naturally, in the direction of legislation. In the heat which an attack of morals always produces in the senator he said he would see to it that a law prohibited American soldiers and sailors (why not all Americans?) from entering any country where liquor was sold—a neat and purposeful postscript to the Kellogg pact which would give it real effectiveness.

Get Busy, George!

Lieut. Gov. Williams of Nebraska referred to Senators Norris, Borah, Brookhart and La Follette as "the most accomplished hell raisers the world has ever seen." Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, will have to look to his laurels as a public vituperator.

Divorcing Politics.

In spite of the discouragement of congressional opposition, Mr. Hoover is happy in the thought that he has been permitted to indulge his wish to put honest and capable men into positions of trust whose chief asset was not political pull.

Who's Extravagant?

Houston Post Dispatch.

In giving the country the very welcome assurance that there will be no increase in taxation, President Hoover could not refrain from taking another dig at Congress. There will be no increase, said the Chief Executive, provided Congress does not appropriate more money than the President asks for in his budget.

Twice before Mr. Hoover has peeved Congress greatly by insinuating that it was extravagant and reckless with public funds. Now, it appears, he is laying the predicate for putting the responsibility on the legislative houses, if when the new session opens, an increase in taxation is demanded. Certain members of Congress devote their energies chiefly to trying "to put the President in a hole." Mr. Hoover seems to be trying to return the compliment to Congress.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Veteran Punctures Slacker Argument of a Parent Who Opposes Military Training.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The "Outraged Parent," the father who objects to sending young men to a military camp, exhibits his lack of military training. I noticed that he did not state that he himself ever did his military duty. He let the other members of the family shoulder the burden. It is a bad idea to "cross bridges before we come to them," but there is such a thing as being prepared. If we were not prepared, it would be necessary to discharge all the policemen, till a robbery took place; all the firemen till a fire existed, and all the doctors till some one became sick. The soldier is the national policeman, continually subject to the neurotic misunderstanding of pacifists, who would be the first to run to a policeman if some one made a threatening gesture.

It is quite true that the World War was brought to a successful conclusion by the entry of the United States on the battle field with millions of husky young men prepared for a year behind the protection of the allied troops, and flung against a German army worn out with four long years of war and lack of spirit. Would the answer have been the same had it been a fresh German army of equal numbers, or would it have dragged out for four years more, like the Civil War, with its waste of man power?

Referring to the soldier as a "loafer" is contemptible. It has never been a question of whether one is too good to be a soldier, but whether he is good enough to do his military duty and protect the rights and liberties secured by the sacrifices of the Revolutionary soldier under the military leadership of George Washington.

A VETERAN.

Drys Fails to Mention Prosperity of Bootleggers as an Argument for Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently there has been more than the usual amount of boasting by the prohibitionists that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act have abolished the legalized saloon, but they always fail to mention that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act have also firmly established the bootlegger, the speakeasy and the racketeer. Notable achievements! Attention should be called to how greatly the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act have elevated the morals of our people with the boootlegger, the speakeasy and the racketeer and promoted the prosperity of many of these most notable and conspicuous fellow citizens. It is true that "at times" in some parts of the country, unfriendly and jealous people have interfered with and checked the prosperity of these noted ones, but they, with the support of the powerful eighteenth amendment and the powerful Volstead act, have soon reestablished themselves in some more friendly neighborhood and have pursued their business with increased success and profit. It is a shame that the prohibitionists should be so ungrateful and selfish as not to mention all the blessings conferred on the country by the amendment and the act.

FAIR PLAY.

Immunity of Neutral Commerce Should Be Agreed Upon by Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Trying to fulfill my part as a good citizen, I generally manage to keep tolerably well posted on politics here at home, but, when it comes to international affairs, I am as puzzled as I used to be in the days of the entente cordiale, the balance of power, and spheres of influence.

To this there is one exception, however, and that is in regard to freedom of the seas. Disregard for the right of the neutral shipping by nations at war with one another is clearly uncivilized. The mere thought of it arouses my indignation, and that is why I always welcome editorials like that on "National Safety," in which you comment on the suggestion of British experts that the size of battleships be reduced.

As you point out, big battleships, owing to the great distances which must be covered in defending our coasts and insular possessions, the Panama Canal, and ocean trade, are an absolute necessity, and you are right in deprecating "the solicitude of foreign experts in behalf of enfeebling the United States Navy."

Our pacifists have no ground to stand on so long as European governments treat America's desire for freedom of the seas with diplomatic indifference. Opposition to the League of Nations would be much less than it is in this country, if, as an evidence of good faith, Great Britain would lead the rest of the Old World in giving freedom of the seas its proper standing in international law.

Mail Trucks With Motors Running Block Sidewalks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The police regulations of Washington forbid the driver of a car to leave it parked with the motor running. It may be that this rule does not apply to drivers of postoffice vehicles. I am rather inclined to believe it does not, because all the mail drivers leave the motor running when they park to collect the mail. I have seen it done repeatedly in the downtown business sections right under the eyes of the police. Mail trucks make a practice of blocking the sidewalk.

If the police of Washington are not inclined to put a stop to this practice of mail truck drivers, the Postmaster General should require these drivers to show some consideration for the pedestrians and forbid them to block the sidewalks with their cars.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mrs. Mondell Elected to Lead G.O.P. Women

Mrs. Harriman Is Given Silver Bowl by League as She Retires.

HAVING officiated as president of the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia for three years, Mrs. Edward A. Harriman at the annual election yesterday retired from office, and Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, wife of the former representative from Wyoming, was elected as her successor, having been first vice president.

Presiding over the annual meeting, held in Barker Hall of the Y. W. C. A., as chairman of the nominating committee and parliamentarian of the association, was Miss Janet Richards. All proposed amendments were postponed until the meeting in October that the entire attention of the members could be centered on voting. The polls were open from 10 until 3 o'clock, when the ballots were counted and the results read.

As a graceful gesture in behalf of Mrs. Harriman, a group of friends presented her with a handsome silver bowl, a copy of the Paul Revere bowl in the Metropolitan Museum.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Frank Carter, Mrs. Margaret Benjamin and Mrs. Marion Butler. Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture and a close friend of Mrs. Harriman, contributed to the ceremony with a gift of roses for the bowl.

Mrs. Harriman felt that she had been president of the organization "long enough" and declined a renomination.

From a count of 189 votes cast, 155 went straight with the resulting ticket: Mrs. Mondell, president; vice president, Mrs. Gilbert H. Grosvenor; second vice president, Mrs. Samuel J. Prescott; third vice president, Mrs. Harry K. Daugherty; fourth vice president, Mrs. Luther Reichelderfer; fifth vice president, Mrs. Edward A. Keyes; sixth vice president, Mrs. Joshua T. Newcomb.

Mrs. Howard T. LeRoy was elected recording secretary; Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman assisting recording secretary; Mrs. Bruce Baird, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frederick C. Hicks, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry E. Hull, treasurer; Mrs. Proctor L. Dougherty, assistant treasurer.

Directors: Mrs. Warren G. Haines, Mrs. Flora McGill Keefer, Mrs. Burnet A. Shelton Matthews, Mrs. George H. Moses and Mrs. Harry S New.

Organized in 1912 and incorporated in 1924 as the League of Republican Women, with the object of educating women in the ideals and principles of the Republican party and the dissemination of political information, the club now numbers 900 members. Mrs. Harriman, during her presidency, engendered a policy of activity and maintained a high level of interest among members.

Timberlakes Return From Trip in South.

Representative and Mrs. Charles B. Timberlake have returned to their apartment at the Shoreham Hotel after an extended trip through the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Colt De Wolf will sail from New York April 25 for Geneva, where Mr. De Wolf will be connected with the disarmament section of the League of Nations for two years. Mr. De Wolf recently resigned from the State Department, where he has been on duty in the office of the Secretary.

The financial counselor of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Alexander Woytkiewicz, is now at the Shoreham Hotel, where he has taken an apartment for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Q. Nyce entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel last evening. Their guests included Miss Dorothy Stalcup, Miss Margaret Collson, Miss Eleanor Wright, Mr. Alton Rowland and Mr. Kenneth Rowland, both of Bartlesville, Okla., and Mr. Thomas Finney and Mr. Grover Ledlie, jr., both of Richmond.

Mrs. Franklin W. Fort, of East Orange, N. J., and her son, who have been traveling in Europe with Miss Margaretta Fort, of West Orange, and her niece, Miss Peggy Fort, of Plainfield, have been spending several weeks in Tangier.

They expect to return to America in May. Miss Barbara Fort has been acting as hostess in Orange for her father, Representative Fort, who is in Washington during the winter season.

Former Berlin Vice Consul Engaged to Marry.

Mr. and Mrs. Heubert H. Knox, of New Canaan, Conn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sylvia Doughty Knox, to Mr. Robert Newbegin 2d, of Boston, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Edward Henry Newbegin, of Cambridge, Mass.

Miss Knox was educated in Europe and at Bryn Mawr College, from which she was graduated in 1930.

Mr. Newbegin was graduated from Yale in 1927. He is in the foreign service and recently was American Vice Consul at Berlin, Germany. He is now on duty with the Department of State.

Mr. Ray Atherton, Counselor of the American Embassy at London, will be away from London for a few weeks on a visit to his relatives in Boston, Mass. Mrs. Atherton, who was Miss Maud Hunnewell, the golfer, will remain in England.

Will Wed in June

MISS ERNESTINE ROWLAND WERTENBAKER,

daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. George L. Wertenbaker, who announced her engagement to Lieut. Charles Grant Goodrich, Air Corps, U. S. A. The wedding will take place early in June at Rock Rest, Bluemont, Va., the summer home of the late Mr. Hugh B. Rowland, uncle of Miss Wertenbaker.

Another Home Will Soon Open To MacNider

Minister to Canada Gets Lease of Fashionable House in Ottawa.

Moving day and Mr. Hanford MacNider, Minister to Canada, seem to be synonomous. Apparently the regular job of house hunting, which constitutes a nemesis to the envoy in Ottawa must go hand in hand with daily questions of international concern. With the coming of April, "spring moving time," the minister has again taken a lease on another Ottawa residence and is safe, at least, until another spring. Having obtained a commodious place in fashionable Rockliffe Park near the residence of the governor general the minister will "have a roof over his head" spacious enough for formal entertaining.

Last fall the Minister and Mrs. MacNider went through the throes of house hunting, finally leasing the old Rowley homestead in the Sandy Hill district, the ultra smart area in he northern capital known to fashionable visitors. Prior to that they had occupied a hotel suite, which had been the solution given the house problem by former Minister William Phillips who ultimately left the service, wearied, rumor had it, with the struggle of house hunting in Ottawa.

Just when the Minister and Mrs. MacNider will relinquish the house they are now occupying is not determined. To retain the place through the spring would be pleasant as the mansion is surrounded by gardens famous throughout Canada. Planted with a wide variety of shrubs and fine trees the gardens boast a wonderful background for the flowers that grow to immense size in the northern province. Like the one just leased by the envoy, the mansion is one of the handsomest in the capital but apparently must "slip through his fingers" and go back to its owner.

The United States Government has its plans completed for the erection this year of an office structure facing the parliament buildings which will house the Minister and his staff of officials of the Immigration, consular and trade departments. But the difficult problem of living quarters is left to the diplomat himself.

Col. MacNider's popularity during his brief residence in Ottawa has prompted much favorable comment from the Canadian press. The other day his luncheon guests were members of the diplomatic set and of the Parliamentary press gallery; eminent Americans visiting there are shown the Canadian capital and given the "inside" peep into affairs, and rare is the day that something of importance fails to happen on the social end of the Minister's record.

Lieut. Francis W. Reichelderfer, attached to the Navy dirigible Los Angeles, is among the passengers who will reach London this week, crossing from New York aboard the George Washington.

Mr. R. L. Austin, of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, is at the Shoreham Hotel for an indefinite period. He is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Lucyelle Austin.

The Charge d'Affaires of the Egyptian Legation and Mme. Aly Ismail Bey entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of the retiring Naval Attache of the British Embassy and Mrs. Ritchie.

Mrs. E. H. G. Slater has returned from an extended stay in the South and is again established at her residence on Eighteenth street.

White House Post Is Given To Mrs. Butler

Social Secretary, Chosen by Mrs. Hoover, Hails From California.

With the appointment by Mrs. Hoover of Mrs. Fred B. Butler as social secretary to succeed Miss Ruth Fesler, whose engagement to Mr. Robert Lockwood Lipman, of San Francisco, was announced yesterday, "foreign" territory maintains its lead in the question of social secretary to the First Lady, a position formerly cherished by the Capital as traditionally belonging to one of its own daughters.

For Mrs. Butler is a Californian, the State to which Miss Fesler has divided, with Minnesota, her allegiances as she gained her college degree from Stanford University. Also a Stanford graduate Mrs. Butler, then Miss Philipi Harding, served Mrs. Hoover "off and on" as secretary at the Hoover residence in Palo Alto in 1918. Three years later upon Mr. Hoover's selection to the post of Secretary of Commerce, Miss Harding came to Washington with Mrs. Hoover, whom she served as social secretary until 1924. She then went out to China, where she became the bride of Lieut. Butler, who is now associated with Lieut. Col. Grant 3d in the department of Public Buildings and Public Parks in Washington.

Since the resignation about fifteen months ago of Miss Mary Randolph as social secretary to Mrs. Hoover the staff of White House secretaries, which included then Miss Fesler and Miss Mildred Hall, has claimed no Washingtonian, as the one is from the West and the other from nearby Maryland—or is it Virginia? Another Westerner, Miss Helen Greene, of Minnesota, filled in temporarily last summer, dividing her time, with Mrs. Hoover, between Washington and the Rapidan.

The old days of "old Washingtonians" as secretaries has flitted by the boards, at least, for a time. Preceding Miss Randolph were Miss Laura Harlan and Miss Belle Hagner, sister of Mr. Randall Hagner, and now Mrs. Norman James, of Baltimore, the latter an intimate friend of the Roosevelt family and Mrs. Roosevelt's chief social adviser during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Robert Randolph Simpson entertained young people at the dinner dance session at the Shoreham Hotel last evening, the occasion marking his birthday. His guests included Miss Marguerite Gaffer, Miss Argean Rudd, Miss Leah Rudd, Mr. Charles Baker and Mr. William Nichols.

Miss Adele Black, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Eugene Black, will leave tomorrow to pass the Easter holidays with friends in Virginia, where she will remain until Monday.

Maj. W. E. Goodman, who has been the guest of his aunts, Mrs. Thomas Hamilton Wilson and Miss Abercrombie during a short stay here while he was engaged in assisting with the completion of details for the entertainment of the King and Queen of Siam, has returned to his home in Chestnut Hills, Pa.

Dorothy Wills Is Among First Easter Brides

Marriage to Bernard J. Atchison Takes Place in Church.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Jordan Wills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Wills, to Mr. Bernard J. Atchison took place last evening at 6 o'clock in the Church of Nativity.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of flesh color Chantilly lace, made in empire style, with a long train and a veil of tulle which fell from a lace cap trimmed with gardenias. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The only attendant, Miss Margaret Mary Collins, was dressed in a frock of pale green. She wore matching hat and shoes and carried a corsage of pink snapdragons and yellow daisies.

Mr. John Bowden, of Staten Island, N. Y., a cousin of the briddegroom, was best man. There were no ushers.

At the reception after the ceremony Mrs. Wills stood in line with her son-in-law and daughter to receive the guests. She was gowned in lace aquamarine, with a hat and shoes to match, and caried a corsage of yellow roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Atchison and his bride, after the wedding trip, will reside in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin Cochran entertained at luncheon on Sunday in honor of the Princess Margaret Boncompagni, who left yesterday for New York, where she will be for ten days prior to her departure for Europe, where she will spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bacon, accompanied by Miss Juliet Bacon, of Danbury, Conn., have arrived at the Powhatan to remain a week.

Vice President Is Honor Guest At Polo Ball

Function Brilliant Event; Pattons Entertain With Dinner.

Although escorted to his box with pomp and circumstance, the Vice President, honor guest at the Polo Ball at the Mayflower last night, would have experienced no trouble in finding his "bearings" had he been left to his own devices, for above the gayly decked box allotted Mr. Curtis, Mrs. Edward Gann and their party was a placard—"Vice President—bred—Kansas; National Matches—Republican vs. Democrat."

The Vice President and his party were escorted to the ball by Maj. George S. Patton, Jr., and Mrs. Patton, who entertained at dinner in their honor, having about 116 guests, all of whom attended the ball. Maj. Patton, who had a number of boxes last night, "distributed" his guests in the gayly decked chairs.

Placards similar to those above the honor guests' box beckoned officials to the merrymaking of the evening. Above Gen. MacArthur's box were the huge letters: "MacArthur—bred—Arkansas; Army Championship Matches." Secretary Hurley's legend ran: "Hurley—bred—Oklahoma; National Matches, Republican vs. Democrat." Of international character was that of Count Szechenyi: "Imported—Hungary; International Matches." The Japanese Ambassador's name was printed in Japanese characters.

Bunting in spring colors added to the bright features of the ball which was attended by hundreds of dancers representing diplomatic, official, Army and Navy circles, as well as a distinguished group of residential society. Lending a happy note was the large number of young people in town this week from their colleges.

Presenting a perfect replica of a polo field the space allotted for that purpose was particularly lovely last night. A white fence surrounded the green "sod" and above were bright banners, while each box boasted a gay blanket as an additional decoration.

Hunter was there, of course, a special stall having been built for the famous horse in the Chinese room.

The box holders included Vice President Charles Curtis, the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi, Countess Szechenyi, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, the chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U. S. A.; Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed, Senator and Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. David S. Ingalls, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. George Van Horn Moseley, Brig. Gen. Charles G. Treat, Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Leander McCormick Goodhart, Maj. and Mrs. G. S. Patton, jr., Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Merrill, Mrs. George Mesta, Mr. R. M. Kauffmann, Mrs. Thomas J. Walsh, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Henry Dickinson and Mrs. Marion W. Dawley.

Much interest is being manifested in social circles here in the series of lectures to be given at the Willard Hotel, beginning today, under the auspices of the Episcopal Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Spencer Wood, wife of Rear Admiral Spencer Wood, is chairman. Miss Mary Y. Wheeler is serving as chairman of the lecture committee. Among the speakers who will give the course are Mr. Charles Moore, chairman of the National Commission on Fine Arts, who will speak today on "The Bicentennial of George Washington's Birth;" April 17, Miss Grace Lincoln Temple, "The Madonna and Nativity;" April 24, the Rev. Dr. ZeBarney Phillips, on "The Passion Play of Oberammergau," and May 1, Mr. Paul Wilstach on "Mount Vernon and the Historic Potomac." The Right Rev. James E. Freeman willl introduce the speakers.

The patronesses for the lectures include Mrs. Spencer S. Wood, Mrs. Henry E. Cooke, Mrs. Walter M. Gilbert, Mrs. Willliam Partridge, Mrs. Nevil Monroe Hopkins, Miss Lucy A. Grant, Mrs. Albert Martin, Mrs. Swager Sherley and Miss Emily C. Matthews.

The ushers will be under the direction of Miss Caroline Markalow, president of the junior auxiliary.

A luncheon will be given by the committee in charge, consisting of Miss Mary Y. Wheeler, chairman; Mrs. Grace Perry and Mrs. John Morris Harding, at which Rear Admiral and Mrs. Spencer Wood will be guests of honor.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Catherine Sharpless, of Keyser, W. Va., and Mr. Vernon B. Wilson, of Cumberland, Md., on Saturday at the parsonage of Douglas Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, in Washington, where the Rev. Arthur Hart McKinley performed the ceremony. Miss Lola Sharpless, Charleston, W. Va., sister of the bride, and Miss Isabel Pifer, of Washington, witnessed the ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. James A. Sharpless, of Keyser. She is a graduate of the music and collegiate departments of Potomac State College. For several years she has had charge of the Keyser bureau of the Cumberland Evening Times.

Arthur Thomas Ewing, formerly of Charlottesville but now of Nelson County, announces the engagement of his daughter, Marion Coleman, to Mr. Edwin Burton Kyle, of Huntington, W. Va. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Ewing is the daughter of Mr. Arthur Thomas Ewing and the late Mrs. N. Coleman Ewing, of Elk Hill, Nelson County. On her maternal side she is a great-great-granddaughter of Lieut. Gov. Howes of Kentucky, and a granddaughter of Dr. Hawes Nicholas Coleman, of Virginia. She was educated at Chatham Hall and Virginia College, and is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the United States Daughters of 1812.

Mr. Kyle is the son of the late Mr. James Henry and Elizabeth Cox Kyle, of Galax, Va., and a grandson of Judge William Kyle of Hillsville, Va. He makes his home in Huntington, W. Va.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde are the guests in whose honor Mrs. Edward A. Harriman will entertain at luncheon on Friday at the Chevy Chase Club.

Miss Herron's Home Wedding Brilliant Rite

Oliver E. Zimmermann, Bridegroom, Is From Milwaukee.

Miss Charlotte Virginia Herron, daughter of Col. and Mrs. LeRoy Herron, and Mr. Oliver Eustace Zimmermann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zimmermann, of Milwaukee, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents on Garfield street, the ceremony being performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. George F. Dudley, of St. Stephen's and the Incarnation.

Attractive decorations of palms, ferns and spring flowers formed the background for the ceremony, which was followed by a reception.

The bride was given away by her father. Her gown was of eggshell satin made on long lines and her tulle veil was held in place by a cape of rose point. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses made in shower fashion.

Her two attendatns were here sister, Mrs. Rembrandt Lane, of East Orange, N. J., and the sister of the bridegroom, Miss Eunice Zimmermann, of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Lane wore blue lace and her bouquet of spring flowers were tied with pin ribbon. Miss Zimmermann wore pink lace and her bouquet was tied with blue.

Frederick Guest, of Chicago, was best man for Mr. Zimmermann.

Mrs. Herron wore a gown of pale orchid lace, and Mrs. Zimmermann had chosen gray lace and chiffon. Each wore a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included the bridegroom's parents and members of his family, Mrs. J. Whit Herron, of Atlanta; Miss Kitty Butner, also of Atlanta; A. C. Smith and E. B. Burgess, of New York.

The couple will sail on Saturday from New York on the S. S. George Washington to spend a month in England. Later they are going to Spain, where they expect to be for six months. Upon their return to this country they will make their home either in New York or Chicago.

For her traveling costume the bride wore a beige crepe dress with a beige coat trimmed with a broadtail collar and brown accessories.

Democratic Club Hears Lecture on Economics.

Dr. William Hale was the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon given yesterday by the Women's National Democratic Club. He discussed "the chemical revolution, the industrial depression and the befuddled politicians."

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Huston Thompson, Judge and Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham, Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, Miss Elizabeth Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Miss Marvin Breckenridge, Mrs. Carter B. Keene, Mrs. Van Ness Philip, Mrs. M. A. J. Markley, Mrs. N. P. Webster, Mrs. Peter John McGovern, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, Mrs. Joseph C. Abraham Lincoln Circle Observes Creed Day.

A meeting was held by the Abraham Lincoln Circle of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic last evening at the Willard. This is the first patriotic organization to observe American Creed Day. The ladies also expect to observe Appomattox Day April 9 and Gen. Ulysses S. Grant's birthday, April 27. Mrs. Media Bergren is president of the circle.

Mrs. Houston Harper and her daughter, Miss Julie Harper, have returned to their home from Miami, Fla., where they spent the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roll, of the University of Virginia, announce the engagement of their sister Miss Gladys Driscoll, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Driscoll of Charlottesville, to Mr. Frederick Virginius Watkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Watkins, of Suffolk, Va., and an alumnus of the University of Virginia. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Miss Caldwell Becomes Bride In St. Andrew's

Reception After Wedding to Arthur Evarts Kimberly.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Burgess Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Caldwell, to Mr. Arthur Evarts Kimberly, son of Col. and Mrs. H. S. Kimberly, took place last evening at 8 o'clock in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, with the Rev. J. J. Dimon officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of eggshell satin and alencon lace. The lace was used to form the sleeves and cowl neck. A circular train was cut in one with the skirt, which fell to the floor all around. She wore a tulle veil trimmed with pearls and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Her sister, Miss Mary Catherine Caldwell was maid of honor. She wore a frock of blue mousseline de soie, with matching hat and shoes and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink and blue flowers.

The other attendants, Mrs. John H. Olcott and Mrs. Frederick Doermann, of New York, who were matrons of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Ridgely, Miss Dorothy Gray, Miss Frances Laws and Miss Edna E. Kimberly, were dressed alike in frocks of eggshell mousseline de soie over pink taffeta slips. They wore blue hats and shoes and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Only the members of both families, a few intimate friends and the members of the wedding party were present.

Mr. Kimberly and his bride, after the wedding trip, will reside in Chevy Chase.

The Col. John Donelson Chapter of the D. A. R. will hold a dinner party at the Shoreham Hotel this evening.

Miss Carol Gordon Herndon, who is attending school in Virginia, will spend Easter week at the University of Virginia. While there she will be the guest of Miss Anne Harrison Shepherd.

Mr. William duPont, jr., of Wilmington, Del., is at the Willard for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jackson Somerville entertained at a buffet supper on Sunday night. Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Reginald Conard, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Channing S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Jarrell, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Somerville, Miss Susan Nicholson, Mr. G. Mallon, Miss Lidall Echart, Mr. William Lytell, Mr. Ralph A. McKee and Mr. Bernard King.

WHAT OTHER AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATOR CAN OFFER YOU all these advantages?

ALL AUTOMATIC refrigerators have their good points. If they didn't they couldn't be sold at all. You, dear lady about to buy an automatic refrigerator, want to consider which make has the most good points. You will want to weigh carefully in your mind which make will give you the best service for the least possible amount of money.

Suppose, then, we run briefly over the facts about an automatic refrigerator which is unique, which is entirely different than any other automatic refrigerator—the Gas Refrigerator, Electrolux.

It is completely automatic, yet non-mechanical. It has no machinery at all. It is absolutely silent in operation, even after years of service. It costs less to use than any other refrigerator, automatic or ice. 6 cents a day pays the entire operating cost. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it sound almost unbelievable?

No one can be blamed for thinking Electrolux impossible. But it only seems that way. It's as easy to understand as ABC, once you know the way it works. A tiny gas flame and a trickle of water take the place of all moving parts in this refrigerator. That's how it circulates the refrigerant that makes the cold and freezes ice cubes. The refrigerant itself is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. It is hermetically sealed in rigid steel, and never needs renewal. The little gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off. The gas must burn, or the gas shuts off automatically.

The chilling action is continuous in this refrigerator. There's no stopping and starting. It is the only one that works that way, and so it gives you constant, steady cold. Installation is simple. Connections for gas and water are made quickly.

QUICK FACTS

- 1. Permanently noiseless.
- 2. 6c a day average operating cost.
- 3. Automatic, but non-mechanical. No moving parts.
- 4. Works continuously, no stopping and starting.
- 5. Maintains constant, steady cold.
- 6. Freezes plenty of ice cubes.
- 7. Refrigerant hermetically sealed in rigid steel . . . never needs renewal.
- 8. Dependable . . . no machinery to get out of order.
- 9. More than 145,000 already in use.
- 10. Free lifetime service.
- 11. 2 years to pay—no finance charges.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

Free Lifetime Service

You get free lifetime service on Electrolux, instead of merely a guarantee for a year or so.

The purchase prices are reasonable, despite the many advantages of this refrigerator. They range from $235 to $775 installed in your home.

2 years to pay---no finance charges

You have two years to pay for your Electrolux if you buy it before May 1, with only a small down payment. $10 a month covers monthly payment for the average size, and the saving on ice alone pays for a substantial part of that. And you pay no finance charges at all.

There are 10 household models of Electrolux, ranging in size from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. We have displays at all our showrooms, and invite you to come in and take advantage of these special low terms. We feel certain that after looking thoroughly into Electrolux, even after you have looked at other makes, you will agree it is the best value you can buy. For complete information by mail, write to us, or phone NAtional 8280.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the name of the begonia of which I am inclosing a leaf. I received it at Christmas time. Please also tell me if the second leaf is from a rex begonia.

MRS. A.

The large leaf you inclosed was from a begonia mellior; the small one from a rex begonia.

Please examine the inclosed leaves and tell me if you can detect any insects on them. MRS. WALTER I.

Yes, the leaves are covered with scale. Better remove the fronds which are covered with insects, then with the aid of a small brush go over all the remaining fronds and literally scrub away each insect. In the future, in order to prevent a return of pests, spray the plant three times a week with cold water. Use a forceful spray and see that it reaches the undersurface of the leaves.

My blue-flowered hydrangea which is growing in a pot in my living room continues to send forth new shoots, but none of the leaves reach normal size. The plant, while healthy, seems feeble. What do you suggest?

J. C.

A hydrangea must be in constant sunshine and it must have water in sufficient quantity to moisten all the soil in the pot. I would suggest that at this time you give the plant some stimulation in the form of liquid manure or some bonemeal.

One week ago I purchased a most beautiful blooming plant of which I am inclosing a leaf and flower. I am keeping it in a warm room and watering it daily. Is this the treatment it requires, for the plant is dying; at least, all the flowers and foliage are wilting.

AGNES K.

You plant is a cyclamen. It does require a daily drink and plenty of light, but not too much sun. Better write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a circular which we have prepared for readers of this column on the care of the cyclamen.

My strawberry plant and a Wandering Jew, growing in the same pot, have become infested with tiny insects. Although I have the plants in a southern exposure, they get very little sunshine at this season.

MRS. J. S.

Better make it routine treatment to spray the plants once each day with cold water. It is the warm, dry air of the house that is responsible for the insects. Such air debilitates the plant and when a plant's constitution is undermined it is apt to become the prey of some insect enemy.

Please examine the inclosed frond of a fern and then tell me what to do to improve the plant's condition, also tell me the name of the inclosed leaf and what to do to make it bloom. It is nice and green, but so far all winter it has had no flowers.

MRS. M. H.

The frond you inclosed indicated that the plant required more root room or some food. Better move it into a size larger pot, using fresh soil in which you have added a generous portion of bonemeal, or if you do not want to transplant it at this time, give it bonemeal or liquid manure. If you use the latter, be sure to moisten the soil before applying the manure. Your impatience sultana is likely suffering for want of water or fresh air. The impatience requires a warm, sunny but well-ventilated location and water every day.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Quiet elegance in evening wear is perfectly expressed in this black chiffon dinner dress all-over hand-tucked and trimmed in ostrich feathers at the hem. (Courtesy of Maggy Rouff, Paris.)

Paris, April 6.

IT'S smart and chic and stylish and all that to combine several colors in one costume, but that doesn't mean, or, far from it, that you can combine three or four just any colors at all and voila, you're chic! Since it's very possible to make mistakes in combining only two colors, just imagine how the possibility for errors increases when you get into the three and even four-color-combination-class!

You have to have a pretty true eye for color values, to go in for combining them, in a big way. You have to either definitely know or else have a sound instinct about the composition of various colors, or else you're out of luck when it comes to combining them. For instance, you can have a summer chiffon frock in several shades of which purple is the foundation tint—such as violet with mauve, lavender and lilac in the trimming. But that isn't all. To make life more complicated, you must make sure that these colors are either all of the "warm" variety (that is, with lots of red in them) or all "cold" (that is, with the blue in them predominating).

Suppose you choose yellow-green (a sort of sulphur-green) for a dress. Well, your trimming can be mustard yellow and another shade of green with yellow in it. Beige, cream and brown dresses can have a dash of orange in the trimming. But you simply can't or shouldn't combine a red-brown with a bluish yellow, or a yellow-green with a blue-green.

The smartest and safest way to mix colors is to have the dress or suit of one plain color, and this can be either the dark or the light shade of the particular color, and have the contrasting colors all in the trimmings or accessories.

* * * *

You have to wear a scarf or a capelet or something wispy and feminine and lovely around your shoulders, if you would be chic this summer * * * in the evening for dinners both formal and informal, in the afternoons, in the house and on the veranda. But that something can't be just any old something, oh, dearie me, no * * * it must look ever so nonchalant and be ever so calculated! In fact, these summer evening scarfs have become so much a work of art that there isn't a single Parisian couturier who hasn't designed one or two. Well, this week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make the most charming and easily made one in all Paris, so you certainly had better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it.

* * * *

Now that's the kind of a dress, exactly the kind of a dress, that I like to buy for myself! One looks and looks at gorgeous pictures in fashion magazines, one ohs and ahs at the collections of the Haute Couture when the striking and unusual things pass * * * and then one chooses a gown like this Maggy Rouff model that I have illustrated for you today, invariably. Because you see at a glance that it is elegant, that it is luxurious and expensive looking, that it is inconspicuous and very, very chic. Being chiffon the fact that it is black doesn't make it very heavy, and the skirt edging of ostrich plumes lightens it even further in effect. And then rows upon rows of fine tucks all done by hand * * * and that's as far as you have to go before you're convinced that it's exactly the kind of a gown for so many occasions that there isn't any use in wondering any longer whether you ought to have it.

At least that's exactly the way this gown strikes me!

* * * *

Successful trimming for our dresses or coats is a big subject. It will be discussed in Dare's weekly fashion letter in next Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 7 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 1:45 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.

The astrological indications of April 7 are very favorable for all those engaged in professional work, and success, possibly despaired of yesterday, is assured. For all others the signs are not so propitious, and no valuable material awards can be anticipated. It will only be possible to report slow progress.

A child born on this April 7 will always be distinguished by an affable attitude and a generous spirit. It does not promise to be particularly clever, although it will labor at its studies. Its disposition will be the one great asset on which it will have to build its career.

If you were born on April 7 you are indefatigable in pursuit of knowledge. This was very much in evidence in your youth, and the learning you have acquired only seems to convince you that you know very little, and you are avid to satiate yourself with proven facts. Your laudable curiosity is not confined to any particular subject. In your office, in your home and in social life you are never content with superficiality. You always probe the depths.

Your interests are, possibly, too diversified to bring you any great measure of success. On the other hand, your painstaking efforts make you reliable and dependable. You, unfortunately, lack imagination, and only delve into what is or has been, and never dream of what might be. You do not evince much interest in social attractions. You prefer solitude, where, to your own satisfaction, you can solve the problems that perplex and worry you. You are not, however, a curmudgeon, and when with others you have a graciousness all your own that charms and pleases.

If a woman, your home is scientifically managed and you are thrifty. It would be better, possibly, if you did not suppress emotion quite so much. In the long run a man sets more value on demonstrated affection than on a house run like clockwork.

Successful people born April 7:

Frances C. Lowell, founder of Lowell, Mass.

Lewis Nixon, ship builder.

William A. Pinkerton, detective.

William Wadsworth, poet.

Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, 1903-1928.

John H. Gear, Governor of Iowa.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Copeland" (also spelled "Copland" and Coupland") is of English origin. It means "the hill-land" and "the peak-land," and indicates that the families which are so called originally had their homes in such territory. Some of the families which bear this name have received it because of having once lived in the town of Coupland in Northumberland. A certain Johannes de Coupland is mentioned in an English record of the year 1379.

The family name "Schneider" is the German equivalent of "Taylor," and therefore means "the cutter." It is one of the most numerous of German family names. Some of its commonest modern variations are "Schneiders," "Snyder," Snyders," "Schnier," "Schniers," "Schnieder" and "Schnieders."

The family name "Cobb" (also spelled "Cobbe") has come down to us from several quite different sources. It is frequently derived from "Cobba," a rather common Anglo Saxon personal name. "Cobba" is generally a shortened form of "Cobbold," which is still found as an English family name. "Cobbold," in turn, is found as a shortened form of both "Cuthbeald" and "Godbeald." Of these two Anglo Saxon personal names the former means "famous boldness." The latter may be translated "divine boldness" and "good boldness." Sometimes "Cobb" is a diminutive form of "Jacob." The personal name "Jacob" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and means "the supplanter." Finally, "Cobb" has frequently become confused with "Copp," which has a quite different source. A certain Richard Cobb and a Robert Cobb are mentioned in an English document of the year 1279. (The next article of this series will include further remarks concerning this name.)

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

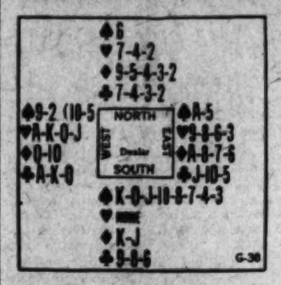
A PREEMPTIVE BID THAT FAILED.



WITH the above hand at Auction Bridge South should try to preempt by bidding four Spades; but the attempt would fail because West would bid five Hearts.

When the hand was played at Contract, South felt that he could make game at Spades with a little help from North, and did not want either of his opponents to find out the strength the other might have in Hearts; so he bid four Spades. He reasoned that North would understand the bid to be pre-emptive and would not venture toward a slam with only a couple of tricks. North, however, was in no danger of raising; but West spoiled the pre-emptive effort by bidding five Hearts, and East then called six although he appreciated that West's five Hearts was not a natural bid, but East's four-card Heart suit and two Aces (one in the adverse suit) made slam prospects seem promising.

In the play, North led a Spade which dummy's Ace captured. Three rounds of hearts then were led, the third being won in dummy, exhausting North's trumps. Then East led a small Diamond. But South won with the King and cashed a Spade, defeating the contract.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer's lead of a Diamond was a mistake. There was no way in which he could have opened that suit and not have lost a trick in it which, coupled with the Spade that must be won by the adversaries, spelled defeat.

After exhausting the adverse trumps declarer should have led three Clubs and eliminated that suit from his two hands; then the Nine of Spades which also eliminated that suit and put South in the lead. This would be sound play because South, having ventured a four-bid, probably had the King of Diamonds.

If South holds and leads the thirteenth Club, East will ruff and West discard a losing Diamond; the same thing will happen if South leads a Spade. If he leads the Diamond Jack, West's Queen wins; if the King, East's Ace wins and West's Queen becomes a second-round winner. Consequently Declarer's small slam would have been secure as soon as he had completed the Spade-Club elimination and put South in the lead.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Reformed Husbands.

FROM the beginning of time, woman has been running around in circles seeking whom she may reform, until now the average woman can not be happy without someone to rescue. This phenomenon is hard on husbands. And it accounts for that made-over look that is the outstanding characteristic of so many married men. That "am-I-doing-and-saying-the-right-thing" sort of look. We never supposed that these made-over husbands were themselves conscious of the look. But it seems from the letter which follows that they are. That adds one more complication to life. And we hereby willingly do our bit toward righting the wrongs of made-over husbands, and publish the husband's side of this reform-for-reform's-sake phase of marital existence.

Dear Frances McDonald: The young bride who wrote you complaining of the fact that her husband of two months committed the dastardly crime of removing his collar when he arrived home from work at night is in for a woman's idea of a grand time. She is disciplining the poor wretch by making him eat alone, thus forcing him to come around to her wishes. She will start with the collar and before she or the husband know what it is all about, the man will not have one single personal habit or mannerism left.

I married when I was 23. She was a very clever girl four years older. She seemed to love me as I was and I, poor sap, married believing that heaven was opening for me. I believe most men have the same quaint notion. Well, when we were married two weeks she started to construct her ideal out of the bunch of junk she had married. The first matter to receive her attention was the fact that I removed—not my collar—but my coat. We were married in June. I rode an hour in a hot train. Arriving home I peeled off my coat. And was promptly squelched. Very foolishly I submitted to this tyrannical edict. It was my first false step. From that moment I was little more than a trained seal in the house. I began doing anything and everything her way. I had always been a rather genial soul. And a mighty popular one into the bargain. Well, I soon learned not to speak until spoken to and then as briefly as possible. Our return from any social gathering was always the occasion for a long series of corrections of my conduct, speech and appearance until I dreaded the prospect of appearance among my kind. I developed that hangdog air that so many men wear who have wives who are always in the right. I am now 50 years old, look about 70, sit in a corner, am seldom spoken to, and have as much personality as a wet hen with a chill.

There is nothing that can be done about my case, but I am writing you on behalf of that young husband. Please, for his sake, publish my letter. Let him be on his guard. If he gives in to the egotism of his wife now he will be a mere puppet dancing to her tune all the rest of his life. Better to eat alone now in self-respect than to live his life alone in the ignominy of abasement as I have done. Far better to let her go than submit to her tyranny and earn her contempt.

REFORMED HUSBAND.

And that's that. But judging by this letter we would say there was a good deal of pep and personality left in this particular victim of feminine efficiency. Why not began to exercise both? It is never too late to stop doing the wrong thing. And if we had been a hang-dog husband for 27 years we would even things up by being a gay-dog husband for whatever years remained! If that be treason we will probably be hung at sunrise.

Reno Resents Slurs Of Nevada Bishop

Reno, Nev., April 6 (U.P.).—Reno has publicly announced its resentment against statements made by the Right Rev. Thomas Jenkins, Episcopal Bishop of Nevada, to the press while he was traveling in the East. In a statement from Chicago the reverend was quoted as saying, "While in Europe last spring I heard of only three American cities, New York with its wealth, Chicago with its racketeers and Reno with its love racketeers."

At meetings of luncheon clubs and in newspaper editorials Reno denied it was running a "racket."

Neuritis

There is no pain like Neuritis. There is nothing quite so torturing—so utterly unbearable as Neuritis. It robs life of all joy—and makes people desperate. But Neuritis is not hopeless—it responds to proper treatment. A well-known physician has written us, "Have been drinking Mountain Valley Water for six weeks for Neuritis and am feeling better than I have for two years." Mountain Valley Mineral Water from Hot Springs, Ark., brings relief to Neuritis because it gets at the root of the trouble—it tends to neutralize the acids which are irritating the nerves and retards the further accumulation of these acids by aiding healthy, normal elimination through the kidneys. Renew your hope—learn how Nature can help you. Phone for our booklet today. Met. 1062.

CHILDREN SHOULD HAVE WHOLESOME DESSERTS DAILY

Puddings and Custards Essential for Maintaining Correct Weight

Puddings made of rice, tapioca or cornstarch; custards and ice cream are appropriate desserts for the development of the growing child who is underweight. Such a dessert not only supplements the other food in the meal but causes the child to leave the table satisfied.

The part sugar plays in making these desserts appealing should be considered in relation to other foods. Those which are carriers of vitamins, minerals and roughage can be made as inviting as desserts by the use of sugar as a flavor. Cabbage, onions, cauliflower, turnips, tomatoes, peas and other vegetables—canned or fresh—are much improved in appetizing qualities when seasoned with a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt. Likewise sugar is ideal on fruits and cereals.

Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar. For, when the flavor of a food is inviting to the taste, the flow of gastric juices is increased, thus aiding digestion. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

$759,211 IN ESTATE OF MRS. TOWNSEND

Other Property Outside City Will Increase Total; Bequests Revealed.

Numerous bequests are provided for in the will of the late Mrs. Mary Scott Townsend, wealthy social leader, who died March 23, according to a petition for probate of her will, which was filed yesterday.

The estate within the District of Columbia is valued at $759,211. Besides this, there is real estate in Pennsylvania and Virginia as well as securities that are being held in other jurisdictions. The value of the real estate and the securities is not shown.

Sumner Welles, a son-in-law, is given $50,000. Frederick Holman and Marie Calder are given $3,000 each. $2,000 goes to Arthur Campbell and $1,000 goes to Zella Jackson, Ella Payne, Lizzie Gaines and Lucy Taylor. Woodbury Blair and the Central Union Trust Co. are named trustees.

The trustees are to hold a fund of $50,000 for the benefit of a niece, Thora Scott Ronalds, until she is 21 years old. Another fund, of $140,000, is established, the annuities from which are to go to Agnes Yandericite, who gets $3,000; Thomas Meen, $2,000, and Selma Swenson, $1,500. The balance of the income is of the fund given to the daughter, Mathilde Townsend Welles. Mrs. Welles is also named as residuary legatee of the estate. She, with Woodbury Blair, are to act as executors.

Billion in Construction Awarded in 4 Months

(Associated Press.)

More than one billion dollars worth of construction work has been contracted for since December 1 and reported to the President's emergency employment committee.

Chairman Woods announced yesterday that reports of contracts received totaled $1,028,079,178. During the last week reports were received from 38 States and the District of Columbia covering 203 projects amounting to $56,897,233.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

YESTERDAY'S inclement weather may have played havoc with the egg-rolling at the White House, down around the Capitol and out in Rock Creek's Zoological Garden, but it had a decidedly opposite effect upon the box-office grosses of the downtown theaters. What with out-of-town visitors in our midst to an estimated number varying from 50,000 to 100,000, the vacationing school children and college students and the usual theater influx occasioned by rain on crowded business streets, all of the first-run houses packed them in from shortly after noon, on through the day and evening.

It is expected that the tally sheets thus tilted will in more than one instance show total intakes of around $30,000 on the week—and that, as they say around the institutions of higher learning, ain't spinach!

"Crime flourishes when youths can go to the movies and there learn the best methods of picking a lock, using a blackjack, looting a home or blowing a safe," says Mr. Lemuel B. Schofield, director of public safety in Philadelphia, according to recent news dispatches.

I find it possible to go along with the learned director as far as "crime flourishes," but not the rest of the way. From that point on, the editor of the Motion Picture Herald seems to have a bit the better of the argument when he says, "Every one familiar with history will recognize that there was no crime of importance in the world prior to the opening of the first nickelodeon in 1905. Jesse James, Cole Younger, Henry Starr and Tracy, the Outlaw, are thus inexplicable. Also, strangely enough, the Five Points Gang and the Hudson Dusters dated back to the 80's."

With no movies to blame it on, who taught these lads their stuff?

By the way, my hearty thanks for the pretty Easter cards. I trust you, also, received the ones I forgot to send!

The viewpoint of the child seems to have undergone a radical change since the days of my own generation's early youth. The thought is suggested by the avidity with which the youngsters in the audience scrambled to the stage to "assist" Howard Thurston, the master magician, in his opening performance at the Belasco Sunday night. None seemed in the least abashed by the project of appearing before a crowd of some 1,200 or 1,500 people to participate in the impromptu developments of intervals of "magic" cleverly contrived to be comic. That is, none, with the exception of one little codger, not more than 4 or 5 years old, who was left parading the stage in a spotlight with his arms heaped high with eggs. This young gentleman's obvious discomfiture fitted in much better with my personal notion of how any tiny shaver ought to feel in the circumstances.

It is to be hoped—and I can see now that I never should have read that book, "The Mind at Mischief," by Dr. Sadler—that the experience will leave no indelible and mischievous impression on the lad's subconscious mind to plague his later years with some inexplicable fear complex.

Have you ever stopped to think that while a majority of actors stand in mortal terror of being assigned too often to the same sort of role and thus becoming stamped as "type" actors, Charlie Chaplin, hailed by no less erudite a commentator than Alexander Woollcott as not only the screen's but the world's greatest artist, achieved his place of solitary eminence by creating a single character from which he has never deviated?

Chaplin's claim to greatness rests wholly upon his impersonation of the ragged little tramp with the baggy trousers, battered derby, bamboo cane and pedal acreage.

You'd think the world would tire of him—but try to get into the Columbia!

Speaking of Chaplin, it would be interesting—if the opportunity ever presented itself—to observe precisely what would happen if he should some time make just one completely clean picture.

Take it or leave it, Washington rates so well as a show town with the Mutual Burlesque Association that the local Gayety Theater is being kept in profitable operation—along with a very few other houses on the wheel—long after the termination of the regular burlesque season. This is largely the fault of Mr. Jimmy Demosthenes Lake's galvanic showmanship, or something.

And how many times have you seen "The Stolen Jools" by now?

WOMAN LOSES SUIT IN FATAL AUTO DIVE

Traction Firm and District Freed of Blame in 1926 Plunge Into Ravine.

The plunge of an automobile into the ravine under the Calvert street bridge on February 11, 1926, was not due to negligence on the part of either the Capital Traction Co. or the District government, the Court of Appeals, in a decision handed down by Chief Justice George E. Martin yesterday declared.

The automobile, driven by Mrs. John A. Standish, was crossing the bridge in a snowstorm and was going at a speed of 25 miles an hour. It careened suddenly, crossed to the wrong side of the bridge, mounted a 10-inch rise between the bridge and the pedestrians' walk, crashed through the guard rail and fell 50 feet into the ravine, killing Mrs. Standish and severely injuring Kathryn A. Collins.

The appeals ruling was made on an appeal noted by "the plaintiff Collins," who had originally filed suit for damage against both the traction company and the District. The car company was given a directed verdict by the trial judge and the District won a jury exoneration.

The Court of Appeals declared the guard rail was never meant to stop an automobile, and furthermore was in good condition. The accumulated snow was found not to have been the result of negligence and there was no other negligence introduced, the court held.

First Ambulance Plane Is Built for Air Corps

Moundsville, W. Va., April 6 (A.P.). The first of a series of Fokker aerial ambulance planes for the United States Army Air Corps left the testing field here today for the field at Dayton, Ohio.

The ship is said to be the first built in this country solely for ambulance purposes. It contains accommodations for twelve patients, two surgeons, an assistant and the pilot. It is fitted with surgical and medical equipment.

Death Leap From Bridge Brings Suicide Verdict

Robert E. Starke, 39 years old, colored, of Thirteenth street near Florida avenue northwest, who was found dead yesterday under the highest span of the Million Dollar Bridge on Connecticut avenue, came to his death by suicide, according to Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt.

The body was found by William C. Gibbs, of 1114 Virginia avenue southwest. Indications were that the man had plunged through a tree in the fall. The point where the body was found is 140 feet below the span of the bridge. His death is the third within 60 days at this place.

Man Dies in Crash; Brother Is Injured

W. Irving Hobbs Killed as Auto Overturns on Defense Highway.

One man was killed and his brother seriously injured early yesterday morning when the automobile in which they were ridfng overturned on a sharp curve on the Defense highway near South River Bridge. W. Irving Hobbs, a steward at the Broadmoor Apartments, was killed, apparently almost instantly. His brother, James D. Hobbs, former Washington real estate man connected with the Wardman Construction Co., is in Emergency Hospital with serious injuries.

The wrecked car was discovered by Richard Williams, of Annapolis, who was on his way to work in Washington. James Hobbs was found wandering dazedly in a nearby swampy wood. Williams brought both men to Emergency Hospital, where Irving Hobbs was pronounced dead.

James Hobbs, who now conducts a realty business in New Jersey, had flown to Washington for a rest. He was met by his brother and the two started for West River, Md., where James Hobbs maintains a summer home. There were no witnesses to the accident.

Girl, 10, Is Bitten by Dog.

Margaret Mary Hamett, 10 years old, 1636 U street southeast, was bitten on the left leg yesterday while playing in the back yard of the home of Louis Hesen, 1624 U street southeast, by a dog said by police to belong to Mr. Hesen. The girl was treated by a nearby physician.

STATE AND DEFENSE IN CLASH AT LURAY

Testimony Supporting Sours Is Contradicted During Afternoon Session.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., April 6.—Sixteen witnesses for the State in its rebuttal testimony in the David Sours murder trial, in progress in Page County court for a week, today contradicted as many witnesses for the defense who had testified at the morning session.

The prosecution sought to show that Sours was a moonshiner had sold liquor around Luray and that he had made threats against Edward Buracker, whom he is charged with slaying on March 5.

Schuyler Dodson, of Madison County, held in the Jury jail on a moonshining charge, testified again for the prosecution this afternoon. Previously Dodson had testified he had heard Sours say he was going to kill Buracker.

The defense has intimated since the trial began that some unidentified person killed Buracker.

Aged Tailor's Fatal Fall Called Suicide

A certificate of suicide was issued in the case of Julius Sheers, 75 years old, retired tailor, of 1402 Spring road, who died in Emergency Hospital Sunday from injuries received in an 8-story plunge from a fire escape at the Earle Building Saturday afternoon.

The elderly man had been despondent since the death of his wife of heart disease two months ago, Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt was told. The man had been retired from business for several years and lived with his son and daughter.

Woman Hurt in Sidewalk Fall.

Mrs. Anna Keller, 40 years old, of Barcroft, Va., suffered a fractured left leg yesterday when she slipped and fell in front of an F street theater. She was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

ADVANCED REFRIGERATION

To the Father

of a young woman about to go in for housekeeping

Doubtless your daughter will receive a bountiful abundance of asparagus tongs, book ends and backgammon sets . . . and doubtless, too, there will be quite a nice check tucked away in an envelope marked "From Father" . . .

But, if you will ask your wife, she will tell you that a thoroughly modern electric refrigerator is about the best "surprise present" that can be bestowed upon a brand new home-maker . . . it's such a perpetual sort of gift . . .

Now, of course, the Bride (especially this particular Bride!) desires the Best . . . and there are many excellent electric refrigerators to choose from . . .

Did you know that Frigidaire, always in the forefront of its field, is responsible for developments in the past fifteen years that have made household refrigeration so healthful, convenient and economical?

The Frigidaire shown in the adjoining photograph, for instance, offers advantages you would possibly not expect to find in any refrigerator.

And we believe that every Frigidaire Dealer has enough facts and figures and thermometers and hygrometers to prove it to the satisfaction of any open-minded man.

Why not take an hour off, one of these days? Visit the nearest display room and see for yourself.

Incased in pure white porcelain

Frigidaire offers a new standard of Advanced Refrigeration

This new Frigidaire stands for all that is modern in refrigeration. It provides a service so complete, so far beyond the ordinary, that once you investigate you will never be satisfied with less.

You will be delighted with the outstanding beauty of the pure white cabinet in Porcelain-on-steel . . . with the desserts you can freeze so quickly by turning the "Cold Control" . . . with the ice cubes that tumble so easily from the Quickube Ice Tray . . . with the crisp, fresh vegetables you take from the famous Hydrator.

And your enthusiasm will continue to grow as you use Frigidaire. For time and use will bring out the advantages of the seamless, acid-resisting interior . . . the service-shelf top . . . the elevated food shelves . . . the quiet, concealed, surplus-powered unit that uses current only a few hours a day.

Best of all, the very improvements and refinements that make Frigidaire the advanced refrigerator make possible many savings in the home. Frigidaire is the truly economical refrigerator to own.

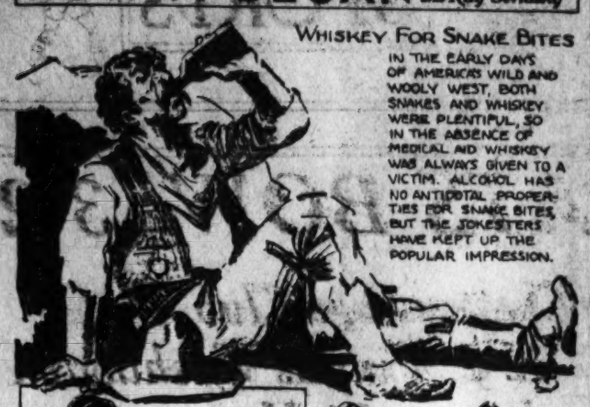
HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennesky



WHISKEY FOR SNAKE BITES
IN THE EARLY DAYS OF AMERICA'S WILD AND WOOLY WEST, BOTH SNAKES AND WHISKEY WERE PLENTIFUL, SO IN THE ABSENCE OF MEDICAL AID WHISKEY WAS ALWAYS GIVEN TO A VICTIM. ALCOHOL HAS NO ANTIDOTAL PROPERTIES FOR SNAKE BITES, BUT THE JOKESTERS HAVE KEPT UP THE POPULAR IMPRESSION.
MILITARY CLOAKS
ARMY OFFICERS IN WASHINGTON'S AND NAPOLEON'S TIME WORE GORGEOUS EPAULETS AND LACE TO INDICATE THEIR RANK. GREAT-COATS WERE LIKELY TO SPOIL THESE DECORATIONS, SO CLOAKS WERE GENERALLY ADOPTED AS A PART OF OFFICERS' UNIFORMS.

DYED SHOES POISON BABY.

IN spite of all that has been written about poisoning from shoe dyes, we are not getting away from the trouble. Reports of cases continue to come in. The Journal, American Medical Association, recently had a report of another case. Dr. S. J. Levin reported having attended a baby 8 months old who was unconscious as a result of shoe dye poisoning. When the physician was called he noticed a sweetish odor and suspected that the child had a severe attack of acidosis.

Examination did not confirm this. He removed the child's shoes and noticed that they were the cause of the sweetish odor. He also noticed that they were damp. The mother told him that baby's cloth top shoes were soiled and she dyed them black with some shoe dye. She let them dry for about an hour and then put them on. After the baby had worn the shoes for about an hour he fell forward unconscious in his high chair. She noticed that his lips and nails were blue and his skin was dusky. As soon as the child was on the way to recovery the physician took the dye to a chemist for analysis. He found that it contained 20 per cent orthotoluidine.

The trouble with shoe dyes is in the solvent rather than the pigment. When the subject first attracted attention in America it was found that the manufacturers were using metrobenzene as a solvent and that it was this chemical that was causing the trouble. In Europe, where poisoning was being frequently reported, the solvent used was aniline. The conclusion was that both of these solvents were poisonous and neither should be used.

Experiments were made with other solvents. These showed that a solution of orthotoluidine was satisfactory from the standpoint of the trade. They also showed that adults would not be liable to poisoning as long as the strength of the solvent was kept below 30 per cent.

Dr. Levin's conclusion was that there is danger in going as high as a 20 per cent solution when the dye is to be used on a baby's shoes. Since no manufacturer can know whether the dye he sells is to be used on the shoes of a child or not, or whether it will come in contact with the skin of a supersensitive adult, somewhat less toxic solvent must be found. The trade must use it, else the people can not afford to run the risk encountered in wearing home dyed shoes.

IT'S LARGELY A HABIT.

Mrs. H. N. writes: My 11-year-old son blinks his eyelids rapidly at times and seems unable to stop. This is not so all the time. He will stop for months and then suddenly start all over again. I have had his eyes examined and they seem all right. What is the cause of this? Does water in the ears cause it? What remedy would you suggest? His eyes are not inflamed, do not water and seem normal. It seems more like nervous trouble.

REPLY.

This appears to be a habit. He does this consciously and for a purpose. A great nerve specialist once advised the pin treatment for a similar case. The pin treatment consists in jabbing a child with a pin whenever he blinks his eyes. I wrote of that case and was chased out of town for doing so.

MARBERRY YIELDS ONLY 5 HITS BUT NATS BOW, 3-2

2-Month Rest Ordered for Dempsey

One-Night Stands as Referee Results in Loss of Weight.

Former Champion Is Nervous, Sleepless and Restless.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 6 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, here to referee a boxing bout between Bushey Graham and Johnny Farr, announced tonight that after tomorrow night he was going into absolute retirement from public life for at least, two months on the order of his physicians at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Dempsey's decision necessitates the canceling of more than 95 engagements to referee boxing bouts in all sections of the country. He will referee Tuesday night at Wheeling, W. Va., and after that will retire.

Nervous condition and a persistent loss of weight makes necessary the rest, according to Drs. M. Berman and Louis A. Buie, of the Mayo Clinic, who examined the former champion a few days ago.

One-Night Stands Trying Work.

Although Dempsey appears in perfect health, he admitted that he does not feel well and that the difficult routine of one-night stands, which he has been pursuing as a referee of boxing and wrestling contests, is the most trying work he has ever experienced.

"I will go to the country for at least two months, longer if necessary," said Dempsey. "There is nothing seriously wrong with me, but I intend to follow the doctors' orders. I always listened to my seconds in the ring so I guess I had better listen to the doctors who are in my corner this time."

Fail to Divulge "Country Place."

Neither Dempsey nor Leonard Sachs, his business manager, would divulge the "country place" where Dempsey would spend his enforced vacation.

The doctors' report characterized Dempsey's illness as a "nervous condition, irritable, sleepless and very restless." The doctors recommended the rest and warned the former champion that if he continued he was facing a "state of complete nervous exhaustion."

Sacrifice Hit on Fly Approved by Colleges

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Batters on teams in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League will be credited with a sacrifice hit on any fly ball that enables a runner to cross the plate in a league game, Ellwood W. Kemp, jr., secretary-treasurer of the league, announced today. The circuit consists of Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Dartmouth.

Decision to allow a sacrifice fly was reached at a meeting of the league executive committee. The ruling is a modification of the new stand taken by professional baseball last winter, when it was decided to abolish the sacrifice fly and limit sacrifices to bunted balls.

Lott, Sutter Advance In Texas Singles Play

Houston, Tex., April 6 (A.P.).—Favorites came through successfully today in the opening round of singles play in the River Oaks Country Club invitation tennis tourney here. George Lott, of Philadelphia, and Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, skimmed through the first round easily.

Lott defeated Ebbie Holden, of Houston, 6-0, 6-1, while Sutter put out James Pardue, Houston, 6-1, 6-0.

Junior Coen, number 4 seeded player and Kansas City flash, defeated Vilbrey Karney, Houston, 6-1, 6-0.

Ellsworth Vines seeded number 3, Pasadena, Calif., defeated Malcolm Baker, Houston, 6-1, 6-0.

Carpenter, D. C. Boxer, Wins 3-Round Knockou

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., April 6.—Ralph Carpenter, Washington, D. C., heavyweight champion, boxing for the Jewish Community Center, made an auspicious debut in the first round of the national junior A. A. U. boxing championships tonight by scoring a three-round knockout over Frank Shilosky, all-service champion, in a sensational bout.

Carpenter was the first of Washington's four representatives to enter the ring and dropped Shilosky for counts of seven and eight in the opening round. The Army and Navy champion was reeling for the greater part of the bout and showed extreme gameness in lasting until the third round, finally being sent sprawling for the full count by a right to the jaw.

Mike Tarduno, winner of the Washington featherweight championship recently, scored a three-round decision over Fritz Zivic, of Pittsburgh, to enter the second round of the tournament.

MD. AIDS JUNE WEEK.

NOTRE DAME SHRINE FOR ROCKNE

Receipt of Unsolicited Funds Starts Move for Memorial.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 6 (A.P.).—With money already received from various sources, although no effort had been made to solicit funds, plans for a memorial to Knute Rockne were inaugurated today.

Frank E. Hering, captain of the 1896 Notre Dame Football Team and national president of the Notre Dame Alumni Association, and James E. Armstrong, national secretary, met today with the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, to discuss the memorial project, following numerous inquiries from Notre Dame men. Father O'Donnell revealed that a number of donations already had been received in anticipation that a memorial would be erected.

Suggestions as to the form of the memorial will be made by a committee, Nation-wide in its scope, and composed of Notre Dame alumni and friends of the famous coach.

Rockne's Will to Be Filed Today.

South Bend, Ind., April 6 (U.P.).—Knute Rockne's will leaving his estate to his wife, Mrs. Bonnie Rockne, and the four children, will be filed Tuesday in probate court. The will was drawn March 14, 1928.

The value of his estate will not be definitely determined until inventory is made. His writings and motion pictures brought him many royalties not yet computed.

Berger Hits at .455 Pace for Maryland U.

Bozey Berger, a nominee—and electorate in the hearts of University of Maryland fans—for all-American basket ball guard, leading scorer for the Old Line football and basket ball teams now appears likely to extend his high-scoring propensities to baseball.

The fleet Terp has conected with five safeties in his last eleven times at bat with the ball club, for an average of .455.

Pacific Coast League Opens Season Today

San Francisco, April 6 (A.P.).—Baseball's 1931 race for the Pacific Coast League pennant gets under way tomorrow with the eight clubs more evently matched than last year and a 26-week straight schedule in place of the split season in effect since 1928.

Elaborate ceremonies will usher in the national pastime, as usual, with opening games to take place in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento.

Hollywood's Stars, 1929 and 1930 champions, will open the season at Sacramento. Los Angeles' Angels, runners-up last year, will stay at home to entertain the Seattle Indians. The San Francisco Missions will oppose Oakland's Acorns on the latter's home lot, while Portland's Ducks will help the San Francisco Seals dedicate their new $1,250,000 home—Seals Stadium.

Godfrey Wins Mat Bout Here 2 in 15 Minutes

Alexis Schillinhoff, alleged Russian, made the catastrophic mistake last night of pasting George Godfrey, the reformed boxer, on the jaw, an act which so outraged the giant Negro that he picked up the 200-pound Cossack and threw him to the mat with a crash that all but buckled the supports on the Strand Theater stage.

Viewed by a capacity audience, this exhibition was by far the feature of the card of the Sandow-Bowser wrestlers, put on by Promoter Mike Thomas. Godfrey, weighing 250 pounds, held the upper hand throughout, and exhibited a fair degree of wrestling skill, until his opponent, frustrated by his inability to toss the huge Negro, resorted to attempting to knock him out. The bout lasted 15 minutes.

In the other events of the night, Tex Homer, former University of Pennsylvania grid player, defeated Jersey City Jack Coner, in 20 minutes; Mike Miller, American Legion champion, tossed Tiger Magree, of Texas, with a flying mare in 15 minutes; Dutch Green and Paul Kohansky fought to a 30-minute draw, while Doc Enriques, of Mexico City, defeated Carlos Chaplain, of Chicago, in 20 minutes.

DEMPSEY STILL BEST.

Jack Dempsey drew larger crowds than Max Schmeling on their rival "referee tours" of Texas cities.

Yanks Stage Slugfest to Win, 23-3

Hoag Gets 2 Homers, 3 Singles to Lead 26-Hit Attack.

Macks' Rookie Shines as Phils Bow, 3-2; Kamm Stars.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 6 (U.P.).—A smashing attack, reminiscent of the Yankees of 1927 today smothered the Nashville Club of the Southern League, the New Yorkers piling up 26 hits off three pitchers, to win by 23 to 3. Ed Wells, the left-hander, went the route for the Yankees.

The big feature was the slugging of Myril Hoag, the $75,000 socker from Sacramento. He got two home runs and three singles, driving in eight runs. Score by innings:

Macks' Rookie Beats Phils, 3-2.

Philadelphia, April 6 (A.P.).—With Hank McDonald, 19-year-old right-hander from the Pacific Coast League, going the route, the Athletics scored their first victory of the Philadelphia city series today, defeating the Phillies, 3 to 2.

McDonald held the hard-hitting Phillies to eight hits and did not allow them to cross home plate after the third inning. The world champions got to Watt and Dudley for ten blows, six of which came in the three innings in which they scored their runs.

Browns Defeated by Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., April 6 (A.P.).—The Kansas City Blues evened things up and a little more today by taking a 10-3 exhibition game from the St. Louis Browns, following a 4-to-1 victory by the American Leagurers yesterday.

Blaeholder pitched the first three innings. When Coffman went in in the fourth he ran into plenty of trouble and the Blues scored all their runs in the next three frames.

Indians Win, 8-7, in 12 Innings.

New Orleans, La., April 6 (A.P.).—For the second successive day the Cleveland Indians today played a twelve inning game with New Orleans, but where they lost yesterday, they won today, 8 to 7. The Pelicans scored all their runs off Pete Jablonowski, while Belve Bean shut out his former teammates for the last five frames, allowing but two hits. The Indians kept their high error average going by making five misplays.

Lu Blue Joins Chisox Today.

Jackson, Miss., April 6 (U.P.).—Lu Blue, first baseman recently acquired by the Chicago White Sox from the St. Louis Browns, will join his new teammates tomorrow, Smead Jolley, slugging outfielder, left for Chicago today because of a bad boil on his back. He will not rejoin the Sox until the season opens at Cleveland.

Kamm's Double Wins for Chisox.

Jackson, Miss., April 6 (A.P.).—Willie Kamm's double with the bases loaded and an error in the ninth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 6-to-5 decision over the New York Giants today. Although winning, the Sox still trailed the Giants, 4 to 6, in the spring series.

The Giants jumped away to an early lead in the first three innings, but the American Leaguers slowly cut down the advantage and then wound

JAMES SAUNDERS, although without hands, chose to be a watch repairer. Despite his physical handicap he handles the minute parts of a watch with no trouble at all, and is, in fact, considered an expert craftsman at his trade. Some time ago he built a miniature steam locomotive that actually worked, which is quite an achievement for any one who has the use of both hands. Saunders also writes legibly, paints signs and does most anything any one else does.

Star Hurler Shuts Out Hartford in Four-Inning Test.

MACON, Ga., April 6 (A.P.).—Aided by four bases on balls in the ninth inning, the Brooklyn Dodgers managed to defeat Hartford, of the Eastern League, 4 to 1, today.

Going into the ninth the Dodgers found the score tied at 1-all. Van Mungo walked four batters and with the aid of one hit, three runs crossed the plate.

Dazzy Vance, making his first start of the season, pitched four innings, allowed three hits and struck out four batters. Bill Clark finished the game.

Billy Evans Spurns League Presidency

Cleveland, Ohio, April 6 (A.P.).—William G. (Billy) Evans, former umpire and now manager of the Cleveland American League Baseball Club, tonight removed himself as a possibility for the league presidency, left vacant by the death of Ernest S. Barnard, of Cleveland, ten days ago.

Evans issued a formal statement saying he is not a candidate for the presidency and that he will remain as general manager of the local club.

Evans said he "keenly appreciates the consideration given me by the American League magnates and the press in connection with the matter."

Many baseball men have considered that Evans could have the title role in the league if he would accept.

G. W. Will Continue Grid Drills 10 Days

The George Washington University spring training camp, now enjoying a temporary surcease from labor, will get under way as soon as the Colonial school reopens and continue for ten days under Head Coach Pixlee and his assistants, Walsh and Sexton.

Pixlee stated last night that nothing startling in the way of new material had shown his face. The team promises to remain about the same as last year's outfit, plus the added experience gained last fall.

Of the newer boys coming up who have shown themselves off to fair effect in the spring drill, Fouts, full back or end; Eckman, Guard; Carpenter, guard; D'Orsana, guard, and Farrington, tackle, appear to be outstanding. Another who doubtless will make his presence felt next fall is Al Vogt, the fleet end who has been nursing a bad foot for a year.

The training camp will end its career either on April 17 or 18 with an intrateam game. It will be played on the Monument Grounds.

Eastern Shore Schools In Track Meet May 16

Chestertown, Md., April 4.—The annual Eastern Shore interscholastic track and field meet, sponsored by Washington College and which was discontinued for several years while the athletic field here was being remodeled, will be resumed this season and will be held May 16, it has been announced by the local athletic board. Events will be open to high school athletes from Delaware, the Eastern Shore of Virginia and Maryland's nine counties east of the Chesapeake. Omar Crothers, assistant director of athletics, will be in charge of the affair and he is now arranging a program of track and field sports. Entry blanks have this week been dispatched to all high school principals in the area expected to be interested in the meet. The meet is open to Delaware scholastic athletes for the first time this year.

Meanwhile announcement is made that Harold D. Shriver, of Cambridge, Md., has been elected manager of the next season's basket ball team. He is the son of Dr. Joseph K. Shriver, who is a member of the board of governors of the college. Though baseball is not on the sports program here this season, one game has been carded that may interest former students. Two teams of alumni will appear on the local college diamond on Alumni Day, June 8.

EVANS SEES CLEVELAND THIRD

Rates Club's Outfield Best; Puts A's and Nats on Top.

(This is the first of a series of statements on major league baseball prospects, furnished to the Associated Press by the club managers.)

By BILLY EVANS
(General Manager, Cleveland Indians).

OUR club should be good enough at least to finish third this year in the American League race.

It's going to be a difficult problem to beat the Athletics, providing they are not hit by injuries. They look like the best bet to finish on top again.

Washington should have the best pitching in the league and a fine defense. I credit the Yankees with a powerful attack, but weakness in pitching will hurt the club.

Cleveland has the best outfield in the league, the team's hitting will be among the best, and its pitching will be satisfactory.

The hurling should be better than in 1930. Our chief concern is the infield.

By DAN HOWLEY
(Manager, Cincinnati Reds).

If we get a few breaks this season, the club should stay out of last place, anyway.

This is a tough season to get anywhere in the National League, and don't let anybody kid you about that. Frankly, I don't know how we escaped the cellar last year.

We have had to shake things up

Campbell Escapes Death As Wheels Lock at Mad Pace

Superb Driving Skill Averts Fatality at 100-Mile Speed.

BROOKLANDS, England, April 6 (A.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, world's automobile speed champion, had what he described himself as the narrowest "shave" of his life today in a race at the opening meeting of the famous Brooklands race track. He escaped death only because of his own superb skill as a driver.

While his car was doing well over 100 miles an hour on the first lap of the opening race of the day, a 12-mile handicap affair, the tie rod holding the front wheels in position snapped. The wheels locked and the car zigzagged madly from side to side on a track slippery from recent rains.

With death threatening Campbell and the spectators who lined the rail

Marberry Geos Route But 4 Walks Count in Vital Run.

Likelihood of Hayes as 2d Baseman Admitted by Johnson.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 6.—Fourteen Nationals left on the runways in today's second game with the Chattanooga Lookouts explains why Manager Walter Johnson's charges were forced to accept their third defeat of the training season. Washington's attack, in which every member of the cast except Sam West took part, netted a dozen hits, including doubles by Manush and Bluege, but the Lookouts won the game, 3 to 2, on only five safeties.

Fred Marberry went the route for the big leaguers and he turned in a good effort. He was unfortunate, however, in several respects. In the first place, a poor decision at the plate gave the Lookouts one run, while one of the four passes he issued was turned into another. The home boys were credited with hits in but four frames and, oddly enough, they failed to tally in the only round in which they were credited with more than one.

Nats Fail Consistently in Pinches.

Meanwhile, the Nats knicked the offerings of Steve (Ears) Ellis and Frank Ragland for at least one hit in every frame but the ninth, but they consistently failed in the pinches, three being left in both the seventh and eighth sessions and two in each of three other rounds. Hayes, Manush, Judge and Bolton were credited with two each, but safeties only by the first and last named drove in runs.

Chattanooga was the first to score, molding a marker from Kingdon's triple past Manush and Jilek's helpful out in the fifth. The Nationals then hustled in from the field and scored twice. These tallies, colned after two were dead, resulted from Bluege's double, and singles by Bolton, Marberry and Hayes.

In the lower half of this same sixth inning the Lookouts packed away the verdict. Dashiell, back in Chattanooga livery, coaxed a pass as a starter and took second on McLeod's single. Treadaway's neat suicide advanced the pair and Dashiell scored, or at least Umpire Higgins said he did, on Boss' roller to Judge. The peg home was ahead of the runner and, from the press box and the Nationals' dugout, it did not look as though Dashiell touched the plate. This knotted the string and let McLeod move to third, from where he counted after Rice's catch of Burns' high fly.

Hayes Likely to Start at Second.

Manager Walter Johnson admitted tonight that Jack Hayes may get the call as regular second baseman for the Nationals when the season starts. "It's up to Jack," said the Nat leader. "I've been giving him plenty of chances, and, unless he slumps mighty badly, am going to use him instead of Buddy Myer in the remaining exhibition games and to start the season. Understand, I'm not taking anything away from Myer and I think I'm mighty fortunate in having two such men around.

Down-Hill Course Aided Sensational Dash

Bloefontein, South Africa, April 6 (A.P.).—Amazed at the record-breaking 100-yard dash of J. Joubert, St. Ellenbosch University athlete, in the South African track and field games Saturday, officials had the track surveyed and discovered it ran uphill for 30 yards and downhill for 70.

Joubert ran the dash in 9 2-5 seconds, beating the recognized world mark of Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan sprinter, by one-tenth of a second.

It was considered probable today that the request for recognition of the mark as a new record would be withdrawn.

Joubert's time of 9 2-5 seconds ties the American record of Frank Wykoff, which has not yet been recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Gilman School Team Enters "C" Club Meet

The Gilman School for Boys, of Baltimore, yesterday entered a team in the C Club track meet, to be held in Central Stadium May 22, thereby breaking the bonds of a tricornered meet with Tome and the Naval Academy Plebes, which has kept it out of the local meet for several years.

Robert E. Newby, in charge of the invitations to the meet, last night stated that the move on the part of Gilman might very well mean that Tome would also come into the fold.

Among the teams already entered are Woodberry Forest, winners of the event last year, and holders of two legs on the 7-year-old Cornell cup. L. W. Dick, coach of the Woodberry crew, is looking forward to the retirement of the trophy by his team.

Eastern High, also the possessor of two legs on the trophy, stands out early in the season as the team which will offer the Woodberrymen the sternest opposition.

SANDY LASTS TO BEAT GERARD IN BOWIE FEATURE

Aged Gelding Wins Race By Head

Thistle Fyrn Third as Remillard Loses Stirrup Irons.

Our Sis, at 21 to 1, Beats Wicker in Stretch Duel.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE aged gelding, Sandy, representing the Rolling Plains Stable, at one time able to make tracks records in Maryland, took on some of his old form in the Aspirant Purse, which featured the Bowie card yesterday, and led all the way to beat Gerard a head, but was about all in when the race was over, the fastest at the meeting, run in 1:25 1-5, 7 furlongs.

Thistle Fyrn, after losing her stirrup irons, putting both the mare and her rider, Pat Remillard, to a great disadvantage, finished third. She overhauled Battling On in the stretch and disposed of him. Battling On was fourth and Wellet was the other starter in a field of five. First Mission and Kadiak were scratched after the rain set in, but the track remained good until later in the day.

A large crowd was out for the day's sport, and they were uncomfortable in the cold and rain, which began about the time of the first race and never let up.

Thurber did some good riding on Sandy, and had it not been for the tenacious ride, the horse would not have lasted for the drive, but Gerard tired slightly himself in the last sixteenth.

Gerard was made the favorite, and Sandy, substantially supported, as if some one knew that he was going to wake up, paid $7.70. Sandy left well in front of the field, and at the far turn had several lengths the advantage, but he needed all this to withstand the final drive.

Golden Storm Wins Easily.

H. G. Bedwell's Golden Storm, G. Ellis up, led all the way in the first race and won easily. He is by Thunderstorm—Goldine, and the name fitted in with the weather. The Stryker-Brewster entry was second and third, Remillard on Tarquin, which placed, and Morrison on Major General, the third horse. The favorite, Single Lady, was taken up at the start, and trailed to the stretch, finishing fifth. The winner paid $12.50. The entry was $5.90 to show, more than the place price. The time was 0:49 3-5, and the start was ragged for several of the field of eleven, the race being for 2-year-old maidens foaled in Maryland.

The Nevada Stock Farm's Jalpur, favorite, with Bejshak in the saddle, who was largely responsible for the defeat of the favorite in the first race, won the second dash also for 2-year-olds. The Palm Wood Stable's Lampoon was second and the Brandon Stable's Brandon Light third. The winner paid $4.50. The time of 0:48 2-5 was faster than the time of the first by a second and a fifth. Renick, on Bill Nora, was virtually left at the post. The start was bad. Louis O., which dashed away in front of the field, finished fourth. Jalpur displayed good speed in overhauling Louis O., and holding his advantage to win by a length. Florida's winter racers fared well in this number, getting first and second money. Twelve started.

Our Sis, Long Shot, Scores.

C. H. Sprague's Our Sis won the third race by a head from the Nevada Stock Farm's Wicker. Remillard came from behind on Wicker and almost got up in time. Robertson had the mount on Our Sis, and the struggle was one of the keenest of the meeting from the sixteenth to the finish. Glen Riddle Farm's Dock Light, a Man o' War gelding, was third, with Gold Bet fourth and Benish Way fifth. The winner paid $44.80. Benish Way, grouped in the field, led to midway of the stretch, when Our Sis got in front.

Cockrill surprised by winning all the way in the fourth race, never leaving the result in doubt. Workless was closest to the pace most of the journey of a mile and a sixteenth and got the place by a short margin over Spectacular. D. E. Froggette rode the winner in the colors of J. L. O'Neal, and the price marked up was $21.60 for $2. Butter John and Bob Kernan had been scratched, reducing the field to six. Panda moved up in the stretch to finish fourth. Spectacular was the favorite. Workless was heavily backed because Robertson had the mount, but the old campaigner drew away from him at will.

Ken Kling Wins Over Airliner.

Ken Kling, at 4 to 1, came home a winner by a length in the sixth race, with D. Meade up. Airliner was second by a nose over Live One, which was neglected in the betting. Lightly weighted, Ken Kling broke forwardly and drew clear when the field had straightened out in the stretch, and maintained his lead without difficulty.

Richard Pending's Companion won the seventh by a neck from Moon Phase. Expense was third. This was an unlucky day for Remillard, as he figured second in another close finish. Robertson gained a race on him by winning with the longest shot of the day, Remillard failing to score for the first day this meeting. Companion got away in front and held a good margin until Moon Phase cut it down in the stretch drive.

TARQUIN, in close quarters the first sixteenth, slipped through on inside entering stretch and finished stoutly. MAJOR GENERAL, prominent in the early running, continued gamely through the stretch while racing greenly.

SECOND RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start poor. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:07. Off at 3:11. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's b. g. (2), by Volta—Ida. Trained by R. P. Carman, Jr. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:48 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JALPHUR, $4.50, $3.40, $2.60; LAMPOON, $10.70, $6.40; BRANDON LIGHT (field), $3.00.

JALPHUR, well up throughout under slight restraint and saving ground entering stretch, opened up a winning lead, but was ridden out sharply the final fifty yards. LAMPOON broke well, but was bumped on the turn out of the back stretch, sailed steadily on the inside and finished going strongest of all. BRANDON LIGHT, on the outside the entire trip, closed steadily and disposed of the Grins LOUIS O.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:41. Off at 3:43. Winner, C. H. Sprague's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OUR SIS, $44.80, $17.60, $11.70; WICKER, $4.50, $3.40; DOCK LIGHT (field), $4.60.

OUR SIS, strongly urged throughout, gradually improved her position and, drawing clear through the stretch, held on gamely when the final issue came and outstayed her opposition. WICKER, in close quarters, worked her way forwardly on the outside and finished with good courage. DOCK LIGHT, slow to get going, gained steadily the final three furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:13. Off at 4:19. Winner, J. L. O'Neal's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—COCKRILL, $21.60, $9.60, $5.60; WORKLESS, $4.70, $3.20; SPECTACULAR, $2.90.

COCKRILL sprinted into a good lead at the start, maintained his advantage to the end, but was stopping. WORKLESS, well up throughout, closed resolutely and was rapidly overtaking the winner. SPECTACULAR outlasted PANDA in the final drive.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Aspirant. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, ridden out. Went to post at 4:46. Off at 4:48. Winner, Rolling Plains Stable's b. or br. g. (8), by Sand Mole—Affiance. Trained by R. B. Odom. Value to winner, $975; second, $250; third, $125; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SANDY, $7.70, $3.90, $2.50; GERARD, $2.90, $2.20; THISTLE FYRN, $2.30.

SANDY, going in his best form, raced in close pursuit of the leader the first three furlongs under steadying restraint. He took command with a rush when called upon and, finishing strongly under a strong hand ride, outlasted GERARD when the final issue came. The latter, close up throughout, was taken to the inside in the deepest part of the track the final quarter mile and hung in the closing strides. THISTLE FYRN, lightly rated in the early running, dropped back rounding the turn when Remillard lost both his stirrup irons, but she easily shook off BATTLING ON in the stretch run. The latter displayed high speed for five furlongs, then tired. WELLET was always outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start poor from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:18. Off at 5:20½. Winner, F. Cammarata's ch. g. *Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KEN KLING, $10.00, $6.60, $4.30; AIRLINER, $8.10, $6.80; LIVE ONE, $11.20.

KEN KLING broke forwardly on the outside and was a prominent factor the early stages, drew clear when straightened out in the stretch and maintained his lead gamely under punishment. AIRLINER, slow to break, was crowded back going to the first turn. He gradually improved his position the first half mile on the inside, then taken around the field, gained steadily and wore LIVE ONE down the last stride. The latter broke running and raced VERVE into defeat. He made a game effort when challenged, but tired in the stretch run. FOURTH WARD, forced to pull up when the start came, improved his position steadily while overcoming repeated interference and ran a creditable race. YOUNG JOHN, well up all the way, was blocked on the stretch. DELCO DEL raced evenly. VERVE retired the final quarter mile. FRANOCK, hard urged, could never get up.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:52. Off at 5:53½. Winner, R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—COMPANION, $7.90, $3.90, $3.30; MOON PHASE, $4.60, $3.40; EXPENSE, $5.90.

COMPANION, away alertly, was placed close to early leaders, took command under restraint at five-furlong pole, opened daylight around last are, but was tiring at the end. MOON PHASE, allowed to find stride for half a mile, moved up strongly in the last three furlongs, but was held in concluding strides. EXPENSE, erratically handled and bumped back in run through back stretch, closed resolutely in last quarter of a mile and was running over leaders at the end. ISOSTACY, in close quarters in early running, closed a great rap when clear. FOUNDATION STONE showed early speed.

The Dimmer Triumphs In Sydney Cup Race

Randwick Racecourse, New South Wales, April 6 (A.P.).—The Dimmer, at odds of 7 to 2 against, won the Sydney Cup today from a field of twelve horses and before 50,000 spectators.

The Dimmer was back in the field to the stretch, but there he moved up, took command and won going away by three lengths.

Alcman, at 20 to 1, was second, and Donald, at 16 to 1, third. Only a head separated the second and third horses.

LONG SHOT WINNER.

Longchamps, France, April 6 (A.P.).—A rank outsider, La Savoyarde today won the feature race at the opening of the flat racing season, taking the Prix des Sablons by a length and a half from Lovelace. Chateau Bouscaut was third.

La Savoyarde won $4,000 for his owner, Rene Lazard, and paid the nice odds of six to one in the parimutuels.

Insco Takes Workout In Mud at Louisville

Louisville, Ky., April 6 (U.P.).—The racing strip at Churchill Downs continues in a boggy condition, due to almost incessant rains, and training of Kentucky Derby candidates at the track has been retarded materially.

The condition of the track did not, however, deter Griffin Watkins' Insco from galloping a mile this morning. This sturdy son of Sir Galahad III has been working out more regularly than any other 3-year-old luminary on the grounds. His extended move today was made in 1:52.

Other derby nominees out for exercise were Pittsburgher, First Vote, Judge Lueders and Chief John.

Reports from Lexington, where many derby eligibles are in training, tell of a 6-furlong trial by Oswego over a treacherous track.

NOW "SEAHAWKS."

The Corpus Christi team of the Texas Rio Grande Valley league is to be called the "Seahawks." A previous nickname, "Blue Waves," was held "too effeminate."

HEALY SHIPS STRING TO PIMLICO

Will Van 28 From Benning; Essare on Schooling List.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE, Md., April 6.—J. W. Healy, who is handling a powerful string, including Mate, a Preakness and Kentucky Derby candidate, will ship 28 horses tomorrow from Benning to Pimlico. On the days he has anything to race at Havre de Grace, Healy will van his charges to the Harford County track, which opens the second lap of Maryland's spring season on April 13.

J. P. Richardson shipped the California Stable's General A and All Stake to Jamaica last night. He has seventeen horses quartered at the New York course.

Tom McCreery, who handles the Howe Stable's thoroughbreds, has nominated all his English horses for the stakes to be run this summer at Arlington Park, Ill.

Frank Capra's Flying Phantom is suffering from blood poisoning in his right hind leg.

Griffin Watkins' Insco, a Preakness candidate, is a certain starter in the May 9 classic at Pimlico, if he continues to train on. That is the word sent here today from Kentucky.

Joe Marinelli, one of the best apprentice riders on the grounds, seems unable to get mounts. This lad can do 102 pounds and is under contract to Pud McDaniel.

Essare joined the schooling list, which numbers an even dozen bad actors.

G. C. Winfrey's Boris, 5-year-old bay gelded son of Craigangower—Ecstarina, ran a nail into his foot and had to be scratched from today's card. He will be included in the shipment that will go to New York on Saturday night.

R. Morrison, after riding in the day's opener, canceled his remaining engagements to visit a dentist in Baltimore.

Uncle Jim Arthur, who has a breeding farm in the Long Green Valley, is ill at his home in Baltimore.

Maryland-bred racers are becoming more popular yearly. Fourteen nominations were made for today's 2-year-old race. Owners are endeavoring to get Maryland-bred youngsters, for it means additional fees whenever they win.

Jim Bean, tutor, is ill in Washington, is said to have taken a turn for the better yesterday.

Jockey Frankie Coltiletti wired Agent George Pass that he would arrive in Baltimore on Sunday. Coltiletti will ride on opening day at Havre de Grace.

Tony Pascuma had his first mount of the meeting today. His engagements are being made by George Pass.

Bert McDonald's Ducat, one that was suffering from blood poisoning, was destroyed this morning.

Ed Welter, who is schooling the horses here, had 75 older horses and 25 2-year-olds at the gate this morning.

Jim Flynn, 82-year-old Canadian, who has been clocking on State tracks for years, died yesterday in the Mercy Hospital, Baltimore. His body was taken to the morgue.

DUNLAP TOPS PINEHURST GOLFERS

Shoots 72 in North-South Amateur, Despite Rain.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6 (A.P.).—Defying a drizzling rain that sent the scores of some of his opponents skyrocketing, George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, shot a 72 today to take a five-stroke lead at the end of 18 holes in the 36-hole qualifying round of the thirty-first annual North and South amateur golf championship.

The Princeton golfer and intercollegiate champion went out in 38, after trouble on the first and ninth holes caused him to go one over par on each.

Getting his bearings at the turn, he swept down the in-nine in 34, one under par for his 72, one over par for the 18 holes.

The final 18 holes of the qualifying round will be played tomorrow.

Tailer and Tufts Tie for Second.

Seventy-seven was the best any of the others could do on the first 18 holes. T. Suffren Tailer, Newport, R. I., another Princeton player, and Richard S. Tufts, Pinehurst, were tied at this figure for second place. Tailer was out in 39 and back in 38, while Tufts reversed these figures.

Eugene Homans, Englewood, N. J., defending champion, was farther down the line with 41-38—79 to tie for sixth position; M. P. Warner, Chicago, duplicated this score.

Ahead of these two were Robert G. Morrison, Pittsburgh, and Sidney W. Noyes, Jr., Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., tied for fourth place with 78's.

Noyes, a member of the Yale golf team, went out in par, 36, and at the eighteenth hole needed a par 4 for 74 and second place. His drive was trapped, however, and he wound up with four putts for an eight for the hole and 42 for the in-nine.

St. Alban's Nine Plays Episcopal High Today

With Ned Shippen, captain and veteran outfielder, and Big Bob Freeman, hard-hitting second sacker, in the line-up the St. Alban's baseball team will step into its diamond season today at Alexandria, when Episcopal High, recent conquerors of Business High, is engaged at 3:30 o'clock.

Despite the loss of Ed Crouch, pitching mainstay, the Saints are looking forward to a good season. Coached by the Rev. James Henderson, the club has a couple of good pitchers in Watson and Patton. W. B. Asher is manager.

Ten games are on the schedule to date, but contests with Swavely and Woodberry Forest probably will accrue.

The schedule:

April 7, Episcopal, there; 11, Forrest Park, home; 24, Camp Chesapeake, there; 25, Christ Church, there; 28, Georgetown Prep, home.

May 2, Episcopal Academy, home; 8, Gilman, there; 11, Mount St. Joseph's, home; 14, Georgetown Prep, there; 16, Shenandoah Valley, there.

Collins Threatens Shake-up of Sox.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6 (A.P.).—Manager "Shano" Collins took to the war path here today when his Boston Red Sox were defeated for the third successive day by the Indianapolis Indians, 11 to 6. He threatened a wholesale shake-up before tomorrow's game at Columbus, Ohio.

George Smith, Indian hurler, held the Sox to eight scattered hits. Smith and Boone, his relief, handed out twelve passes, but the punchless major leaguers had fourteen men left on base. Lisenbee went the entire distance, eight innings by agreement, and was slapped for fifteen hits, including two home runs and three doubles.

COLLEGE BASEBALL HERE HARD HIT BY RAIN SPELL

G. U. Opening Delayed for 3d Time

Maryland-Penn State Also Postponed by Downpour.

Interest Lagging as Only Two Colleges Sponsor Sport.

COLLEGE baseball, already sliding down the long slide of the limbo which houses such sports as bowling on the lawn and hazing, has been further dogged this season by weather of the most pediculous sort. And had this unfortunate state of meteorological events not cropped up it was on the books for the collegiate fans to show a mite more interest in the diamond game this season, for they but recently came out of a basket ball season which far from surfeited their appetite for sports thrills.

Yesterday's downpour, causing a cancellation of the Georgetown-Lehigh and the Maryland-Penn games postponed the opening of the local diamond season for the fourth time. The season was due to open March 28 with Georgetown playing Dartmouth. Next in line for the honors of opening the season was the Georgetown-Vermont game. This too was rained out, followed by a similar cancellation of the Georgetown-Penn State contest.

Colrick Makes Futile Trip to Field.

Georgetown made a gallant attempt yesterday to get the season under way before every vestige of interest in the opener had frittered away. Coach Colrick took his entire squad out to Georgetown Prep, between yesterday's desultory showers, only to be greeted by a renewal of the downpours upon arrival at the Rockville pike school.

The opening game is yet to be played, and the feeling is that it is not of great importance whether it ever comes off.

Georgetown once more will try to play tomorrow afternoon on its new field, with Boston College offering the opposition. The Hilltop team has played two games this year, losing to Washington and Lee and winning from Virginia Military Institute, at Lexington, Va. The games were played on March 24 and 25. Since that time the Hoya team has been able to practice but once.

Maryland is a little better off, its field at College Park having been in playing shape earlier and the team having gained good experience during a trip south, where V. P. I., Washington and Lee, V. M. I., Georgia, and North Carolina State were played.

Maryland's next attempt to open its home season will be Friday, when North Carolina U. is met at Byrd Stadium in a double-header in the Tri-State League.

Catholic University, once a stronghold of college baseball, is not represented this year, having decided to attempt intramural rugby as a substitute. American, Gallaudet and George Washington, as usual, are not represented on the diamond.

NATS BEATEN, 3-2, BY CHATTANOOGA

"As long as Hayes hits fairly well, the job is his, for he is a better fielder than Myer and also is much peppier and keeps the other players on their toes with his chatter and dash. Myer has been slapping the ball hard in practice and, should Hayes stop hitting, Myer will go right back in the game. With Bluege and Spencer not what you would call sluggers, I've simply got to get hitting out of my other players."

Myer has not been in action for some time. A slight attack of ptomaine poisoning knocked him out at Biloxi and Hayes has been in the game ever since. Excluding today's game, Myer's batting mark is .388, while Hayes is hitting but .311. Myer has been up but 18 times, though, while Hayes has been at bat on 45 occasions. In driving in runs, Hayes leads, 6 to 3, while the latter also has a slight edge in extra-base blows, having doubled once and tripled twice as against two two-baggers and a three-bagger for Myer.

Burke to Pitch Today.

The final of the three-game series with the Lookouts will be played here tomorrow, after which the Nationals will hustle for a train headed for home. Buddy Burke will draw the pitching assignment and will be told to stay in there as long as he can. Johnson had in mind using "Sad" Sam Jones, but has decided to hold over the veteran until Wednesday when he will face the Boston Braves at Griffith Stadium.

This fracas with the Beaneaters and the one with the Phillies in Washington the following day will be the only two this spring against major league competition.

Manager Johnson has been quite disappointed at the showing of Joe Kuhel, his "$65,000 beauty." There is no question but what this young first-sacker has been working hard and he is fielding in big league style, but his batting average to date is about as low as the temperature around the North Pole on one of those cold arctic days.

Jordan Glad to Escape Night Ball.

One of the most enthusiastic members of the Johnson cast this morning was one Baxter Jordan. The shifting of Wally Dashiell to Chattanooga means that Jordan will stick with the Nationals. Not only did this latter fact please the former Newark rookie, but he has had a dread of being returned to the Bears, who had claimed him in case the Nats let him go, because of night baseball in the International. Baxter hit close to .400 until arc lights were installed in the Newark park last year and then slumped badly. "I can hit that pill in the daylight," he has said several times, "but that night business stopped me dead and I'd never have gotten anywhere if I'd been sent back where they play under those flood lights."

Infielder Baxter Jordan has been called to his home at Salisbury, N. C., because of the illness of his wife, while Outfielder Dave Harris was allowed to visit his home at Greensboro, N. C. Both will rejoin the team in Washington.

Sports Slang on Way Out; Calling Hit a Hit No Sin Now

HOW'S THE SCORE?
THE CRAB SIGNALED TO CENTER FOR ONE STATION WITH THE HASSOCKS CROWDED

The report of a ball game read like something in a foreign language.

Time Happily Past When Reporter Who Came Closest to Avoiding Legitimate Language Was Believed a Genius.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, April 6.—It may be noticed that the daily literature of sports does not contain as strong a flavor of slang nowadays as it did some years ago when it was regarded as a professional faux pas to write of a hit in a ball game merely as a hit or refer to the baseball as the baseball. I remember when a hit was a bingle, clout, poke, belt, slam, wallop, sock, crash or whack, at the discretion of the writer in the press coop, but never, by any stretch of the imagination, just a hit.

The baseball, by the same token, whatever that means, was the pellet, pill, sphere, globule, apple, onion, potato, radish or tomato, or, sometimes, the cantaloupe, and to call it a baseball in print was to plead guilty of laziness or bad taste. It seemed almost as though hit, baseball and other legitimate terms were dirty words. Incidentally, it was Mr. Ping Bodie, the stationary outfielder of the Yankees and roommate of Babe Ruth, who suggested the vegetable style of slang terms for the baseball. He used to say that he might be a terrible outfielder, but that he sure could sock that apple. He was absolutely right on both counts.

Too Much Slang Sickens Readers.

The word "sock," by the way, was derived from the verb and noun, toak, meaning to smack. It was common about 25 years ago, but was dropped after a long spell of service and became as archaic as kiddoo. But just after the war somebody dusted it off again and it has been doing duty ever since. Perhaps in time it will be considered smart again to say "go 'way back and sit down."

I don't mean that slang is avoided in the conversation and literature of sport, but that the period is happily past when the fellow who came closest to complete avoidance of legitimate language in a discussion or report of a ball game or fight was regarded as a genius.

There was a spell when if a fellow meant to say that Evers singled with the bases full and stole second he would put it somewhat like this: "The Crab bingled to center for one station with the hassocks crowded and then pilfered the next cushion."

It was a pretty terrible style and it was a long time dying. I still see traces of it in some of the college papers and on some of the minor league sport pages where clubs practice. They are following a tradition, that is all, not realizing that nowadays slang is used more sparingly. A story entirely of slang, even though it be pretty good slang, as it probably will not be, is like a meal of caviar.

No Change in Types of Nicknames.

The nomenclature hasn't improved much. Every athlete by the name of Walter who becomes famous is a sure thing to be called Sir Walter. Thus Sir Walter Hagen and Sir Walter Johnson. I take it that there is some remote reference to Walter Raleigh, but I don't get the connection, and the idea strikes me as punk. Walter Maranville, of the Braves, is an exception, but he became the Rabbit or the Rab because he was so little.

A big fat guy will be called Babe or Tiny unless he happens to be a big, fat, frowsy guy, in which case he is a sure thing to be called Tarzan. The name of Babe also seems to apply automatically to all athletes by the name of Herman. There have been about a dozen fighters who adopted it since it was first used by a lightweight fighter in Chicago about 25 years ago, but there is no point in going into the mystery of that. They are very fond of the name Corbett, too. This is much easier to understand.

Seldom Read Real Baseball Slang.

There is some very good professional slang among the ball players, but, somehow, it doesn't seem to lend itself very readily to baseball reporting. They call pitchers who are easy for them, cousins, and in the last couple of years they have spoken of any gabby party as a barber, and of long-winded conversation as barbering. Among the umpires the one who works at third base in a big series is called the ukulele umpire, because he doesn't have much to do and ought to have a ukulele out there to while the time away.

But, while this is graphic enough to the players and umps, it needs interpretation on paper.

The slang of the prize-fighting industry is largely adopted from the language of rackets. The boys make glib use of such expressions as big shot, punk, on the spot, in the middle, heater, the difference, a yard, a grand, and so forth, but I use this style of expression in print only sparingly for humorous effect or emphasis.

As I remember the old style of baseball writing, it was so deliberately slangy that the slang, far from giving pleasure, was more likely to induce a pain in the neck. The pitchers were hurlers or flingers, left handers were port side hurlers or flingers, first base was the initial station, second the keystone sack, third the far corner, the plate was the platter, the pitching box was the rise, the hummock, the knoll, or the hill, the outfielders were gardeners, there was much use of the words pilfer and glom, and if a fellow hit a fly he was said to have hoisted, soared, or arched.

Tilden, Jones Escaped Freak Names.

It may be observed that although Bobby Jones and Will Tilden were prominent in golf and tennis, respectively, for a long time they came through without any picturesque nicknames. Possibly this was because their names were a better fit than any nicknames that could have been suggested. There was an endearing familiarity about Bobby's name and the name of William T. Tilden 2d, well conveyed the rather snooty austerity with which Tilden carried himself when he was an amateur. As a pro, however, he has been a pretty good fellow and I wouldn't be surprised to hear him spoken of as Bill henceforth.

But it was the baseball literature which used to be written in such a slangy way that, to one acquainted only with the English language, the report of a ball game read like something in a foreign tongue. Most of the terms had been, at some time, rather amusing variants, but they were overworked. A story of a ball game nowadays will contain very little slang and I don't believe I have seen the baseball referred to as a globule since the world series of 1919.

OLD RING FRIENDS.

Billy Petrolle and King Tut, ranking lightweights, have fought six times, each winning three. In the last two meetings each battler knocked out the other in short order.

MARYLAND U. TRACKMEN ROUTED

Generals Win, 92-34, on Sloppy Track at Lexington.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., April 6.—Running in a cold, driving rain the Washington and Lee track team defeated the University of Maryland here this afternoon, 92 to 34. The Generals trackmen swept four events and took twelve first places to two for the Old Liners.

Edmond, sophomore sprintman, took first in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Sensational sprints in the home stretch won for Broderick in the half mile, and Mahler in the two mile.

A handful of students braved the miserable weather to watch the Generals win.

100-YARD DASH — Won by Edmond (W. & L.); second, Johnson (W. & L.); third, Ade (W. & L.). Time 0:10.1.

MILE—Won by Shure (Maryland); second, Gladden (W. & L.); third, Biddle (W. & L.). Time, 4:44 4-5.

220-YARD DASH—Won by Edmond (W. & L.); second, Johnson (W. & L.); third, Havell (Maryland). Time, 0:23.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Speer (W. & L.); second, Armour (W. & L.); third, Finkelstein (W. & L.). Time, 0:16.5.

440-YARD DASH—Won by Shephard (W. & L.); second, Smith (Maryland); third, Black (W. & L.). Time, 0:53.9.

2-MILES—Won by Mahler (W. & L.); second, Cooper (Maryland); third, Craddock (W. & L.). Time, 10:43.8.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Broderick (W. & L.); second, Brown (Maryland); third, Duncan (Maryland). Time, 2:10.8.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Finkelstein (W. & L.); second, McGlatherey (Maryland); third, Armour (W. & L.). Time, 0:26.8.

HIGH JUMP—Tie for first place between Rivers, Curtis, Cook, all W. & L.; height, 5 feet 6 inches.

SHOT PUT—Won by Krajcovic (Maryland); second, Stevens (W. & L.); third, Bailey (W. & L.). Distance, 39 feet 10¾ inches.

POLE VAULT — Tie between Duncan, Sanders and Curtis, all of W. & L. Height, 9 feet 6 inches.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Ade (W. & L.); second, Fouts (Maryland); third, Duncan (W. & L.). Distance, 19 feet 5½ inches.

JAVLIN—Won by Pangboner (W. & L.); second, Robins (Maryland); third, Phillips (W. & L.). Distance, 138 feet 6 inches.

DISCUS—Won by Bailey (W. & L.); second, Krajcovic (Maryland); third, Robins (Maryland). Distance, 120 feet.

Clark New Assistant Grid Coach at V. P. I.

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., April 6.—Lyal W. Clark, assistant football coach last fall at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will again coach the Gobbler line next fall, C. P. Miles, director of athletics, announced today. The announcement followed action taken by the V. P. I. athletic council at a meeting Saturday night.

Clark will assist Orrville Neal, head coach, with whom he played at Western Maryland several years ago. The 1931 season will be their second at V. P. I.

Clarksburg to Play Night Baseball Games

Clerksburg, W. Va., April 6.—Clarksburg's team in the Middle Atlantic League will play under floodlights at home, a contract having just been closed by Harless Clark, president of the club, with the Giant Manufacturing Co. for their installation at Norwood Park.

The work will be completed and the park ready for night baseball about May 1. The local night baseball plant, when completed, will be identical with that of Wheeling, where the Generals played and won several games last season.

President Clark plans several changes and improvements to convert Norwood Park into a night baseball plant. A fence will be built around the playing field as the first step, and new blaechers and additional boxes are called for.

Maryland Shifts Date Of W. & L. Grid Game

One of those impasses such as visited the Maryland University Football Team last November, when it participated in three games in the space of eight days, will almost be duplicated this year as a result of yesterday's decision on the part of Maryland officials to shift the Maryland-Washington and Lee game to November 21, whereas it was originally slated for a week earlier.

Maryland is now slated to play the Generals on November 21, Johns Hopkins on Thanksgiving, November 26, and Western Maryland, December 3. The move was made in order that Washington and Lee could meet Princeton on November 14. Maryland does not intend to make any effort to fill the now open date.

Alexandria Sports

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 6.—A committee to draft rules and regulation for swimming and golf tournaments under the auspices of the Virginia Literary and Athletic League for schools governed by their rulings has been appointed by George B. Zehmer, chairman of the legislative council.

Henry T. Moncure, principal of the Alexandria High School, was notified today of his appointment to his body. Others are A. B Bristow, principal of Maury High School, of Norfolk, who was named chairman, and R. L. Sweeney, assistant principal of Woodrow Wilson High, of Portsmouth.

This committee will map out State tournaments to be held in the respective sports in the various districts, with the finals to be played off at the University of Virginia.

It was also announced that J. D. Riddick, principal of George Washington High School, at Danville Va., had been named on the new reclassification committee.

This will probably be the last season for baseball under the auspices of the Virginia Literary and Athletic League. The national pastime is meeting with opposition and it was only through the efforts of Henry T. Moncure, principal of the Alexandria High School, that the sport was continued for the present season.

The St. Mary's Celtics regulars won from the Yannigans in Sunday's practice game, 10 to 7. A large crowd witnessed the game at Baggett's Stadium. Twenty candidates reported to Coach Art Ludlow for the drill. Director Corbett is planning to begin the baseball campaign in a game with the Twelfth Infantry Team from Washington next Sunday.

The Alexandria High School tossers will open their campaign on April 10, opposing the Washington and Lee High Team in Ballston. Coach Given hopes to start Jack Hudson, big right-hander, on the hill in this game.

Over sixteen candidates are seeking varsity berths on the high school track team, Coach Prex Wilson stated today. The track men will enter three meets. The first will be the "O" Club games.

PLOT AGAINST TRACK RECORDS

Rockne-Taught Grid Coaches Direct Destinies of 80 Teams

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 6 (A.P.).—Rockne football is being taught by some 80-odd coaches who got their training in undergraduate days at Notre Dame under Knute K. Rockne.

Most of these are coaching in colleges, and a dozen or more have gained more than passing fame, notably "Slip" Madigan (center, '20), at St. Mary's in California; Jimmy Phelan (quarter back, '18), at Purdue and Washington; Harry Mehre (center, '22), at Georgia, and Charles Bachman (guard, '17), at Florida.

The South seems to have a special lure for Notre Dame players. Besides Mehre and Bachman, Charles Collins ('25 end) is at North Carolina, while Frank Thomas ('23 quarter back), is moving into Wallace Wade's shoes as head coach at Alabama after working at Chattanooga and Georgia.

Wynne Coach at Auburn.

And Chester Wynne ('22 full back) is in his second year at Auburn after winning his spurs at Creighton.

Two stalwarts of the great 1924 "four horsemen" team, Adam Walsh, center, and Edgar "Rip" Miller, a tackle, are installed at two Eastern schools, Walsh chief assistant at Yale and Miller head coach at Navy.

Two other members of the 1924 team also have won distinction. Harry Stuhldreher, quarter back, at Villanova, and Elmer Layden, full back, at Duquesne.

Jimmy Crowley, sleepy-eyed wraith of that famous "horsemen" back field, is making headway at Michigan State. Noble Kizer, guard of 1924, is at Purdue.

1929 and 1930 Stars Have Jobs.

Irish stars of the all-victorious seasons in 1929 and 1930 have found enviable positions. Of the 1930 group to be graduated this spring, Frank Carideo will become backfield coach at Purdue; Capt. Tom Conley will coach De La Salle in Philadelphia; John O'Brien will assist at Navy; Larry Mullins will coach backs at Kansas, and Paul O'Connor will help Benny Friedman tutor ball carriers at Yale.

Capt. John Law, of the 1929 team, is head coach at Manhattan College; Jack Cannon, all-America guard, is to coach the line at Georgia Tech; Al Gebert and Joe Locke are coaches at Wichita and Eddie Collins is a Phelan helper at Washington.

JOINS PRO RANKS.

Rut Walter, famous Northwestern University basketeer and N. C. A. A. quarter-mile champion two years, has taken up professional basket ball in Chicago.

STOCK PRICES SAG IN HEAVY MARKET

Light Sales Show Declines Following Strength in Opening Hour.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Stocks began the normally dull post Easter season today with a slow decline.

For scarcely an hour after the opening a carry-over from Saturday's covering lifted prices about 1 to 3 points, but the heaviness of United States Steel proved to be a burden the highly professional market was unprepared to shoulder and prices tapered off throughout the late morning and afternoon.

Until the last hour the decline was so slow that trading occasionally was almost at a standstill. Activity increased toward the close, when the bear faction grew a little bolder and the market was at its weakest as the final transactions were made. Sales of only 1,500,000 shares were the smallest in two months.

United States Steel's decline of slightly more than 3 points put it down to 136¾, a new low for this year and not far from the 1930 minimum, 134⅛. The drop in Youngstown area operations this week was interpreted as foreshadowing a reduction all around, and steel shares generally were weak. Bethlehem lost a couple of points and Vanadium more than 3.

Rails Are Irregular.

Rails traded lightly and were irregular when they did appear on the tape. President Storey's statement on crop prospects in Atchison's territory, which he described as excellent, found the stock firm. New York Central lost 2, while Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio were steady. Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred provided the group feature with a loss of 11½ points on a single transaction.

Pullman, International Cement, McKeesport Tin Plate and Case losing 3 to 4 points, were weaker than the general run of specialties, although Auburn, after skyrocketing 16 points to the new high of 274, closed 5 points net lower, at 253. Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Du Pont, American Water Works and American Tobacco were down 2 or more points at the close. American Telephone, Union Carbide, General Electric, Loew's and American Can lost a point.

Heavy loan calling, estimated at more than $100,000,000, sent call money to 2½ per cent, the highest of the year with the exception of January 2, when the renewal rate was 3. The Government's withdrawal of $61,000,000 in Treasury depocits, heavy Easter cash demands, and the fact that bank holidays abroad served to keep funds from coming here were factors in the temporary situation.

Chain Sales Spotty.

March chain store sales are rather spotty, but reports so far received show a small aggregate gain. Woolworth's decreased 3.3 per cent, but there were five Saturdays in March, 1930, and a Saturday is said to be worth 1,750,000 to the company.

Speculation as to the new Government financing, terms of which are expected later in the week, had it that the Treasury would offer more than $300,000,000 in certificates, with the prospects of another large issue in May to meet about $200,000,000 in maturities. Government securities were dull today and irregularly higher.

Wheat was sold on favorable weather in the Southwest, larger receipts and a disappointing decrease in the visible supply. Losses amounted to a cent or a cent and a half. Easiness in corn was slightly less pronounced. Cotton closed 3 points lower to 1 higher.

Because of the holiday abroad foreign exchanges were dull. The French franc sagged, but the German mark firmed moderately. Sterling was steady.

COTTONSEED OIL MARKET.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—COTTONSEED OIL—Closed dull; prime summer yellow, 7.95; prime crude, 6.75; April, 7.95; May, 7.95; June, 7.93; July, 8.00; August, 8.05; September, 8.10; October, 7.90; November, 7.75; sales, five contracts.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 6 (A.P.).—Despite the first reduction that the United States wheat visible supply has shown in many weeks, grain prices took a downward course today. The weakness was a result of increased selling pressure ascribed largely to Winnipeg traders, and was in striking contrast with Saturday's lively advance when the Winnipeg market was closed. Auspicious crop reports from domestic winter wheat territory, the Southwest in particular, tended further to give a constant tendency to bears.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1⅜ cents lower, corn 1-1½ down, oats ⅛-⅝ off, and provisions, unchanged to 5 cents up.

Retrograde tendencies were evident in wheat from the outset, a circumstance due in part to the fact that a large speculative buying interest had been eliminated on Saturday's advance. Disregard shown for the United States visible supply curtailment was explained as resulting from knowledge that the decrease, 665,000 bushels, left the total stock still huge, 201,832,000 bushels, compared with 146,548,000 a year ago. Moreover, new export demand for North American wheat appeared to have slackened decidedly, and news was at hand that Russian shipments were finding an outlet into central Europe up the Danube from the Black Sea. Russia's previous grain exports to central Europe this season have been by way of the Mediterranean and Atlantic.

Railroad advices said domestic winter wheat prospects in the Southwest were never better at this time of year, and that the crop had ample moisture. Complaints from the spring wheat region of the Northwest that moisture there was deficient failed to act as a counterbalance.

Seeding of spring wheat was reported under way in northern Illinois, with farmers apparently giving little heed to Farm Board recommendations that wheat acreage be reduced.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, although corn primary receipts were less than half as large as a year ago.

Provisions reflected hog market upturns.

FOREIGN BOND LIST OFF UNDER SELLING

Latin Americans Feel Pressure; Domestic Liens Also Decline.

New York, April 6 (A.P.)—Marked weakness in foreign obligations and irregularly lower prices in most of the domestic issues characterized the bond market today.

Call money rose to 2½ per cent, the highest rate since January 2, but this strength was regarded as temporary and not important as a factor for bonds. The average price of industrial, rail and public utility liens made a new low at 96.1.

Latin-Americans Sold.

Selling pressure was particularly apparent among Latin-American obligations. Pernambuco 7s, Rio Grande do Sul 8s, State of Sao Paulo 8s of 1950 and the 6s of 1968 made net losses of 2 points or more and reached new low levels for 1931.

Other foreign obligations to decline 1 point or more included Antioquia second 7s, Bolivian 8s, the two issues of Brazilian 6½s, and the 7s and 8s; Silesian 7s, City of Sydney 5½s, Warsaw 7s, Sao Paulo 8s of 1936 and 7s of 1940, Rio de Janeiro 6½s and 8s, New South Wales 5s of 1958, Porto Alegre 7½s and 8s and Nieder Steel 6s.

The few gains which occurred in this group were narrow. The market for obligations of the United States Government was dull and prices of them showed small mixed changes.

Rail Issues Recede.

Railroad issues receded and some of them reached new 1931 lows also. Illinois Central 4¾s of 1966, St. Paul Adjustment 5s of 2000, Louisville & Nashville 4½s, Missouri Pacific series A 5½s, Pennsylvania debenture 4½s and the series D 4½s, Pere Marquette series A 5s and series B 4s, and the St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s either made new low records or equaled their old ones. A variety of other rails closed with fractional declines. The new New York Central 4½s continued active.

The action of the rest of the market showed little change from recent sessions. Most of the public utility, stock privilege and industrial obligations were quiet with small fixed changes. The dullness of the market may be realized from the fact that sales totaled $7,850,000 compared with $10,900,000 last Thursday, the last full session.

HILLYER MADE HEAD OF STOCK EXCHANGE

Washington Board Elects Gockeler Vice President, Booker Secretary.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Two officers of Washington Stock Exchange were advanced and two new officers added at a special meeting held yesterday to elect a successor to the late George O. Walson, president of the institution. Edward L. Hillyer, vice president of the exchange, was elected president and C. J. Gockeler, exchange secretary, was elected vice president. Y. E. Booker, of Y. E. Booker & Co., was named Mr. Gockeler's successor, and Karl W. Corby, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., was elected to fill Mr. Walson's vacancy on the board of governors. James M. Johnston, of James M. Johnston & Co., is treasurer of the exchange.

Mr. Hillyer, who is a vice president, second assistant trust officer and a director of Union Trust Co., has been vice president of the exchange for four years. He entered the banking business 31 years ago as a messenger for Union Trust Co. He was graduated from National University Law School and is secretary of the Raleigh Hotel Co., secretary-treasurer of the Capitol Park Hotel Corporation and secretary-treasurer of the Liberty Laundry Co. He is a member of the bar and the Chevy Chase Club.

Bank Conference Official.

He served as vice president of the transportation committee for the recent bank management conference of Central Atlantic States and has been a member of many important committees of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. He was chairman of its auditors' section in 1928-29.

Mr. Gockeler has served seven years as secretary of the exchange. He is a vice president of District National Bank, a former secretary of the Washington Board of Trade, treasurer of the Washington Auditorium Corporation and a director of Chapin-Sacks Corporation. He holds memberships in the National Press and Columbia Country Clubs.

Mr. Booker, the new secretary, is a native of Amelia County, Va., coming to Washington in 1908. Engaging in newspaper work, he became financial editor of the Washington Times and later was financial editor of The Washington Post. Leaving the newspaper profession in 1921, he entered the investment business and was associated with Crane, Parris & Co. for four years, becoming a partner in that firm.

Founded Own Firm.

He retired from the firm in July, 1926, and with George Hewitt Myers, another partner in Crane, Parris & Co., founded Y. E. Booker & Co. Mr. Myers is now a special partner in that firm and in 1929 Harry W. Finney and T. Baker Robinson were added as partners.

Robert C. Jones & Co., Inc., investment bankers, with offices in the Shoreham Building, announced yesterday that they have opened a bank stock trading department and have complete facilities by long distance telephone for buying and selling New York bank stocks.

S. Walter Bogley, cashier, Bank of Bethesda, has been elected president of the Bethesda Fire Board.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co., announce that Henry Shepherd has become associated with their local office.

Power Bonds Issued.

A $100,000,000 issue of Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. first mortgage gold bonds 4½ per cent series due 1981 at 96½ and accrued interest, to yield over 4.68 per cent, were placed on the market yesterday by a group headed by the Guaranty Co., of New York, and including Harris, Forbes & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., Bonbright & Co., Bankers Co. of New York, the Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia National Co.

The proceeds of the financing will be used to provide for the retirement of all existing mortgage debt of the company and the payment of other indebtedness, which has been incurred in connection with the acquisition and construction of property, it is said.

Ambulance Men Refused To Put Husband to Bed

Bridgeport, Conn., April 6 (U.P.).—When Robert Wheeler, 51, refused to obey his wife's command to go to bed and walked out of their apartment, Mrs. Wheeler called Emergency Hospital. A doctor and ambulance driver responded to the unusual request and found Wheeler in the cellar, sitting near the furnace, smoking his pipe.

Wheeler still refused to go to bed, so the hospital attaches decided he was old enough to know his own mind and left.

Handkerchief a Day Is Health Barometer

Philadelphia, April 6 (U.P.).—When you use more than one handkerchief a day you probably need an examination by a physician, according to Dr. Robert F. Ridpath, professor of laryngology and rhinology at the Temple University School of Medicine.

"It may indicate sinusitis," the physician declared. "Many things tend to cause inflammation of the head cavities we call sinuses. Some of the causes are prolonged colds and bad dental conditions."

Foreign Cabmen Banned in France

Difficulties Now Imposed in Gaining License to Drive Taxis.

Paris, April 6 (U.P.).—The French police have decided to halt the rush of foreign unemployed for taxi driving jobs in Paris by making it practically impossible for a foreigner to obtain a commercial chauffeur's license.

They have announced that no more foreigners would be accepted for driving examinations unless they had lived at least five years in France, or had served under the French flag. This measure even rules out those Russians, Englishmen and Americans who fought for France, but under their own flag.

The police have statistics showing that one out of every fourth taxi driver in Paris is a foreigner, many of whom neither speak good French, or know the city. The majority of the foreign drivers are exiled Russians, many of noble blood who in their spare hours brush up their medals and titles and sally forth in French-American society.

U. S., BRITAIN PLAN BANK COOPERATION

Norman, Mellon and Federal Reserve Officials Talk Over Situation.

(United Press.)

A basis for closer cooperation among the United States, Great Britain and other nations to solve the world economic depression was laid at a two-hour conference yesterday between Gov. Mantagu Norman, of the Bank of England, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Federal Reserve Board officials.

Eugene Meyer, jr., governor of the Federal Reserve Board, advanced the suggestion for closer cooperation after the meeting, at which the present world-wide depression was canvassed from many angles including the gold and silver situation and the general business slump.

Speaking of the Bank of England head, Mr. Meyer said: "I hope he'll come over here once or twice a year and I hope our people will go over there."

He added that such visits, exchanged between United States officials and those of other European countries, would be generally beneficial.

Conference Carefully Staged.

The whole affair yesterday seemed to have been carefully staged. The conference was unannounced, and attracted no unusual attention. The tall Britisher with the gray van dyke beard, who wore a soft felt hat cocked a little to one side usually moves mysteriously. Never before has he come so closely under the limelight in an official way on his frequent visits to the Capital. Hitherto his conferences have been strictly private and no American official ever went as far as Mr. Meyer did in discussing the conference.

The suggestion for closer cooperation was regarded as a "feeler." It grew rather naturally out of the conference at which representatives of the two nations which largely control international credit and finance looked frankly at the situation in which the world finds itself and came to the conclusion that it is a good idea for all to work together in trying to get out of it. Just what will develop from the suggestion remains to be seen. It depends upon how well the idea takes.

May Aid International Bank.

It may mean a boost for the proposed international bank of credit which has been advanced as a means of meeting the present situation by providing for an easier flow and adjustment of credit. This project, it was said, was not discussed at the meeting yesterday, however.

The advance reports of Mr. Norman's visit to this country centered around possible linking of the United States in such a credit movement, but this since has been played down. It is rather a touchy subject with the administration just now because of the outcry raised by certain groups in Congress against entry into any such international bank.

Mr. Norman, however, will have further conferences with Mr. Mellon, Mr. Meyer and other officials before he leaves here tonight, and the proposed bank is expected to be discussed. The Bank of England governor will be the guest of Secrettary Mellon at a luncheon today, to which Treasury and Federal Reserve Board officials have been invited. He and Mr. Mellon were guests at a luncheon yesterday, with other officials, given in Mr. Norman's honor by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador. The British financier will return to New York and sail April 14.

Silver Only as Commodity.

At the conference, there was general agreement among those present that silver should be treated only as a commodity. The advisability of all countries going on the gold standard also was discussed. China is the chief exception to this rule now, but some of the other countries which are theoretically on a gold basis are not on a firm gold basis.

President Hoover and Secretary Mellon are studying the silver situation carefully in connection with the Pittman resolution passed by the Senate authorizing the President to call an international conference to discuss the problem.

The 60-year-old Englishman displayed a persistent curiosity about conditions here and inquired about the cotton market, retail trade and credit and about the drought and its effects.

He declined to break his rule about newspaper interviews, and threw off reporters who dogged his steps as he left the Federal Reserve Board room. Asked by one reporter what he had told the Federal Reserve Board, he said: "I didn't come here to tell the board anything. I came here to find out things."

Maharajah Boasts Magic Car Windows

London, April 6 (A.P.).—The Maharajah of Patiala's new motor car has just been finished here. It is to be used on tiger hunting expeditions. Its glass enables the occupants to see out, but prevents outsiders from seeing in.

The car has silken curtains, solid silver crested cutlery, old English chinaware, a silver washbowl, a silver cocktail shaker, a dining table with cromium-plated legs, a tank for ice, an 18-gallon water tank and a 225,000-candlepower searchlight which throws a beam 1,000 yards.

GLANDULAR EXTRACT IS PUT TO NEW USES

Shown by Virginia Doctors as Aid in Fightingg Off Tuberculosis.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6.—Working with the new glandular extract which maintains life in men and animals after the loss of or injury to the adrenal glands, Drs. S. W. Britton and Herbert Silvette, of the Medical School of the University of Virginia, have discovered several interesting facts about the effect of the extract upon lower animals. They have used this extract, which is obtained from the vital cortex of the adrenal gland on cats, dogs and rats and, to a limited extent, upon humans.

In experiments upon the lower animals, both adrenal glands are removed by a short and painless operation. The animal soon resumes a normal condition and after a few days become apathetic and refuses food. This is followed by complete collapse and death. At the point of collapse, says Dr. Britton, injection of the adrenal extract effects complete restoration in about two hours. However, heroic doses must be used. The amount of extract necessary to restore prostrated animals represents more than 1,000 times the cortical tissue normally present in the animal's body, the Virginia investigators have found.

Cortical extract has been compared with insulin, which alleviates diabetes, because of its successful use in prolonging the lives of patients suffering from heretofore fatal Addison's disease. The adrenal glands are subject to tubercular infection, and the extract may possibly be shown to be curative, or, at least, remedial, in such cases.

Besides the general restorative effects on comatose adrenalectomized animals, the extract produces significant changes in carbohydrate metabolism, stimulating the flow of glucose, or sugar, into the blood stream. This effect, which really results in the supplying of more body fuel, more muscular activity and energy, has been observed on dogs and rats and is even apparently effective on tadpoles. In the case of dogs, it has been proved at the university medical school that stamina has been substantially increased, the animal being able after an injection to run in a treadmill twice as far as it could before.

In men the extract is apparently without effect on the blood sugar in small doses of one or two cubic centimeters (a small teaspoonful), but a larger dose produced a gradual rise from 90 to 115 milligrams, in 4½ hours.

In the work here the investigators make their own extract, for which cattle at Baltimore abattoirs furnish the glands, 10 pounds of glands being used to produce about a small cupful of the material.

Ourisman Company Builds Addition to Structure on H Street.

Ourisman Chevrolet Sales Co., will build an addition to their 3-story, concrete sales and service building at 610-616 H street northeast, on ground acquired immediately east of this structure.

Completion of the addition, which will consist of two stories and a roof to be used for the storage of automobiles, will give the company 19,000 additional square feet of floor space and an H street frontage of 134 feet. Demolition of two old buildings on the site of the projected structure will start April 15.

The Ourisman Co., began business in September, 1921, in a 1-story, brick building at 625 H street northeast, now housing their used car department. Their present building was erected in September, 1924. Officers of the company are Benjamin Ourisman, president and treasurer; J. E. Dibber, vice president; Robert Tarshes, secretary. This is the third local motor company to announce plant expansion plans within the past thirty days.

Sigma Alpha Phi Dance Planned.

Phi Alpha Chapter of the Sigma Alpha Phi National Fraternity will hold a dance Friday night at 10 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel. Arrangements are in charge of Don Canhan, Jack Irvin, William Genther and B. Frazier. The annual convention of the fraternity will be held in Philadelphia in June.

Auction Sales

TUESDAY, APRIL 7.—
THOMAS J. OWEN & SON, Auctioneers, 1431 Eye Street Northwest.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE, BEING A TWO-STORY SEMI-DETACHED BRICK DWELLING, CONTAINING SEVEN ROOMS AND BATH, KNOWN AS 1627 MADISON STREET NORTHWEST.

By virtue of a certain deed of trust recorded in Liber No. 5005 at folio 55, of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale by public auction, in front of the premises on TUESDAY, THE SEVENTH OF APRIL, 1931, AT THREE-THIRTY O'CLOCK, P. M., the following described land and premises situate in the District of Columbia, and being lot numbered One Hundred Forty-two (142) in Ethel M. Rutty's and others' subdivision of lots in square numbered Thirty-two Hundred sixty-three (3263), as per plat recorded in the Office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia, in Liber W.B.M. at folio 193.

TERMS OF SALE: Said property is subject to a prior deed of trust securing an indebtedness of $3,750.00, and said property will be sold subject to said deed of trust indebtedness. Of the purchase price over and above said deed of trust, one-third is to be paid in cash and the balance in two equal installments payable in one and two years, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable semiannually, secured by second deed of trust upon the property sold, or all cash at the option of the purchaser. Interest and taxes to be paid or adjusted to date of sale. A deposit of $250.00 will be required at the time of sale. All conveyancing, recording, &c., at the cost of the purchaser. Terms of sale to be complied with within thirty (30) days from day of sale, otherwise deposit will be forfeited, and property resold at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser after five (5) days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C., or deposit may be forfeited, or without forfeiting deposit trustees may resell themselves of any legal or equitable rights against defaulting purchaser.

BILLY SUNDAY SAYS DRY ACT IS TO STAY

Preacher Addresses 2,500 With Verbal Blasts Against Liquor.

A verbal blast was discharged by the Rev. William A. Sunday against the wet forces before a crowd of approximately 2,500 persons at the First Congregational Church yesterday afternoon. He opened an eighteen-day speaking tour under auspices of the Antisaloon League of America.

Fists flying, legs kicking, head butting, Billy Sunday spoke rapidly and incessantly for a solid hour. During this period he expressed the opinion that "Al Capone and Al Cohol are the two greatest hounds in America; that if Al Capone had lived in England he would have been hanged or placed in the penitentiary long ago; that the arguments against prohibition are "as weak as soup made out of a chicken's shadow that starved."

Other explosions discharged by the energetic preacher included the opinion that Al Smith "is as wet as a bathtub" and that he will never be nominated again for the Presidency; that the United States was never further from repeal of the prohibition amendment than it is today; that prohibition is not making hypocrites, but is proving what hypocrites some people really are, and that 90 per cent of the bootleggers and gunmen in this country are aliens or are of alien birth."

Mr. Sunday said that he would refuse to support any man for public office, regardless of what party he belongs to, if he is against prohibition He expressed the opinion that the young people of today are no worse than they were in the past generation, but the trouble is they have more ways of making fools of themselves, he said. He predicted that if the prohibition law is ever erased from the Constitution it will have to be removed in the same way that it was placed there, and that there will be no short cut to this desideratum of the wets.

"I hope to live until America is so dry that you'll have to prime a man to make him spit," he said.

From here Mr. Sunday went straight to Baltimore to deliver another address in favor of the dry law

Fire Damages Lynchburg Home.

Lynchburg, Va., April 6 (Special).—Dwelling of E. K. Coffey, 266 Bell street, was damaged to the extent of $2,000 by fire last night while the family was away at church. Neighbors discovered the fire.

RASKOB POLL LETTER STIRS DISCORD IN NATIONAL GROUP of the eighteenth amendment, but an amendment of it under which each State would enjoy the right to determine whether it should be dry or wet. That is exactly the result which would follow if the amendment were repealed."

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, an antiprohibitionist, who has opposed discussion of policies by the national committee, said he did not see any harm in Raskob's poll of the committee.

Some of the party's leading antiprohibitionists, however, privately expressed the view the national chairman was making a mistake in stressing the prohibition issue.

Ousting in Order, Daniels Hints.

Raleigh, N. C., April 6 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, Raleigh editor and former Democratic national committeeman, commenting on the request of John J. Raskob for members of the national committee to forward him suggestions as to the 1932 national platform, today said, "No temporary Democratic chairman ever wrote a Democratic platform."

"If Mr. Raskob insists upon such power," he continued, "the rank and file have but one message to him, 'Pay your debts and get out.'"

Atlanta, Ga., April 6 (A.P.).—Maj. John S. Cohen, Democratic national committeeman for Georgia, commenting today on Chairman Raskob's appeal to members of the national committee for their views on his plan to modify the eighteenth amendment, said:

"With high regard for Mr. Raskob personally, and with all due deference to his views, I do not think it is within Mr. Raskob's province, and certainly it is not within mine, to be dictating a platform for the next Democratic convention or candidate.

Platform Held Party Law.

"Mr. Raskob was selected as the personal representative of the nominee; I was selected as the representative of the Democratic party of Georgia to help administer its affairs nationally, on a platform made by delegates who were chosen by the Democratic electorate from all the States of the Union. That platform is party law to me until it is superseded by a fresh mandate from the party's duly chosen representatives.

"The Democrats of Georgia stood on that platform in 1928, and, in spite of huge Republican expenditures, gave Alfred E. Smith the largest vote ever accorded a Democratic presidential candidate in this State since Samuel J. Tilden.

"Whatever others may say or feel, it is my judgment that it would be ill-advised, if not impertinent, for me to attempt to control the will of the delegates to be selected by the people to the next Democratic convention."

Tennessean Scores Hoover.

Nashville, Tenn., April 6 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Benton McMillin, Democratic national committeeman, believes it is too early to make a platform for the coming presidential campaign.

Commenting on Chairman Raskob's letter the Tennessean said:

"The utter failure of President Hoover's administration is a fairly good platform to begin on. We can go to the balance later on."

Little Rock, Ark., April 6 (A.P.).—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, minority leader in the Senate, said today he had no comment at the present time on the letter from Chairman Raskob.

Louisianian Backs Plan.

New Orleans, La., April 6 (A.P.).—Commenting on the request of Chairman Raskob for 1932 platform suggestions from Democratic national committeemen, Mrs. Stella Hamlin, national committeewoman for Louisiana, said today she considers the Raskob "home rule" plan an ideal solution of the prohibition problem.

"I will think the matter over before replying to Mr. Raskob," she said, "but offhand, I can't think of anything I could add to Mr. Raskob's own plan. I think it is ideal. It is along the lines of my own thought on the subject."

Robert Ewing, Louisiana's national committeeman, was out of the city and could not be reached.

Youth Shot Three Times In Quarrel Over Girl

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 6.—Edward Fereno, 18, student and football player at Richwood High School, is battling for his life in a hospital there as the result of being shot three times, allegedly by Ernest Goad, 17, at Dain last night in a quarrel over a young woman. The youths, who both live at Dain, were returning from a church revival meeting.

Goad was jailed at Richmond by State police.

Coast Guard Searches For Disabled Steamer

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard cutter Carrabassett went in search of the fishing steamer Kroma, today after Coast Guard headquarters received a report this morning that the steamer was disabled about 40 miles southeast of Cape Henry with engine trouble.

The Carrabassett reported that no trace of the fishing steamer could be found at the position given for the disabled vessel.

CASSIDAY AND SHORE LOSE RUM APPEALS

Tire Shop Owner and "Man in Green Hat" Face Jail in Liquor Cases.

Frank Shore, New York avenue tire shop owner, and George Lawrence Cassidy, the "man in the green hat," were denied reconsideration of their convictions on violating the liquor laws by the Court of Appeals in decisions handed down yesterday.

Unless they take a further appeal before the Supreme Court of the United States both will have jail sentences to serve Cassiday will have eighteen months sentence to meet, and Shore will be forced to serve one year on a charge of contempt of court that grew out of his alleged violation of an injunction prohibiting him from violating the liquor laws.

Because of his patronage on Capitol Hill, Cassiday's case attracted nationwide interest. He was arrested within the shadow of the Capitol, and he protested that he had been arrested without probable cause. The Court of Appeals declared his arrest and conviction was lawful.

Shore's case also was the center of attraction because the Government had a search warrant with his name and address upon it and the defense contended that this did not properly identify the place. Other businesses were conducted in the same building. It was shown, but the Court of Appeals ruled that the officers, in the judicial exercise of their authority, were capable of distinguishing the proper place to search. They did not enter the other places in the same building, it was shown.

Shouse Starts Speaking Tour to Open Campaign

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee left yesterday for a speaking tour of the West, which will open his party's 1932 campaign. First stop will be at Des Moines, where he will speak tonight under auspices of the Democratic State committee and city organizations.

Other addresses will be made at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. Date for the San Francisco speech has been changed from April 16 to April 15 to permit him to be at Portland April 17 to address a luncheon under auspices of the Democratic State committee.
